NOTES ON ENGLISH ORIGINS

Elizabeth, Wife of William Stickney of Rowley, Mass. Contributed by Elaine C. Nichols, Salt Lake City, Utah.

In his will dated 21 Jan. 1664 William Stickney of Rowley, Essex Co., Mass., mentioned his wife Elizabeth, sons Samuel, Amos, John, Andrew, and Thomas, and daughters Mary, Faith, and Mercy. The Vital Records of Rowley, Massachusetts, to the End of the Year 1849 (Salem, Mass., 1928) give the births and deaths of the following children of William and Elizabeth:

John, b. 14: 1m: 1640.
Faith, b. 4: 12m: 1641.
Andrew, b. 11: 3m: 1644.
Thomas (twin), b. 3: 1m: 1646.
Elizabeth (twin), b. 3: 1m: 1646; bur. 4 Dec. 1659.
Mercy (twin), b. 14: 11m: 1648; bur. 14 Jan. 1676.
Adding (twin), b. 14: 11m: 1648; bur. 17 Sept. 1660.

These records indicate that William and Elizabeth brought with them from England the three older children, Samuel, Amos, and Mary, before they were admitted to the First Church of Boston 6:11m: 1638 and later dismissed to the church at Rowley, 24: 9m: 1639 (Richard D. Pierce, ed., The Records of the First Church in Boston, Colonial Society of Massachusetts Collections [Boston, 1961], 1:23, 25). Mathew Adams Stickney, The Stickney Family: A Genealogical Memoir (Salem, Mass., 1869), p. 3, states "At what time William Stickney married, the surname of his wife, where he resided in England, and the date of the births or baptisms of his children, the name of the ship in which he embarked, as tradition says, at Hull, or the time of his arrival in Boston, New England, have not been ascertained." The answers to some of these questions have now been determined from research by the author in the parish register of Cottingham, Yorkshire, a parish four and one-half miles northwest of Hull. There is found the marriage of William Stickney with the baptisms of his children as follows:

† William Stickney married 29 Nov. 1628 Elizabeth Dawson.

Children:

i. John, bp. 30 Aug. 1629. must have d Young
ii. Samuel, bp. 6 March 1630/1.
iii. Daniel, bp. 7 Oct. 1632; bur. 9 Oct. 1632.
iv. Mary, bp. 28 Dec. 1633.
v. Amos, bp. 6 March 1635/6; bur. 12 Jan. 1637/8.
vi. Amos, bp. 11 Feb. 1637/8.

PREFACE.

"STYCKNEY."

A NATURAL desire to know the history of my ancestors was increased by the narratives of my aged relatives, who were well acquainted with their past history. I was thus induced in early life to obtain from them all the information which they could impart. In the year 1833 I commenced to procure copies of all the records deposited in the various offices located in the places where any of the name had resided.

At first I gave especial attention to the descendants of Amos, son of William, my direct ancestor. In collecting materials to trace his line, to the present time, the records of many of the other descendants of William Stickney were obtained. The knowledge that such records were in my possession caused frequent applications to be made to me, by members of collateral branches, for information which it was then difficult to give, as these materials were not systematically arranged.

Influenced mainly by a sense of duty, and partly at the solicitation of others, I have collected and arranged the genealogy of the whole family to the present time, and I now offer this volume to its numerous members for whose benefit it was compiled.

From a careful examination of the works of Camden, and others, I am inclined to believe that we are of Norman descent. Our surname is Saxon, and significant of the situation of a Saxon settlement bordering on the East and West Fens or Marshes, and navigable water; but I believe we are descended from one of the followers of William the Norman; that among the possessions our Norman ancestor acquired, was "Stickney;" that it became a patrimony of one of his younger sons, who, on becoming lord of the manor of Stickney, assumed it as his surname.

In 1331 a John de Stickney was probably in the possession of that place, and the Arms mentioned on page 8 of the text were probably his. In 1422 John Craycrofte married the heir of Stickney, and their descendants have held it since, nearly five hundred years.

The Normans when they came into England, at the conquest, brought in the use of surnames taken from the places they were from, or possessed, with the prefix "de" (Norman-French). The eldest son continued to bear it (frequently dropping the de) as long as the family existed.

According to Camden it was the custom of the Normans' younger sons to take a surname from the villages or cities, which, in very early times, their fathers bestowed upon them; and so I account for a Norman taking the surname of Stickney.

The manor of Stickney was probably held by the eldest son until the marriage of the heir of Stickney with Craycrofte. The male line of that family appears to have then become extinct. We are probably descended from one of the younger sons of him who first came into possession of it.

Very few of the early emigrants to New England brought with them Coats of Arms. All marks of honor which their ancestors might have received were left without regret, and even the account of the relationship they bore to those in the old world was lost in carrying on the great enterprise in which they were engaged,—the founding of a new country.

In 1422 I find with the Arms of "Styckney," engraved at the head of the preface, "Ermines, three lozenges ermine," a record that "John Craycrofte of Craycrofte and Hogesthorpe 10 H (enry) 5, 1422, married . . . . daughter and heir of Stikney." [Visitations of Lincolnshire, 1564 and 1592, Harleian MS., No. 1550, p. 162, in the British Museum.] Our emigrant ancestor may have been entitled to the same Coat-Armour.

From the circumstance of William Stickney's having brought over with him a bible, now in existence, it is inferred that he could read; and from his signature on documents at Rowley that he could write; but it appears, from some cause now unknown, that both he and his son John made marks for their names when they executed their Wills. From the undoubted handwriting of John in the old bible, and from the documents quoted on pages 23 and 24, it appears he could write a handsome hand. It was not always usual to sign the name. A similar instance is given in the New Eng. Hist. and Gen. Reg. of 1853, p. 227.

William Stickney's descendants improved their advantages and obtained good practical educations. Twenty-three of the name are graduates of the New England Colleges and those of the adjoining states; others have received diplomas from its several professional schools: these, with the different offices held in Church and State, are given in the work.

The Registry of Deeds and Probate records, indicate that he and his descendants were extensive land-holders, and principally engaged in agriculture. It is worthy of remark that those devoted to that occupation reared large families, the members of which were intelligent and enterprising, and became the pioneers of many new settlements, while those residing in seaports, and engaged in maritime pursuits, have left small famil s, and in many cases these have become extinct.

The family from which I am descended were remarkable for their memory, reverence for their ancestors, and length of life. Jedediah Stickney [257], my grandfather, lived contemporary with Hannah, the widow of John Stickney [4], son of William the emigrant, and from her, through him, I learned the spot where he was buried, on which, at my suggestion, a monument was erected.

The author has collected, with great care and expense, the materials for this work, from the Archives of States, Records of Towns, Parishes, Wills, Deeds, Courts, Monumental Inscriptions, etc.; also from numerous letters received from different members of the family and others residing in all parts of the United States and adjacent Provinces.

That part of the genealogy which contains the male descendants I have endeavored to make as complete as possible. Nearly every individual has been accounted for, and his record defined. The daughters' families have not received that degree of attention, for want of time and space. The descendants here recorded number, together, five thousand five hundred and ninety-two, to which may be added many inserted without numbers.

The appendix contains brief notices of a few allied families; one family bearing the name of Stickney, the only one I have found, not descended from William, and two others who have assumed the name.

In preparing this work for publication I have received the valuable assistance of my second daughter, who, in consequence of my impaired health, has been my amanuensis, proof reader, and preparer of the index.

To all those having charge of the records which I have examined, I would here express my thanks for their polite and kind attentions; also to those who have communicated by letter, or otherwise, any information. To Mr. John O'Donnell, the foreman of the Essex Institute Printing Office, I tender my thanks for the faithful and careful manner in which he has performed his portion of the work.

Any correction of errors, or additional information, will be gladly received.

MATTHEW A. STICKNEY.

SALEM, Dec. 10, 1869.

EXPLANATIONS.

WILLIAM STICKNEY is the first generation; his children the second; his grandchildren the third, and so on. It is noticed at the commencement of each generation, and in the running title. They are numbered in order on the left hand of the page, before the name of each individual in the genealogical series. The family of each son and daughter will be found under the number they have in the margin. If mention is made of them elsewhere, their place is indicated by their number in the margin enclosed in brackets, after their names.

Prior to 1752 the legal year began on the 25th of March, which was called the first month, April the second month, and so on, January being called the eleventh month, and February the twelfth. Therefore "Jan. 12, 1716," or "1716–17," in records previous to 1752, would be in modern reckoning, Jan. 12, 1717. And so of any date between Jan. 1st and March 25th.

When a woman's name occurs thus:—Prudence (Leaver) Gage, page 12, the reader will understand that the name in parenthesis is her original or maiden name, and the name following is the name acquired by marriage.

When deeds and probate records are referred to thus:—"Essex Deeds, 9: 100," the figures before the colon denote the volume, those after, the folio where the deed or document quoted, may be found on record.

Names and dates are given as found on record, or received in letters. The usual abbreviations of the names of States and of the Months, are employed. All towns are in Mass., when not otherwise designated. b., signifies born; bapt., baptized; m., married; unm., unmarried; pub. and int., publication of the intention of marriage; ch., child or children; dau., daughter; d., died; d. y., died young; adm., administered; r., reside; ? indicates uncertainty in what immediately precedes.

To find an individual recorded in this volume suppose it to be Daniel Stickney who married Sarah Morse. There are twenty-one Daniel Stickneys recorded in this book. This Daniel was born in 1700. Find the name of Daniel among the Christian names of the Stickneys in Index I, preceded by 1700, the year of his birth, which is followed by 306, his consecutive number. The number 306 will at once direct to page 105, his name is found in the 11th line from the top. You perceive that Daniel Stickney [306] was the son of Daniel Stickney, above whose name at the beginning of the paragraph (page 104) in the middle of the line, you find 97 in heavy type. This directs to 97 in the consecutive numbering on the left hand of page 53, where you find that Daniel Stickney was the son of Samuel Stickney [30], b. in Rowley, 1690 (page 52), who, you will see, was the son of John Stickney [4], son of the first emigrant. In a like manner you may trace any one to the original emigrant, William Stickney.

THE STICKNEY FAMILY.

WILLIAM STICKNEY, the first settler, was the ancestor of nearly all who have since borne that name in America. It is inferred from records procured in England for the author, by Horatio G. Somerby, Esq., that he was the William, who is mentioned as baptized in St. Mary's Church, Frampton, Lincolnshire, England, September 6, 1592, and the son of WILLIAM STICKNEY of Frampton, who was baptized December 30, 1558, and married, June 16, 1585, Margaret Peirson, and the grandson of ROBERT STICKNEY of Frampton, who made his will October 3, and was buried October 18, 1582.

Frampton is a parish in the wapentake of Kirton, parts of Holland, county of Lincoln, England, three and one-fourth miles south from Boston. The church is dedicated to St. Mary. It is a fine old stone edifice, an engraving of which is in the possession of the author. The parish register of this church contains many records of baptisms, marriages and burials of Stickney's from 1558 to 1609. The name does not appear on these records after this date.

Tradition and information obtained in England, render it probable that the family removed to Hull, or its vicinity. I learn from Mrs. Sarah Ellis, of Rose Hill, near London, England (formerly Miss Sarah Stickney, an authoress of some repute in England and America), that "The old family residence was at Ridgmont, a beautiful place about nine miles east of Hull, where my father and his forefathers, for many generations had lived, hospitably and honorably keeping almost open house in a large mansion, and receiving guests from all countries, who generally found something to learn, or at least to interest, in my father's great practical knowledge and scientific pursuits, and where he died in 1848, aged 85 years."

The surnames of the first emigrants to New England, were derived from various sources. Those considered most ancient and respectable, were derived from places, cities and towns, as in almost every case they existed in England, long before the use of surnames.

In the county of Lincoln is situated the parish of Stickney, from which the family derived its surname. "Stickney is a large village on the Boston road, distant eight and a half miles north of Boston station, three from New Bolingbroke and eight miles south-west of Spilsby; it is pleasantly situated on the borders of the East and West Fens, in the soke of Bolingbroke, Union of Spilsby, Lindsey division, and diocese of Lincoln. The living is a rectory, value £356, in the patronage and incumbency of the Rev. George Coltman. The church is dedicated to St. Luke, is a handsome building in the early English style: it consists of a lofty tower containing four bells, nave, ailes, and chancel and antique porch. The Wesleyans and Primitive Methodists have each a chapel. A school for the education of the poor was endowed, in 1678, by one William Lovell, who demised land at Winthrope, which produces a rental of £95 per year, together with two acres at Stickney, let for £5 per year. The master, Jonathan Adams, has a house, and an usher to assist in teaching the children. The population in 1841 was 895; the area in acres, including the Fen allotment, is 2,050; rateable value £3,629. Robert Cracroft, Esq., is lord of the manor. The charities amount to about £43 a year, for the benefit of the poor. It has navigation to Boston." [From the Post Office Directory of Lincolnshire, England, 1849.]

Mr. Robert Stickney of New York City, while in Boston, England, in the spring of 1868, was called upon by an aged gentleman of the name of Stickney, who, struck by the similarity of name, and learning that he was from the United States, invited him to his house (built one hundred and fifty years before), in the place of Stickney, near by. He there saw the Coat of Arms of the family, and the gentleman gave him a view of the old Moat House, and the following information in his own handwriting, which he forwarded to me, May 26, 1868.

"This chantry was attached to the Guild of Saint Lawrence, the above represents the last portion of the building, it was called the Moat House and was taken down in 1836. The chantry was founded in 1362 in the parish of Leak near Boston. The walls of the Moat House were of stone and of great strength. On the chimney piece of one of the chambers were four shields, one of them quartering the arms of Hunston, Sutton, Stickney, Whiting, Gedney and Enderby. The other bore the arms of Hunston, Sutton, Stickney, Whiting, impaling those of Smith of Elsham. Various remains of gilding and ornamental work, showed that the room had been very handsomely got up."

"In the reign of Edward III., 1331, one hundred and thirty-one persons are taxed in Boston, of whom John de Tumby paid £4, the highest charge; among the names of the others, is John de Stickney, who paid about £1, a large sum in those days. This John de Stickney, or one of his family, was probably a member of the Guild of Saint Lawrence, from the Arms of Stickney being carved on the chimney piece. [Extracted from the History of Boston and the neighborhood.]"

This gentleman expressed his belief that both the American family and his own, were connections, and derived their name and origin from the same source, and it is hoped that hereafter a fuller account of WILLIAM STICKNEY and his ancestors, than can be given from the scanty materials now obtained, may be procured.

At what time WILLIAM STICKNEY married, the surname of his wife, where he resided in England, and the date of the births or baptisms of his children, the name of the ship in which he embarked, as tradition says, at Hull, or the time of his arrival in Boston, New England, have not been ascertained.

His son Samuel, in a deposition in 1698, names some of the passengers with them, who settled in Rowley, but nothing further.

Mr. Savage, in his Genealogical Dictionary, gives his "having come probably the year preceding, from Hull, in Yorkshire," that is in 1637, which is probably correct, as the first information obtained of him here, is from the records of the First Church in Boston, the Rev. John Wilson's, to which were admitted:

"The 6t of ye 11th moneth 1638
WILLYAM STICKNEY a husbandman &
Elizabeth his wife,
Margaret Crosse a Widdowe
Michaell Hopkinson servant to our brother Jacob Elyott &
Richard Swanne a husbandman"

"The 24th day of ye 9th Moneth 1639
Our brethren Mr. Henry Sandys, WILLYAM STICKNEY, Richard Swanne & Michaell Hopkinson by ye Churches Silence were dismissed to ye gathering of a Church at Rowley if the Lord so please."

He and his wife Elizabeth and three children, Samuel, Amos and Mary (who were probably baptized in England), were among the original settlers of Rowley, Mass. This place was settled in the year 1639, a division of the land was not made till the year 1643, when a survey of the town was taken by Thomas Nelson, Mr. Edward Carleton, Humphrey Reyner and Francis Parrot; streets were then laid out and named, and house lots assigned to its sixty original settlers, varying in size from one and a half, to six acres. The land otherwise not appropriated, was termed Commons, and every one and a half acre house lot was entitled to one and a half gates, or cow-rights, and other lands were laid out in the same proportion as these rights bore to the house lots.

There was laid out "On Wethersfield Streete, To WILLIAM STICKNEY one lott containinge one acre and a halfe, bounded on the west side by James Barker's house lott and the highway, part of it lyinge on the north side of the streete, and part of it on the south side."

Here he erected a house, on the corner of Bradford and Wethersfield streets, a little westerly of where the late Deacon Nathaniel Mighill's house now stands, 1868.

In his will, dated Jan. 21, 1664, it was conveyed by him to his wife Elizabeth, during her natural life; after her decease to go to his son John, he paying the legacies, &c.

Lieut. John Stickney, his son, in his will, dated Feb. 26, 1708-9, gave the homestead to his wife Hannah, with power to sell a wood-lot, towards the finishing of a new house, after her decease to go to his children.

Samuel Stickney, his son, in his will dated Feb. 15, 1753, conveyed the homestead to his wife Susannah, after her decease to be divided to his sons.

The portion which his son Moses Stickney, by inheritance and purchase of the other heirs, possessed of the ancient homestead, was conveyed in his will, dated April 5, 1792, to his wife Sarah; on her decease or marriage, to daughter Hannah, who died the widow of Joseph Kilborn, Sept. 19, 1853, at the age of ninety years. A part of the estate now (1868) remains in the possession of her niece, Mrs. Sarah (Stickney) Vinton.

The original settlers of Rowley, as Governor Winthrop writes in his Journal, "were godly men, and most of them of good estate," as will be shown by the fact that WILLIAM STICKNEY, our ancestor, and one of these settlers, brought with him, from his native land, a quarto copy of King James' translation of the Bible, first edition, printed 1611. This Bible has descended from father to son, in the same line as the old homestead, to Josiah Stickney, a brother of Mrs. Kilborn. He left it to his son, Deacon Nathaniel Stickney of Dracut, Mass., who now owns it in good preservation. This Bible was used at the celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the settlement of Rowley. The most ancient half-way covenant (as it used to be called), of any that could be found in the town, and various names and dates are written in it. [See Gage's History of Rowley, p. 458.]

"On the seventh of October 1640, Mr. Samu. Dudley, Josias Cobbitt, Edmond Gardner, James Barcker, Henry Sands, Rob't Hunter and WILLI: STICKNEY, were admitted Freemen." [Colonial Records.]

WILLIAM STICKNEY was a member of an important committee in 1652, to draw up "a covenant and agreement" between the town of Rowley and the first settlers of the Merrimack lands, now Bradford. [See Rowley Records.] He was Clerk of the Market, and on Jury of Trials in 1653, Selectman 1656 and 1661, also in 1661 styled Lieutenant.

The ancient possession books of Rowley, contain frequent grants of land to him, but the amount to which he and his sons became entitled in the right of their freeholds, and the offices they held, in consequence of the loss of a part of the early business records of the town, is unknown. There was granted to him, land in "Bradford Streete field," "Batcheler's Meadow," "Rough Meadow," "Hawk Meadow," and "Pollipod field."

February 16, 1661, "Voted that WILLIAM STICKNEY have the Gate on the Common laid out to him in the Rate of thirty shillings a Gate."

"At a legal town meeting in Rowley, November 26, 1662, voted that Richard Swan, Sam'l Brocklebank, Ezekiel Northend, John Pickard and WILLIAM STICKNEY should lay out sundry lots of land," one of which was "to WILLIAM STICKNEY on east side of Long Hill."

"Richard Swan, WILLIAM STICKNEY, and William Jackson, were appointed by the town in 1662, to sell Trees in the Town street to such as design them to stand for use against their houses or lands."

"Feb'y 25th 1661-2, The Selectmen for the present year Richard Swan, John Dresser, Thomas Tenney, Abel Longley, John Brocklebank, being empowered by the Towne for to Let or to dispose of the land that Mr. Rogers gave for the use of the Ministry. They have accordingly disposed of the same for the term of seven years as followeth. Imp's. To WILLIAM STICKNEY and Samuel Stickney the one half of the land, upland and meadow, they to pay £4 rent by the year to be paid in Corne for the use of the minyestry and to be paid when the rates are paid, they are to put on land twenty loads of Manure during the terme of 7 years and to make and maintain the fences."

In a Tax List dated between 1660 and 1664, of an amount of £46, 8s. 2d., his quota was 19s. 4d., and the whole number of persons taxed was thirty-five.

March 1, 1660, WILLIAM STICKNEY and wife Elizabeth, of Rowley, sold to Jeremiah Elsworth, of the same town, land in Rowley, which they acknowledged, March 17, 1663, before Samuel Symonds. [Essex Deeds, 2 : 186.]

May 27, 1662, he with wife Elizabeth and of Rowley, "for four pounds convey to James Barker of the same Town all that our proportion of land layd out to us in the land commonly called Merrimacke land being by estimation forty acres, be it more or less, with the preveledges belonging thereto, as it lyeth bounded by land of the sayed James Barker on the west, the east syde bounded by land of William Scales the northend butting on Merrimack river, the southend butting on Common land or the vilage line." Wit. Sam'l Brocklebanke and Jachin Reyner. Ack. July 22, 1662, before Samuel Symonds. [Ibid, 2 : 165.]

May 27, 1662. He buys of William Scales and Ann his wife of Rowley, their proportion of land laid out to them "in land commonly called Merrimack land being 40 acres, bounded by land laid out to WILLIAM STICKNEY on ye west, on east by land laid out to Lieut. John Remington now Peter Nash's, south end on village line, north on Merrimack River" &c. Wit. Sam'l Brocklebanke and James Barker. Ack. July 22, 1662, before Sam'l Symonds. [Ibid, 67 : 185.]

In 1660, he, with James Baley, testifies in regard to the sale of half a corn-mill by Richard Dummer, of Newbury, to John Pearson, of Rowley. [Ibid, 6 : 9.]

March 29, 1664. He gave in his deposition before Robert Lord, clerk, in regard to the settlement of the estate of "Ann Lum the mother of John Pickard." [Ibid, 2 : 197.]

In the Town Books of Rowley, it is recorded, that WILLIAM STICKNEY was buried January 25, 1664-5. He left a will, the original of which is still preserved (folded and filed) in the Essex Probate Office at Salem, of which the following is an attested copy :

"I WILLIAM STICKNEY, of Rowley in the county of Essex in New England, being weake of body, but of perfect understanding and memory, do make and ordaine this my last will and testament.

First. I will and commit my soulle unto God that gave it; and my body unto the common burying place, in the hope of a blessed resurrection.

And as for my outward estate, after funeral expenses discharged, I will and dispose as followeth.

Imprimis. I will and give unto my well beloved wife Elizabeth Stickney the benefit of my dwelling house, out houses, barne, orchard, land and meadowes that are or lie within the five mille bounds of the towne of Rowley with all the privileges belonging unto those lands, as also the meadow in Ipswich west meadowes, as also one third part of the household stufe which she shall chuse for convenient and necessary use, as also two cowes; and all this I give her during her naturall life.

As for my son Samuell Stickney, I having bene at certain cost toward his settling, therefor I will and give unto him but ten pounds more out of my estate, and that to be his full portion, and I will him to be satisfied therewith.

As for my son Amos Stickney, he having at noe time bene beneficiall to my estate, and I having procured him a trade and given him some part ye estate toward his settling, I therefore will and give unto him but five pounds more out of my estate, and that to be his full portion; and I will him to be satisfied therewith.

As for my other sixe childeren, John, Andrew, Thomas, Mary, Faith and Mercy, I will that they have the rest of my estate equally among them, as followeth: — I will and give my sone John Stickney the inheritance of the lands and meadowes and houses that I have given unto my wife during her natural life, to be his possession; provided that he pay out of it, it being a greater part than there wilbe for any of the rest, soe much of it as will make the portions of the rest equall with his portion; and I will that he selle and improve this land as his owne, paying unto his mother yearly during her life three pounds ten shillings and carefully winter her two cowes yearly, and she to injoy one of the roomes for her owne particular use during her life.

Unto my son Andrew Stickney I will and give him for his inheritance of my lands my land at Merrimacke; and if, in its vallucation it amounteth to more than his equall share with the rest of his brothers and sisters when my estate is divided, then I will that he pay some thing backe to equallize them; and if it be vallued at lese than his equall part, then it to be made up unto him.

Unto my son Thomas Stickney I will and give my village land for his inheritance of my lands; and, if in its valluation it amounteth to more than his equall share with the rest of his brothers and sisters, then he to pay backe soe much as will equallize his portion with the rest; and if it be vallued at lese then it to be made up unto him, soe as they be equall.

As for my three daughters, I will, that they have their portions out of my estate in moveables, or if they fall short to be made up out of the overpluse of their three brothers' lands, so as that they may be made all equall allike, and that they have their portions payed unto them as they come of age or at marriage.

I will and appoint my well beloved wife my solle excequtorix of this my will.

And I desire my trusty friends Maxemillion Jewett and Samuell Brocklebanke to be my overseers; — and this my last will I signe with my owne hand this 21 of January, 1664.

SECOND GENERATION.

SAMUEL STICKNEY, eldest son of William and Elizabeth, was born in England in 1633 [See Dep. p. 11.]; m. 1st in Rowley, 2, 18, 1653, Julian Swan, who died in Bradford between the years 1670 and 1673. He m. 2d in Bradford, April 6, 1674, Prudence (Leaver) Gage.

Samuel Stickney came with his father first to Boston, thence to Rowley, and lived with him till he was twenty-one years of age; he then received his portion of his father's estate, and married Julian Swan. He soon after purchased of William Acie, a freehold, consisting of "land, dwelling-house and barn" originally laid out in 1643 to Thomas Leaver, on Holmes street, near his father-in-law, Richard Swan's. It was bounded "on the south side by the common and the east end by the streete."

Feb. 25, 1661–2. He rented with his father the half of several parcels of land, Shatswell's meadow and upland, of which, by the Will and on the decease of the Rev. Ezekiel Rogers, Jan. 23, 1660, the Town had just come in possession.

On a Tax List made between the years 1660 and 1664, of an amount of £46, 8s. 2d., his quota was 4s. 6d.

He was Poundkeeper 1662–67.

A lot was laid out to him in the division of Hog Island Marsh in 1667.

April 23, 1668, "Richard Swanne of Rowley" sells him also of Rowley for "three score and ten pounds" "all of two acre lott laid out unto me in tract of land yt. was granted to be divided by Town of Rowley, comonly called Merrimack land, 100 acres as it lyeth undivided together with 100 acres yt. was laid out to Robert Swann of Haverhill my son, his part lying north of mine, bounded south by land laid out unto John Shales now in possession of Thos. Hardy, Jr., one end butting on Merrimack River the other on land laid out to Mrs. Mary Rogers as right of Thomas Barker's Merrimack land, as also a little parcell of land in a neck of land by my Crane Meadow, together with meadow laid out and belonging unto me on west side of Crane meadow Brooke, bounded by land of Ezekiel Northend, by meadow formerly layd out unto Francis Parrott now in ye possession of s'd Ezekiel or his son-in-law Joseph Bayley" Wit. Sam'l Brocklebank and Benj. Scott. [Essex Deeds, 30, 189.]

March 11, 1669–70. He with wife Julian, of Rowley, "for 40 pounds sell to Joseph Housley of the same Towne Batcheler, one acre and a half be it more or less of arcable land in the towne of Rowley, together with one dwelling house, barne, and orchard and fruit trees with easments of gardens, well or whatever profitts and comodityes is thereon, bounded on the East by the town streete, on the South on land and houshol of Edward Hazen and on the West by a swamp of the said Edw. Hazen, and upon the north syde by a house lott once belonging to John Trumble deceased, and it was first layd out to Thomas Leaver but sould by William Acie to SAMUELL STICKNEY, the whole lot as it is now bounded and described." Wit. Thomas Leaver and William Browne. Ack. May 9, 1682, by SAMUEL STICKNEY. [Ibid 4 : 450.]

In 1670 a lot was laid out to him in the Merrimack lands.

At the expiration of his lease of seven years of the Rogers land, and the sale of his house in 1669–70, he with his wife Julian removed to the Merrimack lands, where his wife probably died between the years 1670 and 1673; for on the 25th day of the 12th month of the year 1673 [See Essex Deeds, 4 : 228] he enters into a marriage contract with Prudence (Leaver) Gage, whom he married April 6, 1674.

The settlement of the Merrimack lands, a part of Rowley, was commenced by Rowley people in 1649. At a meeting held by them Feb. 20, 1668–9, the place was called Merrimack. Jan. 7, 1672–3, it was voted to call the town Bradford, and it was incorporated about 1675. The part where he settled was set off from Bradford in 1850, and called Groveland.

March, 1671. He purchased of Rowley two gates, he being then of Bradford. He was Selectman of Bradford 1671, '81, '82, '89, '91, '93, '94 and '95. He gave surety Sept., 1674, to pay the portion of John Gage, the son of his wife Prudence by her former marriage. He was a Constable in 1676. Took the "Oath of Fidelity" in Bradford, Dec. 16, 1678, before Capt. Saltonstall, and Dec. 10, 1678, the "Oath of Allegiance before Maior Gen'll Denison Esq.," at Ipswich.

Oct. 11, 1682. He took the "Freeman's Oath" and was also this year one of a committee at the ordination of the "Rev. Mr. Sims." Dec. 27, 1682, a church was organized in Bradford, by the signature of eighteen males to a Covenant, of which he was one. His wife Prudence was dismissed from the church in Haverhill, and admitted to this First Church in Bradford 7th of the 11th month, 1682–3. (His children were baptized before, in Rowley.) He was Surveyor of Highways and Fences, 1684, 1692, 1707–8.

Nov. 29, 1686. He with Samuel Dresser convey to Matthew Perry 67 acres of land lying in Boxford, and Oct. 13, 1693, Samuel Stickney and Prudence his wife ack. it to be their act. [Essex Deeds, 9 : 160.]

May 8, 1689 and Feb. 12, 1689–90. He was a Representative from Bradford. A sudden revolution had terminated Governor Andros administration, and in its stead there was established "A council for the safety of the people, and conservation of the peace." They chose Mr. Bradstreet their President, and on the 2d of May they sent an order to the town of Bradford "to convene the inhabitants and choose an able man as a delegate "to meet them at Boston, on the 9th of May. Sixty-six persons, one of whom was Samuel Stickney, met, it appears, by the Colonial Records, and confirmed the new Government.

He is styled Lieutenant, on the Bradford records in 1691.

He was grand Juryman April 13, 1697, and on Jury of Trials, 1701–8. Appointed Tythingman 1704.

On file in the Essex Probate Office, enclosed in the Will of Jane Grant, is the following "Deposition of SAMUEL STICKNEY, Senior."

"I, SAM'LL STICKNEY S'r of Bradford do testifie & say that I came over from England to New-England in the same ship w'th Thomas Grant & Jane Grant his wife, who brought over w'th them, Four children by name: John, Hannah, Frances, & Ann, whome I was well acquainted with, & next or near neighbor unto in Rowley. And ye said John being deceased, I do affirm that the Sisters of John Grant above named, now by marriage known by ye names of Hannah Browne, Frances Keyes, & Ann Emerson, and y'e same y't came over w'th their Father & Mother & by them owned w'th said John for their children. Taken upon Oath y'e 20th, 1698 before me Nath: Saltonstall Justice of ye Peace."

Jan. 28, 1703–4. "SAMUELL STICKNEY, S'r, of Bradford, yeoman, for & in Consideration of ye love I bear to my eldest Sonne SAMUEL STICKNEY, Jun'r, for his dutifullness to me I doe for his encouragement hereby give, grant, and freely bequeath unto my said Sonne Sixscore acers of land in ye Towne of Bradford abovesaid near my now dwelling house, part of ye Tract of Land I dwell on ye North Side next to Wosters land & so throughout ye length of ye land, so broad as will amount to Sixscore acres & also one halfe of ye Mowing ground on ye other side of my Land to have halfe [word illegible] for quantity and quality lying next Tho: Hardyes Land and also all my right of Lands in Rowley." Wit. William Worcester, Martha Worcester and Andrew Stickney. "Lieut. SAMUEL STICKNEY, Sr. personally appeared In Bradford this 7th of February 1703, & owned this above written Instrument to be his act & deed before me. Thomas Noyes, Justice of Peace." [Essex Deeds, 16: 110, 111.]

May 4, 1704. "SAMUEL STICKNEY, Sen'r, of Bradford, yeoman for & in consideration of love, goodwill & affection, which I have & doe bear to my Son William Stickney of ye Towne & County aforesaid. Have given & granted & doe by these present freely, clearly, absolutely, given, granted unto my said Son Fourscore acres of Land or Thereabouts, in Bradford on the Southwest side of my farm lying next to Thomas Harddys land which is part of ye Tract of land I now dwell on, with halfe the Meadow & Mowing ground that lyeth within the Same & also give unto my above'sd son all my now dwelling house, and my barn the one halfe of my house to be possest on at present with ye aboves'd. Land, the other halfe of my house, halfe of my [word illegible] after my decease only my wife to have the Improvement of halfe sd. house during her Natural life. I also give unto my aboves'd. Son halfe my upland & Meadow, which lyes in ye Bounds of Rowley commonly called Crane Meadow," &c. Wit. Nathaniel Walker, Mary Wood, Rebekah Walker. "Bradford May ye 15, 1704, then Lieut. SAM'L STICKNEY & prudence his wife appeared before me Nath'l Saltonstall, One of Her Maj'ties Justices of ye peace for Co. of Essex & owned & ack. ye instrument on ye other side to be their voluntary act & deed, prudence his wife at same time manifesting her free consent thereto & according to ye custome of law resigning up unto Grantee mentioned her right of Dower therein, as Attest Nath'l Saltonstall." [Ibid. 21 : 22, 90.]

Lieut. SAMUEL STICKNEY died in Bradford in the year 1709. His Homestead was bounded on the Merrimack River and ran back to Rowley line, or what is at present Georgetown, and was situated between the lots of Thomas Hardy on the Westerly side and Samuel Worster's on the Easterly side. He gave as will be seen by Deeds of Gift in 1703 and 1704, to his sons Samuel [12] and William [13] the homestead, William to have the house. William's son Jeremiah [49] sold, in 1724, his father's half to Thomas [39], son of Samuel, and to John Pemberton, whose part included the old Stickney house. John Pemberton sold his land and house in 1743, to Samuel Stickney, [42] a brother of Thomas and son of Samuel, Jr.

Samuel Stickney, Jr. [12], tradition says, built a house on the land his father gave him by Deed of Gift in 1703, which by inheritance and purchase was owned by his son Thomas [39], about 1730, who left it on his decease to his son, Capt. Thomas, Jr. [113], who made an addition to the old house when he married, in 1761. He lived and died there, and after his widow's death, in 1815, Deacon Daniel [333] his son bought it, and immediately sold it to Philip Tenney who did not conclude to live there but sold it to Aaron Atwood in 1820, who owned and occupied it till 1830. It had other occupants until the spring of 1854 when it was taken down; it was built of plank, with one end of brick, and was probably the second house on the Stickney lot.

A portion of SAMUEL STICKNEY Senior's land is still owned by his descendants in the seventh generation, Moses and Abel Stickney of Groveland.

Prudence Stickney after the death of her husband, administered on the estate of her son Jonathan Stickney, Sept. 6, 1714. She died in Bradford, Oct. 26, 1716, Æ 72 as appears by her gravestone, erected at the time and still standing in Bradford graveyard (1868). She left a Will dated August 30, 1716. "Being through the infirmities of old age, and other tokens of mortality very weak but of perfect mind &c.," "I give and bequeath to my well-beloved son John Gage of Bradford, whom I make my only executor, all I now possess as Goods, household stuffs, Cloathing, also a tract of land commonly called and known by the name of the Chestnutt Country alias Nutfield, which falleth to me by the death of my Son Jonathan Stickney deceased." Wit. David Kimball, Thomas Wood, John Boynton. Proved Nov. 19, 1716. [Essex Deeds, 11: 222.]

Seven children: —

11. Elizabeth, b. May 9, 1661; m. Daniel Tenny.
12. Samuel, b. 2, 5, 1663; m. Mary Heseltine.
13. William, b. 8, 21, 1665; died young.
14. Sarah, b. Oct. 20, 1667; d. April 15, 1689.
15. William, b. Jan. 27, 1674; m. Anna Heseltine, Sept. 4, 1701.
16. Thomas, b. Mch. 19, 1676-7; drowned in Merrimack River, June 12, 1689.
17. Jonathan, b. Feb. 11, 1679; died unmarried.

AMOS STICKNEY, the second son of William and Elizabeth, was born in England about 1635, m. in Newbury, June 24, 1663, Sarah Morse. After his death she m. 2d in Newbury, Dec. 17, 1684, Stephen Acreman. She died there Dec. 7, 1711.

Amos Stickney came with his father to Rowley, and was given by him the trade of a Weaver, which tradition says, he learnt from John Pearson, who Johnson (in his "Wonder Working Providence") says, had set up in Rowley before 1643, "the first fulling-mill in America," and according to Governor Winthrop this town exceeded all others in the manufactory of cloth. A ruler made from a cedar tenter post, brought from England and used in the construction of this Mill, is now in the possession of the author.

Amos Stickney soon after the completion of his trade established himself at Newbury, an adjoining town, as a Weaver, his father having (as is stated in his Will) "not only given him a trade, but some part of the estate toward his settling there."

Jan. 19, 1658. He then of Newbury, Weaver, buys of Robert Morse, Taylour, and Ann his wife of Newbury for £34, "all that house and three acres of land situate, lyeing and being in Newbury abovesayd, on the South of the trayneing greene, one acre whereon the house, garden and orchyard, is sittuat upon, is bounded with the land of Richard Brown on the South, the trayneing greene on the North, the land of Anthony Morse Sen'r on the East, and the mill way on the West, the other two acres bounded with the yard of Capt. Gerrish on the South, Richard Browne's land on the East, the common on the North and West." Wit. Wm. Thomas, Peeter Morse. Ack. Mch. 25, 1662. [Essex Deeds, 2: 81.]

May 11, 1663. He "in consideration of a mare and colt delivered him by Anthony Morse, Jun'r, of Newbury," sells him the two acres of land purchased of Robert Morse, bounded as abovesaid. [Ibid 5: 65.]

May 13, 1663. He buys of Solomon Keyes of Newbury, and Frances his wife, for £60, "all the house, barn and ye parcell of land on which it standeth, and ye whole lot formerly purchased of Wm. Titcomb of 4 acres, with privileges of a freehold as it lyeth in Newbury in south-west corner of South Field, next little Pine Swamp, bounded on land Wm. Stevens dec'd, on east side, pine swamp on north-west, the Common on south, and land of Wm. Titcomb on north end and on West corner, with all and singular ye House, Barn, Orchard, Garden, fences &c. undivided comons, profits, freehold priviledges and appurtenances, thereunto belonging." Wit. Anthony Somerby and John Webster. [Ibid 58 : 149.]

"Amos Stickney of Newbury, took the oath of Fidelity to this Commonwealth this 25 of ye 3 mo. 1669 before me Robert Pike, Com."

Sept. 19, 1670. "The Town granted to William Titcomb and Amos Stickney the little pine swamp to be their proprierty with skirts of the common, provided they make and maintain a sufficient fence about the hole, for the safety of the cattle, from time to time." [Newbury Town Rec.]

The Pine Swamp above mentioned, is the tract of land on the south side of Oak-Hill Cemetery, and was, it appears, surrounded by the common.

Amos Stickney died in Newbury, August 29, 1678, leaving the following Will, dated two days before his death.

"August 27th, 1678.

Bee it knowne unto all men by these presents, that I, Amos Stickney, of Newbury in the countie of Essex, N. E. (Massur?) beeing sicke and weake of body, but of perfect memory, do here make my last will and testament, comending and committing my soule into the hands of my blessed Redeemer Jesus Christ; and my body unto the dust from whence it was taken, in hope and full assurance of a blessed resurrection; and for my worldly goods I dispose as followeth:—

Imp's. I give and bequeath unto Sarah my wife all my household goods with all my stocke, that is to say, my cattle, horses, sheep, and swyne, and also to have the house and land in her hands untill my son John shall be of the age of one and twenty years:—and during her widowhood to have a roome in the house as long as she lives a widow. And I appoint her to be the sole executrix of this my last will and testament, and to discharge my debts and funerall.

2dly. I give to my son my housеing and land, all my meadow and frechold and privileges, to my son John when he shall be of the age of one and twenty years, as aforesaid. And my said son John shall pay out of the said land to every one of his brothers and sisters ten pounds within three years after each of them shall attaine to the said age of one and twenty years, in corne and cattell, as indifferent men shall judge. And if my said son John shall decease this life before he shall be of the aforesaid age, then I appoint my son Amos to have the said housеing and land when he shall attaine to the said age;—and to pay out of it to his brothers and sisters according as it is above mentioned, as his brother John should have done. And my said son John during his nonage I appoint that hee shall dwell with his mother to help her, and all the rest of my children to be at their mother's dispose; and my two daughters to have their portion paid them when they shall be of the age of twenty years; and if any of them shall dy before they come of the said age [The names of the children are John, Andrew, Amos, Joseph, Benjamin, Moses, Hannah and Sarah.], Then their said portions shall be equally divided amongst the rest of those that survive. And I desire my loveing brothers John Stickney and Andrew Stickney and Samuell Stickney to be the overseers of this my last will and testament.

ANTHONY SOMERBY,
PETER CHENEY,
SAMUEL STICKNEY.

SARAH STICKNEY, executrix, upon oath, delivered this inventory to be a true inventory to the best of her knowledge; and if more appears to add the same:—In court held at Ipswich the 24th of September, 1678.

Attest, ROBERT LORD, cler.

A true copy as on file.

Attest,

NATH'L LORD, JR., Register."

On the homestead and freehold which AMOS STICKNEY purchased of Solomon Keyes, he lived and died. In his Will dated Aug. 27, 1678, he conveyed his house &c., after his wife Sarah's decease, to his son John, [19] who in his Will dated May 13, 1727, gave it to his wife Mary during her life, then to his son Amos. Amos Stickney [58] in his nuncupative Will, sworn to Nov. 21, 1763, left this house to his son John, [190] who disposed of it about 1772, after its having been in the family over one hundred and nine years, and removed to Epping, N. H., where he died. This estate in 1845 was the residence of Moses Coffin, and was the next house to that occupied by Capt. Richard, Enoch, and Joseph Jaques, on what was once called South street, but in 1845, Parker street. It is sometimes erroneously called West India Lane.

JOHN STICKNEY, the third son of William and Elizabeth, was born in Rowley. 1, 4, 1640, m. there June 9, 1680, Hannah Brocklebank.

It appears from the Town records of Rowley, that JOHN STICKNEY had laid out to him, May 20, 1667, a lot on Hog Island Marshes. Jan. 16, 1673, he was appointed Overseer for the west end of the town.

He was one of the twelve men impressed from Rowley, Nov. 29, 1675, by Capt. Samuel Brocklebank to serve in King Philip's War. He was in the bloody action of Dec. 19, 1675, and assisted in the capture of the Narragansett Fort.

"March 24, 1675. Military Service Dr. to JOHN STICKNEY under Major Appleton, 02: 14: 00." [See Account Book of John Hull, the Treasurer of the Colony.]

He was also in the fight with the Indians at Sudbury, April 21, 1676, where his Captain, Samuel Brocklebank (whose daughter he afterwards married), was slain by the Indians.

In 1733 there was granted to JOHN STICKNEY and others, for their service in King Philip's War—"Narragansett No. 1," now Buxton, Maine. In the Boston Post-Boy and Advertiser of Nov. 18, 1767, his heirs with others were notified of having unpaid taxes due on this land, his amt. being £1 0 3¼.

In 1677 there was laid out to him in Rowley, a lot of 15 acres on the North-east of Hunsley Hill; also "To Leaftenant Stickney 11 acres marked J. S." He was one of a committee to lay out land to Daniel Wicom 20, 10, 1677, and Jan. 22, 1677, one of a committee to see who were entitled to freeholds in the town. He was then the owner of three.

Dec. 10, 1678. He took the "Oath of Allegiance before the Honored Maior Gen'll Denison, Esq'r." He was on the Jury of the Court of Sessions, Mch. 30, 1679, Mch. 28, 1682, and Mch. 1681.

He with "John Pickard, Ez. Northen, Daniel Wicom, Ezekiel Mighill and Thomas Lambert" were chosen by the town, Feb. 21, 1680, "to lay out land in West end Ox pasture." In 1680 to "Leaftenant JOHN STICKNE as his right was granted 21 acres of land by Mrs. Dole's, Sam'l Bointon, Nicholas Jackson and Jachin Raynor's."

JOHN STICKNEY was elected a Selectman of Rowley, May 21, 1688, also May 6, 1689, at which time a meeting was held and Deacon John Pearson, Jr., and Quartermaster Daniel Wicom, were chosen to represent Rowley in the General Court. (At the same time Samuel Stickney, brother of John, was chosen representative from Bradford.)

On a Tax list of Jan. 9, 1691, of an amount of £394, 17s 5d. "Lieut. JOHN STICKNEE" quota was £5 2s. There were 135 persons taxed. He was then one of the Selectmen.

The estate of Capt. Samuel Brocklebank (his father-in-law) was settled by an agreement among the heirs, June 17, 1691, to which is attached the autograph signature of "JOHN STICKNEE." [Essex Probate.]

"At a Meeting of the inhabitants of Rowley Feb. 25, 1694–5 Capt. Daniel Wicom, Lieut. JOHN STICKNEY, Corp'l John Hopkinson and Joseph Boynton were chosen to view the house that was Mr. Ezekiel Rogers', to see whether there were any timber or anything belonging to said house that might be useful towards building another house for the town, and to make a return to the town." "March 1695-6, Voted to build a new Meeting house, and Capt. Daniel Wicom, Lieut. John Dresser and Corp'l John Bointon were chosen to view Baverlah (Beverly) and Wennom (Wenham) Meeting house, and make return to this town whatsoever they see and what they aprehend may be suitable for this Town." This was the second Meeting-house erected in Rowley, the first child baptized in it was Andrew, Nov. 26, 1693, son of Ensign Andrew Stickney, a brother to Lieut. JOHN STICKNEY.

March 2, 1694. He was a Constable of Rowley. Court Records state that "March 1695, Constable JOHN STICKNEY was fined 6s 8d, for not returning the warrant for Jurors seasonably, whereby the Court was much hindered." April 13, 1697. He was on the Grand Jury of the Court of Sessions. He was chosen Tythingman Mch. 14, 1698-9, Mch. 16, 1702-3, and Mch. 12, 1705-6.

May 8, 1701. "JOHN STICKNEY of Rowley and Hannah his wife, William Dole of Newbury and Mary his wife for £24, that is £12 a piece sell to John Clark of Rowley, 26 acres of woodland in Rowley in ye Commons at the West end of the town and on N. W. side of Long Meadow as recorded on the Town Books of Rowley to Capt. Sam'l Brocklebanke our father-in-law and fell to us as part of our wives portion out of Capt. Brocklebank estate." Wit. Sam'l Platts & Jno. Clark, Jr. Ack. June 1, 1720. [Essex Deeds, 37: 236.]

Dec. 4, 1707. JOHN STICKNEY, Carpenter, of Rowley, with consent of Hannah his wife "for £5 of silver money, sell to Ebenezer Foster, yeoman of Rowley," "One frechold or free comon lying in the Township of Rowley." Wit. Nathan Barker, Sam'l Platts. Signed,

JOHN STICKNEY [and Seal].
HANNAH STICKNEY [mark & seal].
[Ibid, 69: 102.]

ANDREW STICKNEY the fourth son of William and Elizabeth, was born in Rowley 3, 11, 1644; m. there Jan. 22, 1689, Wid. Ednah Lambert. She died Feb. 7, 1722. He m. 2d, Dec. 2, 1723, Wid. Elizabeth Jewett. [Wid. of Dea. Ezekiel Jewett?]

Andrew Stickney was one of Capt. Thomas Lothrop's company, which was composed, as Hutchinson says, of "eighty men, most of them young men of Essex County," and was with him in that fatal encounter with the Indians at Muddy Brook, in South Deerfield, Sept. 18, 1675, where Capt. Lothrop and most of his men were killed. This company was styled the "flower of Essex." From the Account Book of John Hull, the Treasurer of the Colony, it appears that "Jan. 25, 1675, Military Service Dr. to Andrew Stickney under Capt. Lothrop, £01: 16: 00."

In 1677 the town of Rowley, laid out to Andrew Stickney, 9 acres of land on the East of Deacon Jewett and Widow Platt's. In 1692, 60 acres of land on the west side of long meadow. Also March 10, 1713, to him as the right of John Bointon 7 acres 10 rods. To him in the right of his father, William Stickney, 11 acres 10 rods, also 4 acres on the west side of John Jackson's, recorded in Ipswich.

Oct. 23, 1678. He buys of John Bointon of Rowley, and wife, Hannah, for £20 and 93 acres of land, "one dwelling house and orchard with 6½ acres of land in Rowley, also an acre Salt Marsh in 2d division, also an acre of Salt Marsh in ye low countries, also seven acres upland at Hunsley Hill, also three cow gates upon Rowley cow-commons." Ack. May 28, 1683. [Essex Deeds, 8: 1.]

Dec. 10, 1678. He took the "Oath of Allegiance before the Honored Maior Gen'll Denison, Esq'r." March 10, 1683-4, he was chosen "Overseer for the west end of the Towne and to look to all such work as doth belong to said Office," also April 6, 1687, May 21, 1688, and May 29, 1689. He was one of the committee that appraised, Mch. 31, 1686, the estate of James Scales, late of Rowley.

On a Tax List of Jan. 9, 1691, of an amount of £394, 17s. 5d., "Ensign ANDREW STICKNEE" quota was £8, 17s. 6d. There were 135 persons taxed; he paid the highest tax but one, which was that of his father-in-law, Corp'l Ezekiel Northend, £10.

Oct. 23, 1691. ANDREW STICKNEY was Ensign of the foot company in Rowley of which Joseph Jewett was Capt. and John Dresser Lieut. [Col. Rec. 5: 196.]

He was chosen Tythingman, March 24, 1691, 1693, 1694, and Mch. 8, 1697-8. April 22, 1691, he owed the estate of "Samuel Wood who dec'd in ye Canada voyage." He was chosen Selectman 1691, and March 12, 1699-1700. Chosen by the inhabitants of Rowley, March 23, 1693-4, one of a com'te "to look after the timber of the towne." March 11, 1695-6, he was chosen Juryman to attend Ipswich Court; also was on the Grand Jury of the Court of Common Pleas, 1703. He was chosen Surveyor of fences and highways Mch. 11, 1700, and Mch. 10, 1712-'13.

Feb. 8, 1707. He was a member of the First Church in Rowley. and his children were baptized there.

April 1, 1713. "Ensign ANDREW STICKNE with Ednah his wife, Thos. Lambert and Sarah his wife, Marke Prime and Jane his wife, all of Rowley, for £11 currant money sell Samuel Kilburn, yeoman of Rowley, 3 acres of fresh meadow in Rowley near s'd Kilburn's dwelling house, near ye Straits Bridge, formerly laid out and recorded as the right of Thomas Barker." [Essex Deeds, 266 : 239.]

Jan. 23, 1715. He of Rowley, yeoman, and Edna his wife for £20, sell Joseph and Philip Fowler, both of Ipswich, 10 acres of land in Rowley bounded by land of Jona. Harriman now Smith's, Dea. Samuel Palmers, &c. [Ibid, 28 : 210.]

June 6, 1722. He sells to Benjamin Stickney of Rowley (his nephew), 18 acres of land in four lotts" in ye land called 3,000 acres." [Ibid, 40 : 70.]

June 12, 1722. He "for divers good causes me thereto moving but more Especially in consideration of the promise I made to my Cousen (Grand-Nephew) Joseph Stickney [73] that now Lives with me, for his Services and care for me, which considerations moves me freely, fully and absolutely to make over and confirm to and upon my said Cousin Joseph Stickney of the above s'd Town and County, all the Land I am possessed of Lying in Bradford Street Lotts, so called on both sides the Highway, being by estimation 8 acres more or less. The piece on the West side of the highway's bounded northerly on Sam'l Tenney's land, Easterly on the highway, Southerly on John Stickney's land, Westerly on ye ox pasture. The piece on the East side the highway bounded Northerly on Geo. Dickinson's Land, Easterly on Ipswich Lotts so called, Southerly on Jonathan Jewells land, Westerly on the Highways. Two Ox gates in the West end Ox pasture which was formerly Capt. Philip Nellsons, as they are bounded by record, and half my wood lott at Rootty plaine in great meadow woods, also one third part of ye meadow called Boynton's Meadow lying near Hunsle Hill, on south west side. One freehold. All my Marsh and Upland at Jackson's Island by estimation 5 acres be it more or less, as by record is bounded. Also all my Marsh at Sawyer's Island being by estimation 4 acres, be it more or less as by record bounded;" "and the abovesaid shall, at my decease, have ye full and ample possession of all the above s'd premises, and forever shall have, &c., and injoy ye same as an Estate of Inheritance in fee simple and that forever." Ack. June 15, 1722. [Ibid, 38: 246.]

John Boynton, one of the first settlers of Rowley, had laid out to him in 1640 "a house lot on Bradford Street, 1½ acres, bounded on the south side by Michaell Hopkinson's house lott, part of it lyinge on the West side and part on the East side of the street." In his Will, Feb. 8, 1670, he gave it to his son John, who on his removal to Bradford sold it to ANDREW STICKNEY, Oct. 23, 1678.

ANDREW STICKNEY, by Deed of Gift, May 14, 1722, "for divers good causes thereto moveing but more especially in consideration of the promises that I made to my Dearly beloved wife Edna in her lifetime and considering that I had a very considerable estate with her, of more than £200, and value, besides the improvement of a very considerable Estate during her lifetime and seeing that it hath so pleased God, that I have no child by her, now living, and likewise being willing to reward my two children-in-law, for their good service and love and care they have shewn to me, from their youth to this day, to wit, my son-in-law Thomas Lambert, and my daughter-in-law Jane Prime, both of the above s'd Town and County, all which considerations, with many others move me freely, fully and absolutely to make over and confirm to them, all that my Dwelling-house and barne, and 2 acres of land more or less lying in said Town, said land bounded northerly on the highway, Westerly on Lamberts land, South and Easterly on Nelson's land, said land adjoining to said house, and barne, and also the Moveables that my said wife Edna brought to me and also about 6 acres of Marsh and Upland lying in said Rowley, in a place called Oister point, be it more or less and bounded as by record may appear, and also about 7 acres lying in Rowley afore s'd in a place called the great Swamp bounded as by record of said Towne may appear. Also a freehold throughout, with the land in the Upper Commons already laid out. Also halfe my Woodlott at Rooty plaine in said Rowley and to be divided to them, two parts to my son-in-law and one part to my daughter-in-law. And the abovesaid, shall at my decease have ye full and ample possession of all the above s'd premises, and forever shall have, &c., and enjoy ye same as an Estate of Inheritance in fee simple and that forever." Ack. May 14, 1722. [Essex Deeds, 38: 252.] Thomas Lambert, Esq'r, probably left this estate to his son Thomas, who left it to his son Jonathan, whose widow now owns and occupies it (1868).

Ensign ANDREW STICKNEY, died in Rowley April 29, 1727, and was buried in the old Rowley burial ground near the monument erected to William Stickney, his father, in 1865. His gravestone and that of his wife are still standing side by side, in excellent condition. The inscriptions on them are:—

"Here lies the body of Mr. ANDREW STICKNEY who died April ye 29, 1727, aged about 83 years."

"Here lies ye body of Mrs. EDNER daughter of Mr. Ezekiel & Mrs. Edner Northend & late wife to Insigne ANDREW STICKNEY died February ye 7th, 1722, aged 73."

Two children:—

34. Andrew, bapt. Nov. 26, 1693; died May 27, 1694.

35. Amos, bapt. Jan. 2, 1698; "This was ye first child that was baptized in ye new meeting-house;" d. Feb. 4, 1698.

JOHN STICKNEY, b. in Newbury, June 23, 1666, m. there Dec. 10, 1689, Mary, dau. of Sam'l and Rebecca Poor, who was b. in Newbury Oct. 21, 1671.

July 3, 1700. JOHN STICKNEY, yeoman and weaver, of Newbury, for £28 current silver, sell Mr. Edw. Thompson of Marshfield, Mass., "30 acres of land lying in Newbury in a rank of lotts above Harty Choke river commonly called freehold lotts lying near Indian river, bounded on East by land of Rich'd Bartlett, West by land of Nicho'l Rawlins, N. and S. on Highway." Ack. by JOHN STICKNEY and Mary, his wife, July 4, 1700, before Thos. Noyes. [Essex Deeds, 30: 149.]

This was probably land to which his father Amos Stickney became entitled, on account of his freehold which he purchased of Solomon Keyes, and which his son John, on his brothers and sisters coming of age, sells to pay their portions as stated in their father's Will.

He was a soldier under Capt. Thomas Noyes of Newbury, 1708 [Mass. Archives], called out in consequence of the attack on Haverhill by the Indians on the 29th of August.

Dec. 27, 1710. He buys of Anthony Morse of Newbury, Blacksmith, for £60, 10s., "One messuage or tract of land in Newbury in a place called High Field, six acres, bounded on W. N. and E. by Penuel Titcomb's land, S. by Towns Comon." [Essex Deeds, 58 : 150.] April 3, 1715, he sold two acres of this land to Penuel Titcomb of Newbury, House Carpenter. [Ibid, 49 : 215.] He was Juryman Mch. 20, 1717. Jan. 27, 1724-5, he sells one-fourth of an acre of upland in Newbury for £6, 10s., to John Titcomb of Newbury; also sells him April 20, 1727, two acres of upland in Newbury. [Ibid, 50 : 236.]

Jan. 5, 1721–2. "I, JOHN STICKNEY of Newbury, Weaver, for and in consideration of love, goodwill and affection, which I have and do bear towards my well-beloved son John Stickney of Newbury, aforesaid, mariner, I do by these presents give, grant, aliene and convey and confirm unto my said son John Stickney, his heirs and assigns forever, all that my 7 acre of upland, be the same more or less, scituate and lying in Newbury, aforesaid, bounded as followeth, by the Town Common northerly, by the land of James Smith westerly, by a highway southerly, and by land of Col. Thos. Noyes easterly; for my said son, his heirs or assignes to be possesst of together, with the privileges and appurtenances to the same belonging, immediately after my decease." Ack. Jan. 12, 1721–2. [Ibid, 42 : 66.]

"Will of JOHN STICKNEY of Newbury, being weak in body, but of disposing mind, &c.

Imp's. I give and bequeath unto Mary Stickney my dearly and well beloved wife the use of the whole of my Real Estate both housing, lands and meadow, until my son Amos Stickney come to ye age of twenty-one years, and then my will is yt. my son Amos shall have one-half of ye Real Estate, my wife to have all personal estate.

Item. I give to my son John Stickney £5, to be paid by son Amos, besides what I have already given him by deed of gift.

Item. I give to my son Joseph Stickney one acre of land on northerly side of pine swamp, bounded by land of John Titcomb, &c. A lot of land in 4th general pasture so called which was laid out to ye Rate Right of Stephen Acreman, Salt-Marsh at Plumb Island and £40.

Item. I give unto my son Moses Stickney, land, &c.

Item. To son Amos all ye rest of my Real Estate, housing, lands, &c., he to pay to my son John £5, Joseph £30, Moses £40, daughter Mary Kingsbury £3, daughter Sarah Braggden £3, daughter Prudence Noyes £10, and to deliver to my wife Mary Stickney, 4 cords of wood per year during her widowhood. If Amos dies, son Moses to take his place, Amos to pay to his daughter Ednar Stickney £30, when 18 years old.

Dated May 13, 1727. Signed

JOHN STICKNEY, and Seal.

JOSHUA MOODEY,
JOHN MERILL, JR, } Wit.
STEPHEN KNIGHT."

Proved, Aug. 22, 1727.

[Essex Prob. 15: 264.]

An inv. of his estate was taken Sept. 18, 1727. Amt. Real, £1388. Personal, £223, 6s., which considering he had portioned his eldest son and three daughters, was a large estate.

June 12, 1736. "Mary Stickney of Newbury, widow, for and in consideration of ye Natural Affection which I have and do bear unto my well-beloved Son Amos Stickney, and Daughter Ednah Stickney, both of Newbury, Have given . . . . unto my Son Amos Stickney, all my part of ye Stock of Cattle, Sheep and Swine which was given to me by ye Last Will and Testament of my Late Husband JOHN STICKNEY, Late of Newbury dec'd. Also one feather bed with all ye furniture thereof, which Bed my s'd Son now Lyeth on, together with all debts due to me, by bonds or any other way, he paying all just debts and Funeral Expences. I do also give . . . . unto my s'd daughter Ednah Stickney all my household stuff and wearing apparill of what kind or nature soever, except what I have given son Amos. She my s'd daughter acquitting and discharging ye Legacy of £20, which was given unto her by Will of John Stickney above s'd, dec'd." Ack. June 15, 1736. [Essex Deeds, 12: 116.]

JOHN STICKNEY died in Newbury. His grave stone with that of his wife Mary, are still standing in the burial ground at Newbury Old Town, near the entrance, a short distance from the meeting-house. They were probably brought from England, and must have been quite costly at the time they were erected. They have suffered very little injury and decay from time.

They bear the following inscriptions:

"Mr. JOHN STICKNEY died 13 August, 1727, in his 62d year."

"Mary wife, of JOHN STICKNEY died 20 August, 1737, in her 65th year."

March 3, 1710. He buys of James Chute of Rowley, husbandman, for £20, "and as an allowance to a former purchase short of what ye land was accounted, 10 acres of land and meadow lying in a place called new Ox pasture, bounded E. end on great Swamp lotts, S. on Stickney's own land, W. partly on said Stickney's land and part on land of James Chute, N. on Chute's meadow and E. by Dam." [Ibid, 39: 9.]

Sept. 26, 1715. "The Selectmen of Rowley laid out a private highway, 1½ rods wide, beginning at the Road that leads to Pettis ferry at Bradford thro' the Rye Plain as the houses are now built to ANDREW STICKNE'S which stands upon land which is commonly called the new Ox's pasture, as they have improved a way of late and desired to have it that dwell at present at the above said plains, Selectmen E. Jewett, John Browne, Tho. Dickinson, Jona. Pickard, Sam'l Johnson."

ANDREW STICKNEY died in Rowley, Byfield Parish, in 1717, leaving a Will dated Jan. 12, 1716–17, "he being weak in body but sound in mind" he bequeathed "to his true and loving wife all his Real and Personal estate, until his son Amos came of the age of 21," when all Real estate to be divided between them, Amos to pay his eldest sister Rebecca £14, "and to all the rest of my children which I have or shall have £7 each, to each of my sons £4 when 21, and £3 within a year after the decease of my wife. To all my daughters, excepting Rebecca, when 18 years old." After his wife's decease Amos to have the other half of his estate. His "loving brother" John Stickney, John Cheny and James Chute, to be Overseers of his Will. Proved July 22, 1717. [Essex Prob. 12: 46.]

Inv. of his estate, March 6, 1720, "29 acres of land given by Mr. James Chute and his heirs to said Stickney, dec'd, £174." To "Dwelling house and other buildings £17." Amt. Personal estate, £46, 10s., Wm. Fiske and Max'n Jewett, Appraisers. [Ibid. 13: 127.] His house probably stood near where Sam'l L. Ewell's now stands (1868), and was sold by his son Amos Stickney to John Lull, Oct. 23, 1723.

Feb. 28, 1731. Guardianship of James Stickney, a minor about 16 years of age, son of ANDREW STICKNEY, late of Rowley, granted to Wm. Fisk, who gave bonds with Benj. [23] and ANDREW STICKNEY [63]. [Ibid.]

BENJAMIN STICKNEY died in Rowley, March 5, 1756. He left a Will of which the following is a copy : —

"In the name of God, Amen. The twenty-eighth day of September in the year of our Lord seventeen hundred and fifty, I, BENJAMIN STICKNEY of Rowley, in the county of Essex in the province of the Massachusetts Bay in New-England, yeoman, being of perfect mind and memory, calling to mind the mortality of my body, do make and ordain this my last Will and testament, that is to say : — Principally and first of all, I give and recommend my soul into the hands of God that gave it; and my body I recommend to the earth, to be buried in decent christian burial, at the discretion of my exec'r, nothing doubting but at the general resurrection I shall receive the same again by the mighty power of God. And as touching such worldly estate, wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me in this life, I give, demise and dispose of in the following manner and form.

Imp's. I give and bequeath to my children, viz., Joseph, Samuel, Amos, Mary, Sarah and Martha, all my stock of creatures, after my funeral charges are paid out of them, to be equally divided among them : — and all my household goods not above disposed of I give to my daughters, viz., Mary, Sarah and Martha, to be equally divided among them. And it is my will, that my sons, viz., Benjamin, Joseph, Samuel and Amos shall have all my wearing apparel.

Item. I give to my children, viz., Joseph, Samuel, Amos, Mary, and Sarah and Martha, all the money that is due to me by bonds or notes, or that I have in my house, to be equally divided among them.

Item. I give to the children of my son Jonathan deceased two acres and a half of land which I excepted in his deed.

And I do hereby constitute, make and ordain my son Benjamin Stickney to be the sole executor of this my last will and testament, who is to pay and discharge all my legal debts in convenient time after my decease.

And I do hereby utterly disallow, revoke and disannul all and every other former testaments, wills, legacies and bequests and executors, by me in any ways named, willed and bequeathed, ratifying and confirming this and no other to be my last will and testament.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal the day and year above written.

Signed, sealed, published, pronounced and declared by the said BENJAMIN STICKNEY as his last will and testament, in presence of us the subscribers.
JOHN BAILEY,
JOSEPH RUSSEL,
MARY JOHNSON.
} BENJAMIN STICKNEY. [Seal.]

Essex, ss., Ipswich, April 5, 1756. Before the honorable Thomas Berry esquire, judge of probate of wills . . . . in and for said county of Essex, John Bailey and Mary Johnson personally appeared and made oath, that they were present and saw BENJAMIN STICKNEY, late of Rowley, deceased, sign, seal, and heard him publish and declare this instrument to be his last will and testament, and when he so did he was of a sound disposing mind and memory to the best of their discerning, and they together with Joseph Russell set to their hands at the same time in his presence, as witnesses.

[Ibid, 34: 23.]

Benjamin Stickney, a grandson of the first emigrant, was but five years old when his father died. He left Newbury, his birth-place, previous to 1694, and was living with a Mr. Daniel Tenney, who had m. his cousin Elizabeth Stickney [11], near Mill River in Rowley, on the estate now owned by one of his descendants, Chief Justice John Searle Tenney.

The portion which he received of his father was but £10, three years after his coming of age, and he could not, without great industry and perseverance, have acquired sufficient property to make the purchases which he commenced in 1699, and continued afterwards, on the sides and summit of Long Hill. On this wild uncultivated tract of land (called in old deeds, "a wilderness,") he erected a log house, but soon after, in 1700, built a good framed house on the westerly end of this Hill, which was the highest table land in Rowley, 233 feet above the level of the ocean. From this lofty eminence he could command an extensive view of the surrounding country, the place of his birth in Newbury, beyond it Plum Island, washed by the waves of the Atlantic, and in clear weather the top of the Grand Monadnock, in N. H., under whose brow at Jaffrey, his grandson settled, and his great-grandson was the first child born.

The fear of the Indians probably prompted him to select such a spot for his future home, as only a few years after his settlement there, on the 4th of July, 1706, the Indians made an assault on the town of Amesbury, and among its principal sufferers were his sister Sarah [25], the wife of Nath'l Weed, and her three children, who were slain by the Indians. It was not till the year 1713, that any road was laid out to his house.

The house erected by BENJAMIN STICKNEY, in 1700, descended to his son Benjamin, Jr. [71]. By the settlement of his estate, Benjamin, 3d. [227], became the owner of it, but in 1792, he sold it to Jedediah Stickney [257], his brother-in-law, who sold it to Amos [231], a brother of Benjamin, 3d, who left it to his only son Spofford [586], whose only son, Major Ira Stickney [1407], is now the owner and occupant. The house faces the south, two stories in front with a lean-to on the rear. It has undergone but little alteration since its erection, and the oak timbers are in a good state of preservation.

After his marriage, he with his wife Mary, were admitted members of the First Church in Rowley, Sept. 2, 1701. After his settlement on Long Hill, he was of the second parish, but usually attended meeting at Byfield, it being nearer; there his children were baptized, and his death recorded. He brought up a large family of enterprising children and divided among them a good estate.

As remembered by his grand-children, "he was a stout healthy man; he never experienced sickness till he was about 80 years old; he was a man of great courage and unbounded generosity, sincere and unaffected in his manner, even to bluntness. A bear took a pig from his pen in the night, he chased him with a whip-pole and rescued it. In the time of the great snow, Feb., 1717, he kept a path open by drawing a log every day. He had no near neighbor within half a mile before his fourth son settled at the foot of the hill. He was of a middling complexion, dark hair, and blue eyes. He died of the Typhus Fever, and was buried in Byfield burying ground (near the tomb of the Parsons family). His wife Mary, was a person of real piety and worth; she never enjoyed good health, had the palsy for a number of years before she died."

Several articles of their furniture have come down to the writer (their great-great-grandson), among which are two elaborately carved oaken chests, marked with her initials, before marriage, M. P. (Mary Palmer), which from their superior workmanship, may have been brought from England; her wedding gown, and two very ancient wine-glasses.

Eleven children:—

71. Benjamin, b. Sept. 28, 1701; m. Elizabeth Spofford.
72. Moses, b. Apr. 23, 1703; bapt. June 20, 1703; died 1722.
73. Joseph, b. Oct. 8, 1705; m. Jane Pickard; Hannah Goodridge.
74. Jonathan, b. Mch. 7, 1706; m. Mary Fisk.
75. Samuel, b. Apr. 4, 1708; m. Mary Brocklebank; Faith Platts.
76. Thomas, b. Jan. 26, 1709–10; died in the year 1745.
77. Mary, b. Sept, 2, 1711; m. David Boynton, Sept. 19, 1738.
78. Sarah, bapt. Jan. 25, 1712–13; m. John Chaplin, June 16, 1772.
79. Martha, bapt. Aug. 15, 1714; m. Joshua Boynton, April 14, 1743.
80. Amos, bapt. Apr. 6, 1718; died in infancy.
81. Amos, bapt. Sept. 17, 1721; m. Abigail Jewett, Dec. 25, 1751.

—26.—

MOSES STICKNEY, b. in Newbury, Nov. 26, 1677; m. Sept. 7, 1707, Sarah, dau. of Elihu and Elizabeth (Wade) Wardwell of Newbury, and grand-daughter of Col. Jonathan Wade of Ipswich, who left her £50 in his Will, dated 1669.

Nov. 14, 1705. Henry Lunt of Newbury, weaver, for £15, conveys to Moses Stickney of Newbury, cordwainer, one acre of arable land in Newbury, thirty-two rods in length and five rods in width, bounded N. W. by land of Benajah Titcomb, N. E. by land of Benj. Coker, dec'd, S. E. by land of Ensign Henry Lunt, and S. W. by the Highway. [Essex Deeds, 26: 93.]

April 23, 1712. Edmund Titcomb of Newbury, joiner, for

£17, 10s., conveys to Moses Stickney of Newbury, cordwainer, one acre of arable land in Newbury, bounded S. W. by Merrimack Street, N. W. by land of Henry Lunt, Jr., N. E. by land now in the possession of the Widow Martha Coker, S. W. by land of Moses Stickney. [Ibid, 25: 136.]

July 24, 1733. Moses Stickney of Newbury, cordwainer, for £260 in current money, conveys to Stephen Pettingell of Newbury, coaster, a certain tenement in Newbury, it being about two acres of land, with dwelling house and barn standing thereon. Ack. July 20, 1736, by Moses Stickney and Sarah, his wife, before Richard Kent. [Ibid, 75: 4.]

Sept. 16, 1734. Moses Stickney of Hampton, N. H., formerly of Newbury, Mass., yeoman, for £30, conveys to James Pearson of Newbury, 2½ acres of pasture land near New Bridge, in Newbury. [Ibid, 67: 139.]

April 29, 1736. Edward Richardson of Newbury, innholder, for £21, conveys to Moses Stickney of Newbury, cordwainer, 1¾ acres of land in Newbury. [Ibid, 88: 222.]

Moses Stickney died at Hampton Falls, N. H., Feb. 27, 1756. Coffin, the Historian of Newbury, says, "he died a member of the Society of Friends," which is probable, as his wife's connections were of that society.

Adm. on the estate of Moses Stickney, late of Hampton Falls, husbandman, granted to Nathaniel Gove (who had m. his youngest dau. Susan), of the same place and occupation, Dec. 6, 1758.

Inv. taken 6th 12th mo., 1758. Items:—House and barn, on four acres of land, joining to land of Thos. Brown, eighteen acres next to John Philbrick, nine acres at Hall's farm so-called, next to land of Isaac Green's heirs, Salt-marsh at Sheep Banks, &c. [Rockingham, N. H., Prob. Rec., 15: 125 and 168.]

He is styled on deeds, cordwainer, yeoman and husbandman, and his descendants at Hampton say that he was a master mariner. He resided in that part of Newbury, now (1868) Newburyport, on Merrimack Street, but he sold his property in 1733, and removed to Hampton, N. H., where he left a family who became connected by marriage with some of the first families of that State.

Nine children: —

July 11, 1715. "Samuel Stickne of Rowley, weaver, for £5 conveys to his brother Richard Dole of Rowley, cordwainer, one-half a freehold or free comonage in upper commons in Rowley, in tract of land above Pen Brook and the 3,000 acres, which half freehold was a part of a freehold of my father Stickney, dec'd." [Essex Deeds, 44: 268.]

March 12, 1719-20. He sells for £45, to brother Richard Dole, five acres of upland and swamp ground in Rowley, West end, of West end Ox pasture, bounded by land of Joseph Brocklebank, Michael Hopkinson, Cornelius Davis, John Reyner, and Francis Palmer. Signed by Samuel Stickney and Susannah Stickney (his wife). [Ibid, 44: 266.]

May 10, 1728. He sells for £11, to Richard Dole, one-fifth of a Common Right in Rowley, originally Capt. Samuel Brocklebank's. [Ibid, 142: 294.]

Narragansett No. 1, now Buxton, Me., was granted by General Court to the representatives of those who were soldiers in King Philip's War. Samuel Stickney drew, Nov. 17, 1735, in the right of his father, John Stickney, lot number eleven.

Samuel Stickney died Nov. 3, 1760, and was buried in the first burial ground in Rowley. His Will, dated Feb. 15, 1753, proved Dec. 8, 1760, recorded Essex Prob. 87: 219, gives to his wife Susannah, whom he makes executrix, all his movable estate, the improvement of all his real estate so long as she remains his widow, and at her decease or time of marriage, to be equally divided among his six sons, Samuel, Moses, William, Daniel, David and Jonathan; if any die, to be divided among remainder. And as he had before given to his three daughters, Sarah, Lydia and Elizabeth, the value of £13, 6s. 8d., he now confirmed it to be their full portions.

Inv. of his estate, Dec. 24, 1760, gives half a dwelling house; barn and about five acres of land, £60; seven acres of land near Mr. Jeremiah Ellsworth's house; three acres salt meadow near Stack yard, so-called; one-half a right in "Narrow-Ganset Township, Number One," £13, 6s. 8d; books and wearing apparel, £3 14s.; Husbandry Tools, &c. Amt. £173, 12s. 2d. [Ibid, 40: 104.]

In his widow Susannah Stickney's account. of adm., Feb. 21, 1763, Estate Dr. to his sons Samuel, Jonathan, Moses, David (for funeral charges, £3 13s. 4d.), John, Samuel, Jr., and William Stickney. [Ibid, 40: 104.]

Susannah Stickney, his widow, was admitted a member of the First Church in Rowley, Aug. 23, 1767. She died July 12, 1773, aged 76.

Ten children:—

A petition praying to be protected from the Indians, June 14, 1744, has his autograph signature. He was on the "Muster Roll of a scout at Penacook and vicinity, under Capt. John Chandler, in the winter of 1745," and served from Feb. 16, to March 18. [Adj. Gen. Rep., N. H., 1866, Vol. 2.] His house was a garrison in 1746. It has been occupied by successive generations, and is (1867) owned and occupied by Joseph P. Stickney, Esq., his great-grandson.

He was one of a committee on controversy between the proprietors of Rumford and Bow, in regard to the title to their lands, and is styled "Lieut.," April 23, 1750. He was of

Rumford, and Collector of Bow, March 19, 1761, when styled "Col. JEREMIAH STICKNEY."

Col. JEREMIAH STICKNEY died in Rumford (now Concord, N. H.), April 11, 1763, in his 61st year. In the old Burying Ground of Concord, N. H., at as late a period as 1790, there were but six gravestones with inscriptions on them. They were of granite or coarse stone and ornamented with human or angels heads with wings, or an urn overhung with cypress. The second and third were to the grand-children, and the fourth to JEREMIAH STICKNEY himself. Near the spot a granite monument has been recently erected by his descendants. [See Bouton's Hist. of Concord, N. H.]

He left a Will dated at Rumford, March 24, 1763, to which Elizabeth the widow consented, May 23, 1763, and which was proved in court, May 25, 1763. WILLIAM STICKNEY, b. in Bradford, Oct. 14, 1704–5, was m. in Billerica, by Oliver Whiting, Esq., June 1729, to Anne Whiting. She d. in Billerica, Mch. 26. 1749, aged 44 years. He was m. 2d by Rev. John Chandler, Nov. 23, 1749, to Hannah Abbot. She was the widow of Jeremiah Abbot of Billerica; her maiden name was Hannah Ballard of Andover. She d. Feb. 17, 1789, aged 75. The gravestones of his two wives are still standing in the ancient burial ground of Billerica.

William Stickney on the decease of his father (when he was about two years of age), lived with his grandfather; Capt. David Haseltine of Bradford, who Feb. 4, 1716–17, "for love he bore his grandchild, William Stickney, son of his daughter Anne Hunt," gives him part of his homestead and lands in Bradford and Rowley, after his own and wife Mary's decease. [Essex Deeds, 33: 198.] Upon the marriage of his mother with Samuel Hunt of Billerica, he removed there with her and ever after resided in that place.

He was a servant to Joshua Abbot, and served under Sergeant Jonathan Butterfield, from July 21–30, 1722. [Mass. Muster Rolls, Vol. 1.]

March 9, 1726–7. William Stickney of Billerica, cordwainer, for £47, sells Shubael and David Walker of Bradford, all his right in a pasture lying in Bradford, below country road, which pasture belongs in part to Widow Walker, of said Bradford. Also all his interest in land called Captain's Thicket in Bradford, and all his right in Plumb Island Marshes. [Ibid, 47: 231.]

At what time he became connected with the church in Billerica, or when chosen Deacon, is unknown, but from the records which have been preserved, it appears that, in 1751, "Deacon William Stickney," with eleven others, purchased for the Church of Christ in Billerica a book in which to keep the records of said church. That, Jan. 18, 1756, it was "voted to send ye Deacons Whiting and Stickney, as delegates to the ordination of Mr. Nathaniel Sherman over a church in Bedford;" also, Jan. 3, 1758, to the ordination of Mr. Holt over a church in Danvers. Sept. 5, 1760, he was chosen Clerk of the church, which office he held till Jan. 26, 1763. He was also chosen Moderator, Aug. 6, 1762, in the place of Deacon Joshua Abbot, "who desired to be dismissed by reason of age and infirmity." Jan. 3, 1763, "voted and chosen, the Deacons Abbott, Whiting, Stickney and Hill, a committee to sign the letters missive to the churches to come and assist in the ordination of Mr. Henry Cummings on the 26 day of Jan." Dec. 22, 1765, he was chosen one of the delegates to the ordination of Mr. William Emerson over a church in Concord, and he with others went as delegates to the "ordination of Mr. J. Burnap at Merrymac, N. H.," Oct. 14, 1772; also to a Council of the Church at Dunstable, Oct. 25, 1772; and at the ordination of Mr. John Marrett in Woburn, Nov. 21, 1774.

He was Town Clerk of Billerica, for twelve years; its Selectman as early as Aug. 17, 1747; a member of the House of Representatives, and Justice of Peace and Quorum, as early as 1765.

Samuel Stickney had represented Bradford in a Revolutionary body of men, convened on a great emergency to organize a new government. At a time of no less peril and uncertainty, his grandson Deacon William Stickney, the subject of this memoir, was elected a Representative of the town of Billerica, to serve in the first Provincial Congress, which was convened at Salem, Oct. 7, 1774. He appears to have been an influential member of that body, and on many important committees.

While engaged in devising ways and means to further the interest of his country, his son Eleazer, then an Ensign in his cousin Capt. Jonathan Stickney's Co., of Billerica, Col. Bridge's Reg., was probably in the battle of Bunker Hill, as part of Bridge's Reg., and Stickney's Co. were there. It appears from the Rolls at the State House, that his other son William Stickney, was a sergeant in Capt. Jonathan Stickney's Co., Col. Bridge's Reg. Minute Men, April 19, 1775, and might have been in the same action.

Dec. 9, 1774. He was one of the committee ordered to tender to Rev. Dr. Appleton the thanks of Congress for his services as Chaplain during the session. He was a Representative of Billerica at the second session of the Provincial Congress, convened at Cambridge, Feb. 1. 1775. It was ordered, Feb. 11, 1775, "that Mr. Sullivan, Mr. Stickney and Col. Cushing, be a committee to bring in a resolve empowering the committee of safety to direct the committee of supplies to make such further provision for the defence of the Province as may be necessary."

March 22, 1775. "Col. Barret, Hon. Mr. Dexter and Mr. STICKNEY be a committee to wait on Rev. Mr. Emerson and desire him, if his circumstances will admit of it, to attend daily on the Congress and officiate as their chaplain."

April 27, 1775. "Ordered that Jonas Dix, Esq., WILLIAM STICKNEY, Esq., and Deacon Stone, be appointed to take true copies of the depositions and have them signed by the deponents and authenticated by the Justices and a notary public." These depositions relate to the battle at Lexington, of April 19, 1775; those taken before WILLIAM STICKNEY, Esq., and others, April 23, and April 25, 1775, were transmitted to England, by order of Provincial Congress, by Capt. John Derby (in a fast sailing ship of his brother, the Hon. Richard Derby), who arrived there eleven days before the news of the Battle of Lexington was received from Governor Gage.

May 5, 1775. "It was ordered that Deacon STICKNEY and Mr. Webster be added to the committee who were appointed to examine the returns and district's stock of powder, May 4th." He was a Representative from Billerica to the Third Provincial Congress, convened at Watertown, May 31, 1775. June 1, 1775, "ordered that Deacon Fisher, Mr. Spaulding, Mr. STICKNEY, Mr. Partridge and Major Perley be a committee to consider the proposal of the reverend clergy, now in convention at Watertown, to serve in rotation as chaplains in the army."

From the Boston Gazette of Oct. 7, 1776, it appears that WILLIAM STICKNEY, Esq., of Billerica, with others, were of a committee of the General Court to purchase soldiers clothing for the army.

"Deacon WILLIAM STICKNEY died August 27, 1781, aged 77 years." Farmer, in his "Genealogical Register," makes mention of him as "a worthy magistrate of Billerica." His gravestone is still standing in the ancient burial ground of Billerica.

His Will, dated Aug. 27, 1781 (the day of his death), gave to his wife Hannah, all the estate she brought him on marriage, during her life, also two cows, and all the produce on the farm. To his son William, the homestead, after the death of his mother. To his daughters Elizabeth Lane, Anna and Sarah

Stickney. To son Eleazer. He also made a bequest of small amount to "Rebecca Burinton who lived with him." He made Deacon John Abbot and Capt. Jonathan Stickney, Executors. Amount of his estate, £1,000. [Middlesex Prob.]

DANIEL STICKNEY, b. in Bradford, Feb. 6, 1706-7; was m. in Billerica by Rev. Samuel Ruggles, to Mary Hill, Dec. 15, 1730. She d. in Billerica June 28, 1798, in her 93d year.

Feb. 4, 1716-17. David Haseltine of Bradford, for love he bears his grandchild, DANIEL STICKNEY, gives him part of his homestead and land in Bradford and Rowley, after his and wife Mary's death. [Essex Deeds, 33: 198.]

In 1751, Lieut. DANIEL STICKNEY, with his brother Deacon William Stickney, were of the twelve individuals who contributed towards the purchase of a Record Book for the use of the church of Christ in Billerica. In this volume is recorded that, "Feb. 26, 1758, voted to send Brother DANIEL STICKNEY and William Bowers, as delegates to the ordination of Mr. Josiah Stevens over a church in Epping, N. H., March 8th." He was on a committee for the church with his brother, Deacon William Stickney, April 18, 1760. Dec. 4, 1763, he was chosen delegate to go to the ordination of Mr. Jonathan Livermore over a church in Wilton, N. H., Dec. 14th.

DANIEL STICKNEY was Captain of a Troop of Horse that were ordered, by Col. Eleazer Tyng, to march for the relief of Fort William Henry, Aug. 1757. He marched with them from Billerica to Malborough, fifty-two miles in four and a half days, and he made oath to the truth of the roll, March 2, 1759. [Mass. Archives.]

In the Boston Gazette of May 12, 1777, is the following: "General Court May 27, 1772, levied a Tax of a penny and a half per acre on lands of non-residents and proprietors of the Town of Ashbury, Middlesex Co." Among the names of owners, "Capt. DANIEL STICKNEY, part of a 3d division, right 58."

Capt. DANIEL STICKNEY died in Billerica, April 25, 1788. He left a Will dated Oct. 31, 1765, in which he gave his wife Mary, the homestead; his son David the place on which he has built a house, and in which he lives; his daughter Mary Goss and daughter Rachel, £66; his son Jonathan the homestead, on the death of his Mother. A legacy to his son David. One of the witnesses, was his brother William Stickney. [Middlesex Prob.]

"The within named Lidia Stickney [57] and Lidia Stickney, Jr. [186], having been sworn at my direction, by John Brown, Esq., to the truth of this nuncupative Will, of Amos Stickney, to his son John, and to his daughter Mary, the same is adjudged, proved, and I do hereby approve and allow this as a good nuncupative Will, and the said John as Administrator to the said Amos, is to take his Father's Red Cloak, and the said Mary is to take her Mother's Apparrell, consisting partly of cloaths, att £9, and partly in a Necklace, one of Jewels, and one gold ring, which cloaths, jewels and ring, are to be anew valued by Mr. Moses Hodges, and Mr. Benja. Moody, surviving apprizers of the said Amos's Estate, and said Mary to have all above but the Cloak." [Ibid, 40: 252.]

April 15, 1765. His estate was divided into three equal parts; No. 1, 6 acres on E. side of homestead and buildings thereon, 17½ rods wide at the road or front; No 2, the homestead, 7 acres, 80 rods, and is 30½ rods broad next highway, and rear 26½ rods broad. No. 3, in the homestead, 5 acres 60 rods, and is 19½ rods broad at each end, on W. side of homestead lot, in common pasture, opposite the homestead. Pasture and meadow at Little River. May 14, 1765, No's 1 and 2 settled on John the eldest son, No. 3 on daughter Mary. [Ibid, 42: 96.]

His daughter Mary, a minor about 14 years of age, had Moses Stickney of Newbury [57] appointed her guardian Nov. 14, 1763, and he gave in an account of guardianship, May 14, 1765. [Ibid, 42: 97.]

Two children:—

190. John, b. July 14, 1740; m. Mary Pidgeon, Nov. 11, 1762.
191. Mary, b. Apr. 11, 1744; m. Michael Pike, Aug. 21, 1765.

AMOS STICKNEY, b. in Rowley, April 23, and bapt. June 4, 1699; m. April 7, 1722, Hepsibah dau. of Daniel and Sarah Wicome, who was b. April 22, 1701.

He came into possession of the old homestead of his father when twenty-one years of age, which from the following deed, he appears to have sold Oct. 21, 1723, for £172, to John Lull, Jr. of Rowley, that is "40 acres of land in Rowley, bounded N. by a stake and stones on said Lull's land and Max'n Jewett's, S. on Joshua Woodman's heirs, excluding the dam, if it fall within this tract of land, and so from N. E. corner of the Barn to a ditch about 10 or 12 rods E. from said dam, E. on land called Great Swamp lot, N. E. corner by James Chute's meadow and a stake and stones, W. by a small white oak tree in Chute's land, then to a stake and stones near the dam. All my right in Rowley reserve for the use of my mother, Elizabeth Stickney, during her widowhood, if she marry, then one-third of it." Ack. Oct. 22, 1723, by Amos and wife Hepsibah. [Essex Deeds, 42: 151.]

Soon after the above sale he removed to Norwich, Conn. Miss Frances M. Caulkins (authoress of a history of that place) informs me that he was propounded as an inhabitant of Norwich, and accepted, according to the customary form, by a town vote, 1725. He appears to have settled as a farmer, not in the town plot, as it was called, but upon the outlands or farms, which have since grown into distinct towns, Franklin, Lisbon, etc.

One of his children, it is certain, was born in Newbury, and probably the two others assigned him, one named for his brother Andrew, with whom he was probably brought up, as Andrew Stickney's [63] estate is Dr. to him, April 28, 1746, and he is a witness to a deed of his widow, Sarah [63], Feb. 18, 1747.

Nothing farther is known of Amos Stickney or his children.

Three children:—

192. Daniel, b. Nov. 22, 1722, bapt. Nov. 25, 1722, Byfield church.
193. Andrew, b. ——; living in Newbury, Feb. 18, 1747.

ANDREW STICKNEY, b. in Rowley, Feb. 9, 1701–2, bapt. March 30, 1701, was pub. in Rowley, to Marah Dickinson, Sept. 3, 1721, but probably never married her. Was pub. 2d, to Sarah Brocklebank, Sept. 7, 1723, date of marriage not known. He m. 3d, Dec. 12, 1726–7, Sarah, widow of Henry Lunt of Newbury, her maiden name Anderton. She was a member of Byfield church as late as 1744, where her children were bapt.

Aug. 28, 1738. Andrew Stickney of Newbury, yeoman, for £10, buys of Daniel Noyes of N., 79th River Lot in Newbury. [Essex Deeds, 112: 284.]

Andrew Stickney probably died Nov., 1743.

Adm. on his estate was granted to his widow Sarah Stickney, April 28, 1746. Inv. of his estate given April 19, 1746. House and House Lot £20, Silver Spoons, Books, &c. Amount, £30, 3s. The widow's account of adm., Apr. 28, 1746. Estate Dr. to Amos [62], Moses [57], and Andrew Stickney [192], to bringing up of four young children, £63. Funeral charges of the dec'd and child 78s. [Essex Deeds, 23: 107: 26: 296.]

April 11, 1746. Sarah Stickney of Newbury, spinster, for £20, sells Jacob Sawyer of Newbury, a certain part of a house and land lying in Newbury, which was her brother James Anderton's, late of N., deceased, and which fell to her by his decease; also her interest in a Pew in Meeting House at Waterside, where Rev. Mr. John Lowell is minister. Feb. 18, 1747, she sells for £5, 5s. 8d, to Jacob Knight of Newbury, a River lot of land. Wit. ANDREW STICKNEY [192]. [Essex Deeds, 88: 223: 157: 36.]

Nine children:—

203. Amos, bapt. Apr. 25, 1742; died about 1743.

—64.—

DAVID STICKNEY, b. in Rowley, July 4, 1703; m. in Newbury, May 13, 1730, Sarah, dau. of Nathaniel and Deborah (Knight) Atkinson, who was born Dec. 10, 1710. He was pub. 2d, Aug. 10, 1734 (date of m. not known), to Mary the widow of Jacob Adams, of Falmouth, Me., (now Portland).

He was out from Newbury as a Corporal, under Lieut. Samuel Wheelwright, from Nov. 16 to 20, 1725. [Mass. Muster Rolls, Vol. 1.]

Aug. 31, 1730. DAVID STICKNEY of Newbury, coaster, for £114, buys of Marverick Gilman of Salisbury, cordwainer, 60 rods of land in Newbury, with a dwelling house thereon, and a Well, bounded S. E. by a way, S. W. by Caleb Moody's land, N. W. and N. E. by Joseph Swasie's land. [Essex Deeds, 59: 122.]

Nov. 29, 1734. DAVID STICKNEY of Falmouth, in Casco Bay, Mass., mariner, for £120 sells William Rogers and Joseph Coffin, both of Newbury, a certain house and land, and a quarter and a half a quarter of an acre of land lying in Newbury in New Lane. [Ibid, 73: 102.]

May 18, 1750. He of Falmouth, County of York, coaster, and Mary his wife, Anthony Knight of Falmouth, laborer, and Elizabeth his wife, David Woodman of Falmouth, cordwainer, and Mary his wife, for £87, sells Richard Lee of

Marblehead, shoreman, all that messuage in Marblehead, consisting of a dwelling house formerly belonging to Joseph Adams, deceased, with the garden and land adjoining. [Ibid, 97: 6.]

DAVID STICKNEY early engaged in navigation, was a master mariner, and made frequent voyages as a coaster. Rev. Thomas Smith makes mention in his Journal of "June 23, 1738, taking passage from Boston with (Capt. David) STICKNEY; that they got to Cape Ann, 24th, and home at Falmouth, Me. 25th." Also that "Capt. DAVID STICKNEY died suddenly here, May 30, 1771, and I attended his funeral."

His widow, Mary Stickney's loss in the destruction of Falmouth, by the English, Oct. 18, 1775, was estimated at £270 in buildings. Personal estate £19. She died in Falmouth, Me., May 1780, aged 72.

JAMES STICKNEY, b. in Rowley, Oct. 3, bapt. in Byfield church, Oct. 9, 1715; m. in Bradford, Jan. 1, 1735, Eleanor Wilson, both of Rowley. She was admitted to Second Church in Rowley, Dec. 5, 1742, and dismissed to the church in Hampstead, N. H., Aug. 2, 1752, of which she was an original member. He m. 2d, Mehitable Giles.

On his father's death he was but two years of age, and Feb. 28, 1731, Deacon William Fisk was appointed his guardian, who gave bonds with Benjamin Stickney [23] and Andrew Stickney [63]. [Essex Prob. 16: 218.]

JAMES STICKNEY is found on the muster roll of Capt. John Goffe's company, as a corporal, and one of the forty-four men who were out as scouts to protect the frontier against the incursions of the Indians, from April 26, 1746, to May 20. He was in service from twenty-four to thirty-three days; his wages £1, 8s. 3½d. After May 20, he was one of the thirteen men who were out with him, on his scout of ten days, from Amoskeag. He removed to Hampstead about 1752, and Aug. 24, 1757, entered the company of Capt. Anthony Towle, raised for the defence of Fort Edward, and was discharged Nov. 8, 1757. [Adj. Gen. Rep., N. H., 1866, Vol. 2.]

He was one of the earliest settlers of Bath, N. H., where he probably died. The order of the succession of his children is uncertain.

Eleven children: —

213. Mehitable, b. ——— ; m. Elisha Locke, had six sons and three daughters, all living in 1866, in Sweden, N. Y. They have both deceased.

BENJAMIN STICKNEY, Jr., b. in Rowley, Sept. 28, bapt. Oct. 12, 1701, was pub. Jan. 25, 1730–1, and m. (date not known) to Elizabeth, dau. of Samuel and Sarah (Burpee) Spofford, who was b. April 30, 1702. She was admitted to Byfield Church, Dec. 25, 1727, and d. Jan. 10, 1789.

July 1, 1725 and June 6, 1733. He received land in Rowley by Deed of Gift from his parents Benjamin and Mary Stickney [see pp. 47 and 48]. March 20, 1728–9, he with his father sells land [see p. 87] to Jonathan Stickney [74].

July 4, 1739. He buys of Jeremiah and Mary Jewett of Rowley, for £100, 4 acres of land in Rowley, at Long Hill, "near Stickney's land, which he sells to pay legacy that his deceased father ordered by his Will to be paid to his sister Priscilla Jewett." [Essex Deeds, 81 : 212.]

May 19, 1747. He with wife Elizabeth of Rowley, Daniel Burbank, Isaac Adams and Samuel Spofford, Jr., all of Boxford, for a deed of acquitance, bearing date with this, from Edward Wood and wife Mary of Bradford, acquit all their right in two pieces of upland in Boxford, "said lands formerly given by old Mr. Samuel Spofford to his daughter." Wit. Sarah Stickney [78]. [Ibid, 102 : 121.]

Benjamin Stickney, died March 12, 1756, and was buried in Byfield, where a stone is erected to his memory.

June 21, 1756. Adm. on his estate was granted to his widow Elizabeth Stickney. [Essex Prob., 34 : 23.] Inv. of his estate July 4, 1757, dwelling house and barn, &c. Amount £720, 7s. 9d. April 2, 1759. A division was made of his real estate, and July 25, 1759, there was set off to the widow, one-third, viz : "E. end of House and cellar, part of Barn, 2¾ acres of Hawk Meadow, 2½ acres in a Field Lot, bounded by Lambert's land in Rowley, 3 acres of Woodland, Salt Marsh at Shad Creek, 4½ acres in the New field, also liberty of setting in the Pew belonging to the estate in Byfield Meeting House. The other two-thirds into six equal parts. No. 1, part of W. end of house and barn, half of pew, 1 lot at W. end of orchard, Salt Marsh in Rowley; No. 2, two acres of Mowing ground joining estate of Dr. Kilborne, late of Rowley, 1 orchard lot and field lot; No. 3, Part of W. end of house, and old shop; No. 4, Orchard and Mowing lots, 5¼ acres of land bounded on Bradstreet's land, and that belonging to the heirs of Jonathan Stickney [74], late of Rowley; No. 5, part of house and barn, half of Pew, lot of tillage land at Rooty Plain, 5 acres in Wood lot in middle commons, in Rowley, lying N. of Capt. John Pearson's tenement in Rowley, lot in New field; No. 6, five acres of upland and meadow at Hawk Meadow. July 30, 1751, No's 1 and 2 settled on Benjamin, eldest son, as his double share; No. 3, on son Amos; No. 4, on dau. Sarah; No. 5, on legal representatives of son Thomas, deceased; No. 6, on legal representatives of dau. Elizabeth, deceased." [Ibid, 36: 161.]

June 4, 1759. Deacon William Fisk of Rowley, was appointed guardian of Sarah, a minor, above 14 years of age, and Amos, under 14 years of age, Benjamin Stickney's children. [Ibid, 36: 132.]

Benjamin Stickney, settled with his father on Long Hill, was a farmer, and went but little from home. As remembered by his granddaughter, Mary Stickney [697], from her parents description, "He was of light complexion, brown hair and blue eyes, thick set and very tall; he never enjoyed good health, and died of the Typhus Fever in one week after his father. He was an obedient son, a kind husband, a tender parent, an affectionate friend, faithful to his trust. His wife survived him a number of years; she had black hair, a white delicate skin, broad forehead, nose aquiline, bright blue eyes and red lips, a handsome double chin; tall, well-shaped, a temper mild and sweet, kind, pious, exemplary in her conduct. It might be said of her, as the apostle says, 'whatsoever things are lovely,'" &c.

Among the articles which have descended to the writer, are two of her dresses, one of them a yellow pongee, her wedding gown; the other a green poplin; also a small pocket memoranda book, belonging to her father, Samuel Spofford, which contains in his own handwriting what he had bestowed upon his children on marriage. "To my daughter Elizabeth Stickney, eighty pounds, and ye reason I give her more than her Sisters, is because she lived longer with me than her Sisters."

Also a volume containing "Three Practical Discourses" on "Man's last end," "A Golden chain of four links," "A Sermon of Dives and Lazarus," printed in Boston, 1719, in which is the handwriting of himself, his son Benjamin Stickney and his son Thomas Stickney.

Guardianship of Jeremiah, Moses, Samuel and Eunice Stickney, all minor children of JONATHAN STICKNEY, late of Rowley, dec'd, granted to his widow Mary Stickney, June 27, 1748. Same time guardianship of his son William, was granted to William Fisk. [Ibid, 28 : 68.]

Their uncle, Deacon William Fisk of Rowley, remembered these children in his Will of Feb. 14, 1765. [Ibid, 42 : 23.]

The house JONATHAN STICKNEY erected previous to 1733, at the foot of Long Hill, by inheritance and purchase, became the property of his son, Capt. William Stickney [248]. On his death, in the division of his estate, it fell to his son Capt. David Stickney [679], who, Oct. 9, 1801, sold it to Jeremiah Chaplin of Rowley, who had married his second cousin, Eunice Stickney [582], who sold it to Jacob Cheney; he sold it in 1809, to his brother Mark Cheney, who died 1850. It is now owned and occupied by Mr. Ebenezer P. Rogers, who gave the writer a piece of one of its old oaken timbers, Aug. 6, 1867.

Six children:—

Jacob Barker of Rowley, for £2, 13s. 4d., sells SAMUEL STICKNEY, Jr. of Rowley, one-half an acre of land in Rowley, on the N. side of Long Hill field, formerly the estate of Nathan Barker, late of said Rowley, deceased, and is bounded on Scot's lot. Ack. Aug. 29, 1755. This Jacob Barker's daughter Elizabeth, m. SAMUEL STICKNEY's son Isaac [258]. The deed is written upon a blank, stamped with the two penny Revenue Stamp of the Colony, size of an English shilling, which bears the impress of a Cod, surrounded with the legend: "Staple of the Massachusetts."

May 16, 1757. He was on Capt. John Northend's Alarm List of the First Foot Company of Rowley. [Mass. Archives.] It was composed of those who were aged, and others not subject to military duty. He was also a Juryman, May 14, 1760.

Dec. 22, 1768. "SAMUEL STICKNEY of Rowley, yeoman, with Faith, his wife, for Love and goodwill to son Jedidiah Stickney of Rowley, yeoman, and in consideration of his not causing his said son to be instructed in some useful trade, or occupation, do give and grant unto him, his then dwelling house and Saw Mill, and other buildings, then belonging to him, the said SAMUEL STICKNEY, also all the land he then occupied and possessed, on S. and N. side of the highway leading to said buildings." Wit. Benjamin Stickney [225], Amos Stickney [229]. Ack. April 7, 1773, by Samuel and Faith Stickney, before Joseph Gerrish, Justice of Peace.

Such was the confidence existing between these parties that the above four deeds were never recorded, and are now in the possession of his great-grandson, the writer, to whom they descended.

SAMUEL STICKNEY resided with his father, on Long Hill, until the death of his first wife, which took place within a year of their marriage. She died of consumption soon after the birth of a child, which also died. He afterwards married Faith Platts, and bought a mill privilege in 1733, adjoining the ancient homestead of the Platts', and set up works for the clothier business on the east side of the river, called as early as 1662 Mill River, using the dam, built as early as 1699, to accommodate the second Grist Mill erected in Rowley. It not agreeing with his health, he left it and erected a Saw Mill, and a substantial two story house (similar to those of his father and brother Jonathan), which, as was usual at that period, faced the south, and was about ten rods from the mill. It is still standing (1868), and was occupied by the family from generation to generation, till it came into the possession of the writer.

SAMUEL STICKNEY, having liberally provided for his other children, about ten years before his death, conveyed his homestead by Deed of Gift, to his son Jedediah Stickney. His other children had settled in the Province of Nova Scotia (now New Brunswick), and to prevent Jedediah settling there, which he intended, he gave him the homestead.

SAMUEL STICKNEY died April 4, 1778, and was buried in Byfield. "He was a generous man, kind to friend and family." To his great-grandson, the writer, has descended his Bible and Psalm Book.

July 30, 1790. Faith Stickney of Rowley, spinster, relict of SAMUEL STICKNEY of Rowley, deceased, for £20, sells Jedediah Stickney of Rowley, her son, 7 acres of land in Rowley, reserving to herself the use of it during her life. [Essex Deeds, 158: 198.]

Jan. 13, 1794. She sells her daughter, Elizabeth Stickney, wife of Benjamin Stickney [227] of Rowley, gentleman, land in Rowley, on road leading from Byfield Parish to Line Brook Parish, &c. [Ibid, 158: 91.]

Jan. 29, 1795. She sells her grandson, Samuel Stickney [580] of Rowley, cordwainer, for twenty years from the date of this, which will be to January, 1815, 28 acres of land in Newbury, bounded south on land of her son Jedediah Stickney, and west by her daughter Elizabeth Stickney's. [Ibid, 159: 21.]

Widow Faith Stickney died March 31, 1801, aged 91, and was buried in Byfield. "She was a person of great courage, resolution, and of exemplary piety."

Nine children:—

Dec. 19, 1743. He received from Mary, widow of Jonathan Stickney [74], late of Rowley, deceased, £50 in full, of a legacy given him by his honored father, Benjamin Stickney, in his Will. Wit. Benjamin Stickney, Jr. [71]. [Essex Prob. 28: 34.]

Capt. Amos Stickney died in Newbury Jan. 18, 1756. [Gravestone.]

He was a shipmaster, engaged in foreign trade. Whilst in London, England, he visited the Herald's office, and procured the Coat of Arms of the family. He died soon after at the early age of 37, and it is not known what disposition was made of it. When at Hull, he made enquiries for those of his name, and it is said found there, those who supposed themselves to be connected with his family. One relic alone remains of him to us, a curious box brought from over the sea.

Feb. 16, 1756. Adm. on the estate of Amos Stickney, late of Newbury, mariner, deceased, intestate, was granted to his widow, Abigail Stickney. [Essex Deeds, 33: 186.]

—84.—

JOHN STICKNEY, b. in Newbury, Sept. 18, 1711; m. at North Hill (now North Hampton, N. H.), Feb. 23, 1737, Abigail, dau. of Col. Joshua and Mary (Lunt) Wingate of Hampton. She was b. June 30, 1715, admitted to the First Church in Newburyport July 2, 1738, from the First Church in Hampton, and d. Jan. 9, 1755. He was m. 2d, in Newbury, by Rev. John Lowell, Sept. 9, 1756, to Joanna, dau. of James Horton of Newburyport.

April 15, 1735. JOHN STICKNEY of Newbury, boat-builder, for £110, buys of Jonathan Dole of Newbury, land in Newbury. [Essex Deeds, 80: 80.]

Jan. 31, 1741–2. JOHN STICKNEY was admitted a member of the First Church in Newburyport. Dec. 12, 1749, he was a member of the Monthly Society, and April 3, 1774, was chosen a messenger to the ordination of Mr. David Tappan over the Third Church in Newbury, to which he with one other went, "the pastor having gone a journey."

Feb. 15, 1747. He administered on the estate of his sister, Mrs. Eunice Farmer [83], late of Newbury. [Essex Prob.]

June 5, 1750. He was chosen one of a committee to provide a school-house for the town school, in the Third Parish of Newbury (now First in Newburyport); treasurer, 1753, and March 23, 1767, a trustee to let out the money that was given for the benefit of the poor of the parish: on the Alarm List of the Fifth Company of Militia in Newbury, commanded by Capt. Richard Greenleaf, 1757; Grand Juryman, July 10, 1765 and 1766.

June 20, 1775. JOHN STICKNEY of Newburyport, merchant, for love, goodwill and affection, to his son William Stickney of Newburyport, chaise-maker, as well as in consideration of £100, sells him a certain piece of land in Newburyport, 26 rods, bounded N. W. by land of Daniel Marquand, N. E. by land of Dr. Thomas Moody, S. E. by land of William Noyes, S. W.

by Liberty street, being land he purchased of Daniel and Mary Marquand (Dec. 3, 1766. Deed, 126; 66), together with house, shops, and other buildings thereon. [Ibid, 134: 231.]

JOHN STICKNEY became an eminent merchant, importing most of the goods he sold directly from London, as appears by an advertisement of his in one of the first newspapers issued in Newburyport, the 16th number of "The Essex Journal and Merrimack Packet," of April 6, 1774, when he was in partnership with his son John.

Among the articles which he advertises, and in which he appears to have dealt largely, were "Phila. barr iron of all sizes, English and German Steel, London Pewter and Brass Kettles, Iron Hollow Ware of all sorts, Naval Stores, Cheshire Cheese and Butter, Fine and surperfine Flour," of which (Flour) it is said he was the first importer there. He left a very valuable estate, which is said to have included the square, from Ann to Pleasant street, in Newburyport.

JOHN STICKNEY died in Newburyport, July 4, 1775, his gravestone, and that of his wife Abigail, may still be seen in the old Cemetery at Newburyport, on the south-west height of the burying hill.

Will of JOHN STICKNEY of Newburyport, merchant, dated June 21, 1775, proved July 11, 1775, recorded Essex Prob. 51: 153. "Being of sound mind and memory, blessed be God for it, calling to mind the uncertainty of Life, and being desirous to settle my affairs before my Death, Do make and ordain this to be my last Will and Testament," &c.

"Imp. I give and bequeath unto Joanna Stickney, my wife, £20 per annum, to be paid her yearly by my Executor, hereafter named, during the term of her natural life, in consideration of her giving up her Right of Dower, or thirds; also I give her at her own Disposal, all the Household furniture which she brought me," &c.

He was on board the Sloop "Massachusetts," Capt. Joseph Sanders, from Sept. 11, 1760, to April 29, 1761. In the bill of Peter Parker, dated at Boston, May 1, 1761, charges were made to "Capt. Sander, for extra expenses at Monto Christo, in attendance of sick, being 7 weeks." He enlisted from Tewksbury, June 2 (1761?), and served until the 13th of the December following. He enlisted from Andover, in Capt. Edward Blake's Co., and served from Nov. 2, 1762, to May 18, 1763. At Ticonderoga, June 4, 1763, in Capt. Elisha Turner's Co. [Mass. Archives.]

He settled in Newburgh, N. Y., which place was granted by patent to Alexander Baird & Co., and was divided into lots of 200 acres each, the management of it was placed in the hands of Mr. William Brown of Salem, Mass., with a view evidently to invite emigrants from that Province. Brown sold Dec. 25, 1749, twenty-six of the lots, numbered from 4 to 30, to Samuel Belknap, for which he paid, £1,500; in 1766, to James Stickney, part of a lot, also lots to Thomas and David Belknap.

James Stickney, "after his marriage there, removed to Sawangunk, Orange County, N. Y., purchased a tract of land, built mills and accumulated considerable property before the Revolutionary War. During the war he held a Lieutenant's commission and was employed in preventing disaffected persons from running cattle and other property to the British. He was a man of strong natural talent, and was always much respected by his neighbors." See the letter of David Belknap Stickney [942]. His grandson, Abraham Stickney [941], has a manuscript copy of a Fourth of July oration delivered by him in 1822 (the year before his death), in which it is stated that he is eighty years of age.

Jan. 13, 1776. JOHN STICKNEY of South Hadley, enlisted as a private in Capt. James Kendrick's Co., in Camp at "Castleton, No. 3." He was an Adjutant from Aug. 25, to Dec. 2, 1777, and was at the taking of Burgoyne, Oct. 17, 1777, in Col. Woodbridge's Reg., Capt. Moses Harvey's Co., and Dec. 2, 1777, he was on his way home. In 1778 he was a Sergeant in Capt. Morton Waters' Co., Col. Woodbridge's Reg. [Mass. Archives.]

In 1785 he was chosen Town Clerk and Treasurer of South Hadley, which office he held one year.

JOHN STICKNEY when about seven years of age, was apprenticed to Isaac Davenport, a shoemaker and butcher, who lived at Milton, where he continued some seven or eight years. He then went to Boxford and Newbury, where he resided a year or two. He returned to Stoughton, and learned of William Dunbar, a Justice of the Peace and Lawyer, the new style of music which he taught in Hatfield, Northampton, South Hadley (in the latter place he and his wife Elizabeth, became members of the Congregational Church, Joel Hayes, Pastor), then in Hartford, Wethersfield, New Haven, and other places in Connecticut. In the face of considerable opposition, he persevered until he had banished the old, and introduced the new method of singing. It was his custom to write the music for his scholars, some sixty copies a day. He was a fine penman.

He bought a farm of John Smith, in South Hadley, near the Connecticut river, on which he worked in the summer. He taught singing school in the winter, until he was about 65 years of age.

He died April 23, 1827, and was buried in South Hadley, where a monument was erected to his memory, bearing the following inscription:

"JOHN STICKNEY, Doctor Sacræ Musicæ, died April 23d, 1827, Æ 83 years. Elizabeth H., his wife, died May 28, 1813, aged 68 years. Lucy N., his 2d wife, died Decem. 24, 1836, aged 86 years."

WILLIAM STICKNEY, b. in Bradford, July 26, bapt. Aug. 1, 1725; never married.

Aug. 11, 1746. Lieut. Jonathan Bradley took six men of Capt. Ladd's Co., and one other, to go about two and a half miles from Rumford Town, to a garrison; when they had gone about one and a half miles, they were shot upon by thirty or forty Indians, the Lieut. and four of his men were killed on the spot. WILLIAM STICKNEY and Alexander Roberts were taken prisoners, and one escaped. "After about one year's detention in Canada, WILLIAM STICKNEY found means to escape with a friendly Indian, and proceeded on his way home, to within about one day's journey of the White settlement, when they fell short of provisions. The Indian directed Stickney to light a fire, and encamp, while he would go in quest of game. After Stickney had prepared his camp, he went out to hunt, and in attempting to cross a river on a log, fell in and was drowned. This was the story the Indian told the people when he came to Rumford, but from the circumstance of his being dressed in Stickney's clothes, many were led to doubt the truth of it."

THOMAS STICKNEY, b. in Bradford, June 15, 1729, bapt. same day; m. in Concord, N. H., Anna, dau. of James and Hannah (Hazen) Osgood. She was b. July 18, 1732, and d. in Concord, N. H., Jan. 20, 1802.

THOMAS STICKNEY settled with his father in Concord, N. H. Owing to the incursion of the Indians, and several of the inhabitants being killed and others carried away captive, Garrison Houses were established, among others the house of Jeremiah Stickney was selected, and of those who composed its garrison were his sons William and THOMAS.

He was out under Capt. John Sanders, as shown by the journal of James Osgood, the clerk of the Company, from Sept. 4 to 12, 1747, when they went up into the woods as far as Rumford and Canterbury. [Mass. Muster Rolls, Vol. 2.]

May 1, 1748. THOMAS STICKNEY was out under Capt. John Goffe, in the neighborhood of Amoskeag, to defend the frontier from the Indians.

In 1755 he paid £7, 1s. 8d. towards the salary of Rev. Mr. Walker, and was appointed 1767, '70, '74, Tythingman, and continued to be chosen to serve in nearly every office of the town until his death.

He was one of a Committee to repair the Meeting House, April 7, 1772; chosen Selectman, 1774. This was the year that the difficulties were settled between the proprietors of Bow and Rumford, when a tract of land in Maine was granted to the proprietors of Rumford, which they called by that name and in which three rights were granted to THOMAS STICKNEY.

He received his commission as Lieut. Col. of the 15th N. H. Reg., Jan. 20, 1774, of which Andrew McMillan, Esq., was Col., and Benjamin Thompson, Esq., was Major. Col. McMillan was the brother-in-law of Lieut. Col. Stickney, he having married, Nov. 12, 1761, Hannah Osgood, a sister to his wife Anna. Maj. Thompson was afterwards highly distinguished in Europe, made by the Duke of Bavaria a "Count of the Holy Roman Empire," to which he added the title of Rumford, in remembrance of his former residence. He was a liberal benefactor of Harvard University, and died on his estate at Auteuil in France, Aug. 21, 1814, aged 62. Cuvier pronounced a eulogy to his memory before the Institute of France, Jan. 9, 1815.

THOMAS STICKNEY was Moderator of Town Meetings, 1775, '76, '77, '78, '80, '81, '82, '89. He pledged his life and fortune to sustain the Colonies in the Revolution, March 14, 1776, and was chosen one of the Committee of Safety. Their power was extensive, and their trust one of great responsibility, none but the firmest Whigs were appointed. March 4, 1777, he was again appointed on Committee of Safety, and was also employed for arresting Tories; Representative, 1777, '78, '79.

Colonel at Ticonderoga, July, 1777, where one of the Captains in his Reg., was Ebenezer Webster, father of the Hon. Daniel Webster. Col. THOMAS STICKNEY, was one of twenty-eight men from Concord, who were in the Battle of Bennington, Aug. 16, 1777, where he commanded a Reg. under Gen. Stark, on the right wing of the army, and where he particularly distinguished himself. July 3, 1777, the Committee of Safety wrote to Col. STICKNEY to send off all the militia he possibly could. Jan. 26, 1778, he was chosen Representative to the Convention which met to form a plan of government for the State. His Town rate for 1778 was £14, 11s. 6d.

Aug. 3, 1778. Col. STICKNEY was ordered to raise volunteers and to send them with all speed to join Gen. Sullivan at Rhode Island. In 1779, chosen on Committee of Safety, and March 12, 1780, delegate to the ordination of Mr. Colby, at Pembroke. In 1781, a convention was called in Concord, for planning another form of government; they adjourned to Jan., 1782, when the Constitution was rejected. Nov. 29, he was appointed one of a Committee to take the subject into consideration, and another meeting was held, Dec. 16, 1782, of which Col. THOMAS STICKNEY was Moderator. Oct. 31, 1783, the Constitution was accepted by the people. He was Selectman, 1783, '84, '85, '86. He subscribed $40 towards the Court House, if set on land of his son William Stickney. It was built there in 1790. He and his son Thomas Stickney had one share in the Concord Bridge, Jan., 1795.

Col. THOMAS STICKNEY, a useful and distinguished citizen, and patriot of the Revolution, died in Concord, N. H., Jan. 26, 1809.

ANTHONY STICKNEY was a man of superior abilities, he was in possession of the archives of the family, and left in manuscript, among other things, a paraphrase upon the Bible. Rev. Dr. William Bentley of Salem, presuming upon the friendship existing between the families, obtained from his grandson, Benj. Franklin Stickney [1259], the valuable records and ancient papers of the family, which he never returned. Very recently some of them were recognized in the American Antiquarian Society at Worcester, Mass., to which Dr. Bentley on his death had bequeathed them.

His wife was a favorite niece of Dr. Benjamin Franklin, and there is still in the possession of her great-grandson, Dr. Anthony Stickney Jones of Newburyport, an engraved likeness, done in Paris, of Dr. Franklin, with his autograph, "For Dorcas Stickney, in Newbury," on the back side; also his Electrical Bells, and a letter from him to Anthony S. Stickney, claiming that his first son should be named for him.

They probably both died in Chester, N. H.

BENJAMIN STICKNEY, b. in Rowley, March 5, 1739–40; m. in Ipswich, Jan. 3, 1758, Sarah, dau. of Joseph and Sarah Metcalf of Linebrook Parish, Ipswich. "She was a small woman, with black hair and eyes, and broad forehead." She d. in Rowley, Sept. 5, 1764, aged 27, and was buried in Byfield. He was m. 2d, in Rowley, May 15, 1765, by Rev. Moses Parsons, to his cousin Elizabeth [256], daughter of Samuel and Faith (Platts) Stickney [75], who was b. June 3, 1737. He was admitted to the Byfield Church, Oct. 29, 1758, where his children were baptized.

Benjamin Stickney was a private in Capt. John Pearson's Troop of Horse of Rowley, May 31, 1757, and was also Clerk of the Company. He took an early and active part in the Revolution, and exerted himself to obtain subscribers to a paper called the "Whig Covenant," May 22, 1770. [See Gage's History of Rowley.] He met with opposition, and to counteract the influence of those opposed to signing it, communicated several papers to the Newburyport Herald, copies of which, and the Covenant, with its signers, are now in the possession of the author.

He marched, April 19, 1775, as Lieut. in Capt. Towle's Co., Col. Gerrish's Reg., on the alarm of the Battle of Lexington, to assist his countrymen. On their way to Cambridge, they met the bodies of those persons of Danvers, who were killed at Lexington and Concord. They formed in single ranks on each side of the road, and the mournful procession passed between them. They were absent six days. He was also out as a Sergeant, and served under Capt. John Dodge of Wenham, three months in the State of New York. They marched, Dec. 16, 1776, and were dismissed April 1, 1777, in New York, 340 miles from Rowley, with nearly worthless paper money in their pockets to pay their expenses.

March 10, 1777. The town of Rowley chose a committee to raise or hire fifty men to complete their quota, as required by Continental orders, and the same time it was voted that BENJAMIN STICKNEY be one of a committee to hire the sum of £750 for the purpose. May 13, 1777, the town voted, that if eight of those that had enlisted for eight months service would enlist into the three years service, they would give suitable encouragement to a like number to supply their places. One of the eight who came forward and agreed to enlist in eight months service, was BENJAMIN STICKNEY. Nov. 24, 1777, Lieut. BENJAMIN STICKNEY was at Cambridge, to guard Burgoyne's captured army, as appears by the town records of Rowley. It was voted, Jan. 4, 1781, that the town of Rowley should be divided into twenty-six classes, to hire men for the Continental Army. To Lieut. BENJAMIN STICKNEY was directed one of the lists, and of the eleven persons of whom it was composed, and of a tax of £3812, 2s. Continental money, his own quota was £329, 10s.

Feb. 28, 1765. BENJAMIN STICKNEY, Jr. of Rowley, yeoman, for £106, 13s. 8d., buys of his sister, Sarah Stickney, Jr. [230] of Rowley, spinner, all her right and title in the estate of her late father, Benjamin Stickney [71] of Rowley, dec'd, intestate. [Essex Deeds, 133: 182.]

March 3, 1773. He, with wife Elizabeth, sells to his brother, Amos Stickney [231] of Rowley, yeoman, all his right and title to the half of lands that was his sister Sarah Stickney's [230] portion, of her father, Benjamin Stickney's [71] real estate. Wit. Jedediah Stickney [257], Jonathan Stickney [260] his wife's brother. [Ibid, 143: 43.]

May 23, 1792. BENJAMIN STICKNEY of Rowley, gentleman, and Elizabeth, his wife, for £80, sell Jedediah Stickney [257] of Rowley, miller, all his share in real estate of his father, Benjamin Stickney [71], late of Rowley, which was assigned to his late mother, Elizabeth Stickney, relict of said Benjamin, dec'd, as her right of dower, including what he purchased of his sister Sarah, in Rowley. Wit. Amos Stickney [231], his brother. [Ibid, 154: 205.]

Jan. 13, 1794. Faith Stickney of Rowley, spinster, and relict of Samuel Stickney [75] of Rowley, yeoman, dec'd, for £30, sells her daughter, Elizabeth Stickney, wife of BENJAMIN of Rowley, gentleman, land on road leading from Byfield Parish to Linebrook Parish. Wit. Lucy Stickney wife of Amos [231]. [Ibid, 158: 91.] This land she sells, June 29, 1795, to her son, Samuel Stickney of Rowley. [Ibid, 159: 21.] Nov. 14, 1795, Faith Stickney sells her daughter, Elizabeth, 15 acres more of land in Rowley. [Ibid, 169: 26.]

BENJAMIN STICKNEY, by inheritance and purchase, became the principal owner of the homestead on Long Hill, where he resided, but becoming embarrassed by the expenditures he made during the Revolution, and the depreciation of paper currency, he was forced to part with his property. He died in Rowley, of the palsy, Jan. 1, 1801, and was buried in Byfield. "He was a generous man, of pleasing manners and polite behaviour, tall and well shaped. His hair was red when young, but as he advanced in life, it turned to a chestnut, his skin very white, inclined to freshness, a large forehead, long nose, and bright blue eyes." His widow, Elizabeth, survived him a number of years; she removed with her son Samuel to Linebrook, where she died of a fever, Aug. 28, 1819, aged 83, and was buried in Byfield. "She was an excellent wife and mother, a kind and generous friend, esteemed by all that knew her. She was rather of a dark complexion, brown hair, gray eyes."

THOMAS STICKNEY, b. in Rowley, Feb. 18, 1740–'1. On the Church records of Linebrook Parish is the following memoranda made by Rev. George Lesslie. "An acct. of ye particular time in wch. I had those at school wt. me. THO. STICKNEY came about the beginning of Dec., 1756, and left me Nov. 23, 1757; ret'd Mch. 14, 1758, and left Aug. 2." Rev. Mr. Lesslie was the first minister of Linebrook, and also fitted young men for College and the Ministry.

"THOMAS STICKNEY was of a middling complexion, dark hair, dark blue eyes, stout, straight built, was a very promising young man, preparing for College." He died in Rowley, of a fever, Sept. 25, 1758. A fine specimen of his handwriting in 1758, in red ink, is now in the possession of the author.

Adm. on the estate of THOMAS STICKNEY, late of Rowley, minor, dec'd, was granted to his brother Benjamin Stickney [227] April 2, 1759. [Essex Prob. 36: 43.]

—231.—

AMOS STICKNEY, b. in Rowley, May 16, bapt. in Byfield, May 18, 1746; was m. June 7, 1770, by Rev. Geo. Lesslie, at Linebrook, to Lucy, dau. of Samuel and Elizabeth (Dickinson) Searle of Byfield. She signed and renewed the Covenant of Byfield Church, April 24, 1788. "She was an industrious, prudent woman, a good wife and mother, a kind and affectionate friend, a sincere Christian. She died in peace, Oct. 8, aged 80, and Oct. 11, 1826, was buried in Byfield."

Dec. 24, 1773. AMOS STICKNEY of Rowley, yeoman, buys of Mary Duty of Rowley, widow, and relict of Samuel Duty, late of Rowley, dec'd, and John Duty of Newbury, grandson, and heir to estate of said dec'd, for £26, 16s. 8d., 7 acres of land on N. E. side of Long Hill, with a dwelling house thereon. [Essex Deeds, 133: 181.] May 7, 1774, he sold it to Moses Smith of Rowley. [Ibid, 133: 181.]

MOSES STICKNEY, b. in Rowley, May 18, bapt. in Byfield, May 31, 1738; m. in Harvard, Nov. 20, 1760 (when of Leominster), to Sybel Farnsworth, of Harvard.

He enlisted from Haverhill, April 15, 1756, in Col. Saltonstall's Reg. for the expedition to Crown Point; and was in Capt. Gideon Parker's Co. of Newbury, Dec. 22, 1756. This year (1756) "his tax was abated (in Haverhill) on account of his services in the expedition to Crown Point." He was in Col. John Greenleaf's Reg., Capt. Samuel Peirce's Co., June 8, 1757, and was enlisted April 7, 1758, in Capt. James Read's Co. [Mass. Archives.]

Nov. 14, 1759. Moses Stickney of Leominster, Mass., yeoman, for £53 6s. 8d., sells William Stickney [248] of Newbury, mariner, and quit-claim to all the land that came to him by his honored father, Jonathan Stickney [74], late of Rowley, dec'd. "At Inferior Court of Common Pleas, held Sept., 1766, Richard and Lydia Stickney [186] made oath to said Moses Stickney's (since deceased) signing the deed." [Essex Deeds, 124: 193.]

Moses Stickney died October 1761.

One child:—

JEDEDIAH STICKNEY, b. in Rowley, May 5, bapt. in Byfield, May 6, 1739; m. Feb. 2, 1768, Sarah, dau. of Benjamin and Elizabeth (Spofford) Stickney [230], who was b. in Rowley, July 16, bapt. in Byfield, July 26, 1743. She was admitted a member of the Byfield Church, Aug. 28, 1768, and renewed and signed the covenant, April 24, 1788.

Jedediah Stickney was on the roll of Capt. John Pearson's Troop of Horse of Rowley, 1757. [Mass. Archives.]

He was of Rowley, in Capt. Israel Davis' Co., "that was in the capitulation of Fort William Henry," and served from March 18, to Oct. 24, 1757, receiving £14, 4s. 2d., wages. [Ibid.]

Jedediah Stickney (my grandfather) was drafted, when eighteen years of age, to serve in the war in which New England was then engaged against the French and Indians. He marched with other New England troops, under the command of Col. Joseph Frye of Andover, in the company of Capt. Israel Davis of Topsfield (my maternal great-grandfather), to reinforce the garrison at Fort William Henry.

Aug. 2, 1757. Montcalm, with about 13,000 of the French and Indians, besieged the place with a train of artillery. The garrison being small, and receiving no reinforcements, were obliged to capitulate, but not until after a gallant defence of six days. The terms of capitulation agreed upon, were, that Col. Munroe should deliver up the fort, and its materials of war, and they should swear on the Bible that they would not serve against France for eighteen months. For their security from the Indians in his army, Montcalm would furnish them with a guard of five hundred Frenchmen and covered wagons to carry their baggage to Fort Edward, and they should march out with the honors of war.

On the following morning, at break of day, the whole garrison, about 2,000 men, besides women and children, were drawn up within the lines, with their arms, but no ammunition. As they moved forward to Fort Edward, no guard, as promised, appeared to protect them, and they were left to the savages, who, having been promised plunder, now fell upon them, stripping them of their arms and clothes, killing or dragging all they could put their hands on into captivity.

JEDEDIAH STICKNEY threw off most of his clothes to render himself more secure from the grasp of the Indians, who were now so mingled with them that they could, for their own safety, use only their tomahawks and knives. A tall Indian seized him by the shoulders, but by a back stroke, with the breech of his gun, he threw him off and fled on without looking behind, and made his way safely through the army of Indians to Fort Edward, fifteen miles distant, retaining his arms. (The powder-flask which he used at that place, is now in his grandson's [1637] possession.) His term of service expired Oct. 24, 1757, and he reached home after undergoing almost incredible hardships.

JEDEDIAH STICKNEY was in Capt. Francis Peabody's Co., Col. Jona. Bagley's Reg., from May 29, 1760, to April 16, 1761. Capt. Peabody in his bill, dated Apr. 29, 1761, charges "For cash paid at the Hospital in Virginia for his company." [Mass. Archives]. This was at the demolishing of Louisburg, which commenced June 2, 1760. On the first of December he embarked for Boston; the ship was blown off the coast several times, till the twenty-ninth of January, and then went into Hampton Roads, Virginia; at that place he had a fever, and was unconscious for three weeks; while convalescent he again sailed for home, which he reached in April, 1761, having suffered greatly on the passage from cold and hunger.

JEDEDIAH STICKNEY was in Capt. Towle's Co., Col. Gerrish's Reg., as a Sergeant, and was at Cambridge, April 19, 1775, on the alarm of the battle of Lexington, and received wages for six days' service. [Mass. Archives.]

He enlisted as Sergeant in Capt. John Dodge's Co., Col. Timothy Pickering's Reg., Dec. 16, 1776, and served until March 15, 1777. [Ibid.] He was in the Battle of Princeton, and when with Capt. Dodge, in the Jersey's, was once spoken to by Washington, who enquired from what place the Company (of which he was orderly) came? and when told "from near Boston," Washington observed, "They are a fine body of men." They were discharged in New York, 340 miles from Rowley.

For his services he received payment in Continental Paper Money, then so depreciated that he found a difficulty in passing the same for his travelling expenses home. Some of the identical bills, carefully preserved by him, were given to me, his grandson, with their history, and form the nucleus of a collection which I have since completed, consisting of specimens of every denomination of value, type and date, issued by the Continental Congress. I know of only two other similar collections, one belonging to Dr. Joshua J. Cohen of Baltimore, Md., and the other the late Peter Force of Washington, D. C., now in the Congress Library. There was also received from him a parcel of coins, which were the playthings of my youth; the information derived from him respecting them developed the desire, which I have since gratified, of collecting cabinets of ancient and modern coins, medals, etc.

Jedediah Stickney enlisted as a Sergeant, Nov. 10, 1778, from Rowley, in Capt. Oliver Titcomb's Co., Col. Jacob Gerrish's Reg., to go to Winter Hill. [Mass. Archives.] He remained two months guarding Burgoyne's captured army.

He was on his brother's (Lieut. Benjamin Stickney) classlist to hire men for the Continental Army, Jan. 4, 1781, and his quota was £444.

Soon after the close of the old French War, he with others, from Rowley and vicinity, were induced by the encouragement held out by the Governor of Nova Scotia, to accept of grants of land in that Province, situate on the St. John's River, at a place called Maugerville, Sunbury Co., now New Brunswick, and about 20 miles below Fredericton, the Capital. The lots were 40 rods in front on the river, and extended the same width for several miles back. In laying out the township he drew the lot, No. 94, in the first division, which was bounded on the one side by that set off for the support of the ministry, on which they built their church, and had their burying ground, and on the other by that of the Burpees. It was his desire to settle upon this land, and from thefollowing bill it appears that, "Newbury, May ye 23, 1763.—Rec'd of Jedidiah Stickney, the Sum of one Pound two Shillings and Eleven pence for pay, for to Passage for himself and Horse from Newbury to St. John's River. Rec'd pr. me, Jacob Barker." But he was prevailed upon by his father, to remain with him, as three of his children had already settled in that place.

His parents, Samuel and Faith Stickney [75], conveyed to him by Deed of Gift, Dec. 22, 1768, their homestead, consisting of dwelling-house, saw-mill, and other buildings, also land (see p. 89); and Dec. 11, 1776, when of Rowley, yeoman, he sold Thomas Sanders, yeoman, of Maugerville, Nova Scotia, "one whole right, the lot in first division, No. 94, drawn by him in the town of Maugerville, Nova Scotia." [Essex Deeds, 139: 1.]

During the Revolution he built a scythe mill, and ground not only scythes (nearly all of which used in the County of Essex were made in Salem, by a number of blacksmiths whose shops were located between the town bridge and Bulfum's corner) but spears and cut-lashes, as instruments of War, for the Army. He afterwards built a grist-mill on the westerly side of the saw-mill.

July 30, 1790. He buys of Faith Stickney [75] of Rowley, spinster (his mother), for £20, 7 acres of land in Rowley, she reserving to herself the occupation and improvement of the same during her natural life. [Essex Deeds, 158: 198.]

Oct. 10, 1791. Samuel Searle of Rowley, and Mehetabel, for £10, sell to JEDEDIAH STICKNEY of Rowley, miller, "one-fourth part of a grist-mill situated upon the stream of fresh water which intersects the road leading from Byfield Meeting House to Linebrook Parish, within the town of Rowley, with one-fourth of land on which said mill stands, and adjoining, which he then possessed in partnership with Deacon Joseph Searle and Mr. Nathaniel Tenney of Rowley." Ack. Oct. 28, 1791, before Parker Cleaveland, Justice of the Peace.

May 23, 1792. He, of Rowley, miller, for £80, buys of Benjamin Stickney [227] of Rowley, gentleman, all his share in real estate of his honored father, Benjamin Stickney [71], late of Rowley, which was assigned to his late mother, Elizabeth Stickney, relict of said Benjamin, dec'd, as her right of dower, including what he purchased of his sister, Sarah Stickney [230], and situate in Rowley. [Essex Deeds, 154: 205.]

May 23, 1792. He buys of Amos Stickney [231] of Rowley, yeoman, and Lucy his wife, for £150, all their right and title in 43 acres of land on Long Hill, in Rowley. [Ibid, 154: 206.] May 23, 1792, he, with wife Sarah, sells to Amos Stickney [231] of Rowley, 35 acres of land on Long Hill, in Rowley, and buildings bounded by said JEDEDIAH STICKNEY'S land. [Ibid, 154: 206.] May 23, 1792, he sells to Aaron Nelson of Rowley, yeoman, one undivided half of 43 acres of land on Long Hill, in Rowley. [Ibid, 154: 207.]

JEDEDIAH STICKNEY was a Federalist, as were his sons, voting for Washington and those that adhered to his principles. "He was a man of great bravery, fortitude and resolution, of a generous temper, kind to his family and faithful to his friends, honest and upright in his dealings. He was a stout, healthy man, had a large, high forehead, brown hair, blue eyes. He retained his reasoning powers and memory to almost the last, After all his toils and troubles, he died in peace in his own bed, surrounded by his weeping family, March 19, 1815, aged 76, and was buried in Byfield."

"His wife, Sarah Stickney, survived him several years; she died of a fever, July 4, 1822, in her 79th year, and was buried July 6, in Byfield. She was a good wife, a tender mother, prudent and industrious, a good manager. She was of a peaceable disposition, her temper uncommonly sweet, a sincere christian, beloved by all that knew her. She was of a fair complexion, black hair, bright blue eyes, features proportioned, and of a middling stature."

JEDEDIAH STICKNEY of Rowley, yeoman; Will dated Dec. 30, 1814, proved May 1, 1815; recorded Essex Prob., 87: 63; gives "To my beloved wife, Sarah Stickney, the use and improvement of one-third part of my real estate, including all my lands and buildings, wherever situated, during her natural life; also one-third part of all my personal estate, after the payment of my just debts, and funeral charges."

Item—"To my beloved daughters Molly Stickney and Sarah Stickney, the use and improvement of the west room on the lower floor . . . . in my dwelling-house, so long as they shall live single and unmarried;" also $350 to each of them, "to be equally paid by my two executors, hereafter to be named, two-thirds to be paid at my decease, and the other one-third at the decease of my wife, Sarah Stickney," also two-fifths of the household furniture on the decease of their mother.

Item—"To my beloved son, Dudley Stickney, the sum of one dollar in addition to what he has already had, to be equally paid by my two executors, hereafter to be named."

Item—"To my beloved son, Thomas Stickney, all my Long Hill lands, two parcels, lying in common and undivided with lands of my said son Thomas." Parcel of Hawk Meadow, "also the whole of my dwelling-house, excepting the privileges in said house, given to my two daughters," . . . . also one-eight of the land under and adjoining said house.

Item—"To my two beloved sons, the aforesaid Thomas Stickney and Solomon Stickney, whom I now appoint my joint executors, all the residue of my lands and buildings," also all my personal estate, &c.

The writer has in his possession several relics of his grandparents, which he received of his aunt, Mary Stickney [697], when she was nearly ninety years of age. They are:—His grandfather's silver sleeve buttons; also a button from his wedding coat; his grandmother's wedding dress of red poplin; another dress of her's, brown worsted brocade, and a petticoat of purple moreen; her string of gold beads, earrings, the looking-glass, which they purchased soon after their marriage for £30, China, &c.

Five children:—

ISAAC STICKNEY, b. in Rowley, March 26, bapt. in Byfield, March 29, 1741; m. (date not known) Elizabeth, dau. of Jacob and Mary (Spofford) Barker of Linebrook Parish, Rowley.

Isaac Stickney, "b. in Rowley; aged 19; son of Samuel Stickney; residence Newbury," enlisted in Capt. Anthony Stickney's [179] Co., of Newbury, March 14, 1760, and served until Dec. 10, following. [Mass. Archives.] His services were at Louisburg, whose fortifications he assisted in destroying, after its capture by the Americans under Gen. Jeffry Amherst.

He was taxed in Rowley, Dec. 4, 1761, 17s. 10d.

He received his portion of his father's estate, and soon after removed to Nova Scotia, and settled at a place called Maugerville, on the St. John's River. He was an original proprietor.

Others that removed to the same place, were his near neighbor, Deacon Jonathan Burpee, who had married Hannah Platts (his mother's sister), and their son Jeremiah Burpee (who sold their estate in Rowley, to Lieut. Rufus Wheeler, March 19, 1764). Joseph Barker, Jacob Barker, Richard Easty, Senior, Richard Esty, Junior, Joseph Lesley and John Pickard, all heads of families from old Rowley; a number of young men from Boxford; Daniel Palmer and his family, from Byfield; Nehemiah Howard of Reading, who m. Mary Stickney [255], a sister of ISAAC; Samuel Bridges of Marblehead, who m. Sarah Stickney [261], a sister of ISAAC; also the families of Capt. Francis Peabody, Jewett, Smith and Saunders. I have understood from Mr. Ely Upton, an aged gentleman of Danvers, who was b. in 1759, and d., 1849, that Samuel Upton, his uncle, settled in Maugerville, N. B., about 1763, and his aunt, Anna Upton, m. John Russell of Danvers, and also removed there; that his aunt, Sarah Upton, m. Jacob Barker of Boxford, and settled in Maugerville; that Jonathan Hart went from Lynnfield, about the year 1760, when he was about 60 years old, to Maugerville, N. B., with four sons, Thomas, John, Samuel, and Aaron. This family were descendants of Governor Endicott.

ISAAC STICKNEY drew a lot, 40 rods in front, on the St. John's River, and extending the same width for several miles back, in that part of Maugerville now called Sheffield, Sunbury Co., New Brunswick. June 10, 1785, he, then "of Maugerville, Province of New Brunswick, joiner," constitutes his brother, Jedediah Stickney [257] of Rowley, his attorney. Oct. 27, 1788, he was of "Sheffield, Sunbury Co., N. B.," and sends a letter to his brother, Jedediah Stickney, in Rowley, by Samuel Bridges.

He was by trade a carpenter. The first house he erected there was destroyed by fire, with nearly all their furniture and clothing, but the second house is still standing, owned and occupied by his grandson, Isaac Burpee, the son of his daughter, Betsey (Stickney) Burpee.

ISAAC STICKNEY acquired a good property, and died in Sheffield, June 15, 1794. His death was caused by a fall from his horse. His widow, Elizabeth Stickney, died in the autumn of 1831, at her daughter's (Betsey Burpee) in Sheffield.

Eight children:—

702. Mehetable, bapt. June 29, 1766; m. Col. Joseph Ryerson.
703. Mary, b. ———; m. William Beckwith of Fredericton, N. B.; no children.
704. Samuel, b. May —, 1769; m. Elizabeth James.
705. William, b. April 13, 1771; m. Agnes Brower.
706. Betsey, b. April 13, 1773; m. Jeremiah Burpee.
707. Benjamin, b. Oct. 16, 1775; m. Mary Barker, Nov. 16, 1797.
708. Hannah, b. Sept. —, 1777; m. William Taylor.
709. Amos, b. July —, 1785; died, aged two years.

—260.—

JONATHAN STICKNEY, b. in the First Parish of Rowley, Feb. 10, bapt. in Byfield, Feb. 12, 1745; never married.

He was prepared for College, at Dummer Academy, during the incumbency of Master Moody. He entered Harvard College, as it appears by their records, in July, 1773. He was there March 4, 1774, and the spring of 1775, till the occupation of the College at the commencement of the Revolution, by the government, when he left, probably in the Junior year.

"Jonathan Stickney, Jr. in Ipswich jail, April 18, 1776, for clamorous talking against the new government." [General Court Rec.]

"He was a Loyalist, like others of his class, and on his return to Rowley he was prosecuted and imprisoned, merely for expressing his views, for he never acted against his country. He thought it wrong to resist the government; that it was impossible for us to gain our liberty, and that if we could we should not be able to govern ourselves. He left Rowley for the British headquarters in New York, with the view of going to England, but from information afterwards received by the family, from a British officer, probably died in New York." He was, I have heard Dr. Parker Cleaveland say, "a man of superior abilities, and the foremost in his class at College."

AARON STICKNEY, b. April 8, bapt. June 2, 1754, First Church, Newbury; paid poll tax, 1771; drowned, 1772; "an excellent young man."

—265.—

AMOS STICKNEY, b. in Newbury, Sept. 24, bapt. Nov. 2, 1755; was m. in Newburyport, March 11, 1779, by Rev. Thomas Cary, to Sarah Gerrish of Newbury.

Dec. 29, 1785. Amos Stickney of Newburyport, trader, buys land in Newbury. [Essex Deeds, 146: 125.]

Amos Stickney died May 15, 1788 [Gravestone], when he was of Newburyport, shipwright. Adm. on his estate granted to Sarah Stickney, his widow, Sept. 29, 1788. [Essex Prob., 59: 256.] Inv. of his estate given in, Sept. 29, 1788; among the items, one-half of a schooner, one cow right in Common Pasture, one Pew in the Presbyterian Meeting House, 5 rods of land on Pleasant street, part of a dwelling-house and 6 rods of land and part of a barn. [Ibid, 60: 17.]

Sept. 9, 1808. William Stickney, Jr., Elizabeth Stickney, and Benjamin Stickney, received of Enoch Peirce, and Sarah, his wife (as she is adm. of the estate of their father, Amos Stickney, late of Newburyport, shipwright, dec'd), their full share or fifth parts of the personal estate of said dec'd. [Ibid, 77: 27.]

Aug. 3, 1808. Mrs. Sarah Stickney (now Peirce) received her right of dower in the estate of her late husband, viz.:— the N. E. end of dwelling-house in Lime street, the old part, and N. E. half of store, Floor Pew No. 79, in First Presbyterian Meeting House. [Ibid, 77: 26.]

Remainder of estate divided (Sept., 1808) among the children, viz., Benjamin, legal representative of Amos, dec'd; eldest son; Elizabeth, a daughter; and son William. [Ibid, 77: 34.]

Four children:—

710. Amos, b. March 1, 1780; d. unm., June, 1802.

711. William, b. June 12, 1781; m. Susannah Hale, July 17, 1803.

712. Elizabeth, b. Aug. 5, 1785; m. Capt. Jesse Brown, May 16, 1824. She d. May 3, 1826.

713. Benjamin, b. March 12, 1788; d. unm., July 21, 1830. [Gravestone.]

Widow Sarah Stickney was m. 2d., in Newburyport, Aug. 7, 1792, by Rev. John Andrews, to Enoch Peirce, and had three children, viz.:

Sarah, b. Oct. 14, 1793; m. Nathaniel Pierce, Sept. 20, 1820. She d. Feb. 26, 1859. Her son Nathaniel, b. March 28, 1823. Counsellor-at-Law and Mayor of the City of Newburyport, 1868, '69.

Enoch, b. Jan. 27, 1797; m. Betsey Stickney [2501], April 24, 1824; no children. Capt. Enoch Peirce, died Nov. 20, 1832.

Paul, b. Aug. 26, 1801; died Nov. 9, 1801.

—266.—

JOHN STICKNEY, b. in Newbury, Feb. 19, bapt. Feb. 25, 1738–'9, by Rev. Mr. Cushing of Salisbury, at the First Church in Newburyport; never married.

Oct. 2, 1766. He is styled third, of Newburyport, merchant, when he buys of Samuel Emerson of Newburyport, schoolmaster, the easterly half of a dwelling-house in Newburyport, situate in the New Lane, or Cross Street, with land under and adjoining. [Essex Deeds, 126: 66.]

Sept. 10, 1793. He is of Leicester, Worcester Co., merchant, when he sells the above half of a dwelling-house and land to Hugh Pritchard of Newburyport. His brother, William Stickney, Jr. [270], being one of the witnesses. [Ibid 156: 247.]

On the alarm at Lexington he marched, April 19, 1775, with his brothers, William and Joseph Stickney, in the same company (Capt. Moses Nowell's), and received wages for four days' service. [Mass. Archives.]

During the Revolution he was engaged to some extent in privateering, and was the principal in the seizure of a ship which he claimed as being a good prize, but which was decided otherwise in the Court of Admiralty. In the Essex Journal of June 7, 1786, printed at Newburyport, it appears he was one of a committee to instruct the Representatives of Newburyport with regard to the funding of the public securities issued by the state, and to see that those who had taken them at par should not suffer by their too great depreciation.

He was one of the earliest and most enterprising merchants of Newburyport, and the latter part of the life of his father was in partnership with him, they carrying on an extensive business which he continued after the decease of his father, and until his removal to Leicester. There is in the possession of the writer a copy of "The Gentleman and Lady's Musical Companion," "By JOHN STICKNEY," the subject of this memoir, of which several editions were printed, one as early as Feb. 7, 1782, by Daniel Bayley, in Newburyport; 212 pages: a valuable collection, and once in common use in the County of Essex.

On his removal to Leicester he erected a house upon Mount Pleasant, upon the north side of the road, and conducted his business there till near his death. He was a man of very pleasing manners, of a cultivated mind, much esteemed for his social qualities. He inherited from his father a handsome estate, which he increased by a long life of enterprising and successful undertakings.

He died at Leicester, Dec. 5, 1803. [Gravestone.] His estate was settled by his heirs, viz.:—William Stickney of Newburyport, gentleman, and Sarah his wife [270]; Benjamin Johnson of Newbury, painter, and Ann, his wife, in her right [268]; Benjamin Stickney of Newburyport, yeoman, and Katherine, his wife [274]; Thomas Stickney of Worcester, merchant [719]; Joseph Stickney of Worcester, gentleman [721]; Mary Stickney of Worcester, singlewoman and gentlewoman [720]; John [718] and Henry [722] Stickney, both of Baltimore, Md., gentlemen, who sell and convey all their respective right in the real estate of JOHN STICKNEY, late of Leicester, dec'd, to John O'Brien of Newbury, merchant, April 19, 1805. [Essex Deeds, 175: 251.]

—270.—

WILLIAM STICKNEY, b. in Newbury, Dec. 22, 1745, bapt. the same day by Rev. Mr. Barnard; m. Feb. 19, 1777, Sarah, dau. of Rev. Dr. John and Sarah (Barnard) Tucker of Newbury. She d. April 17, 1825, aged 74, in Newbury.

June 20, 1775. He, of Newburyport, chaisemaker, buys of his father, John Stickney [84] of Newburyport, merchant, 26 rods of land in Newburyport, bounded S. W. on Liberty Street (being land he purchased of Daniel and Mary Marquand), with house, shops, and other buildings thereon. [Essex Deeds, 134: 231.] Feb. 1, 1777, his step-mother, widow Joanna Stickney, gave up her right of dower in the above land and buildings. [Ibid, 135: 146.]

On the alarm at Lexington he marched in Capt. Moses Nowell's Co., April 19, 1775, from Newburyport, and received wages for four days' service. [Mass. Archives.] He joined as Lieut., Capt. John Pearson's Co. of Infantry, of Little's Brigade, at Newburyport, and marched from thence to Prospect Hill in Charlestown, and from there to Cobble Hill, now part of East Cambridge; here, in consequence of blistered feet, he was obliged to remain, and could take no part in the battle of Bunker Hill. After recovering the use of his feet he was with his company during the campaign in Rhode Island. For his services he obtained in 1833, shortly before his death, a pension from the government. At the close of the war, returning to Newburyport, he opened a store in Market Square, where he kept many years. At the great fire in 1811 his store and other buildings, together with his dwelling-house in Liberty Street, were consumed, sweeping away a large portion of his property, accumulated by years of toil and industry. He then removed to the Newbury side of South Street (now Bromfield Street), which was then the dividing line between Newbury and Newburyport, where he spent the rest of his life in the midst of his family, beloved and respected, dying August 25, 1833.

Four children:—

714, Sarah, b. Mch. 25, 1778; m. Samuel Prince, Nov. 16, 1800.
715. Ann, b. Dec. 20, 1779; d. unm. Dec. 3, 1866, in Newburyport.
716. Charlotte, b. Jan. 11, 1781; m. John Barnard, Dec. 15, 1805.
717. John, b. Feb. 29, 1783; d. unm. Dec. 14, 1833, in Newbury.

—271.—

THOMAS STICKNEY, b. in Newbury (now Newburyport), April 7, bapt. April 10, 1747–'8, by Rev. John Tucker, D. D.; m. April 23, 1774, Abigail, dau. of Samuel and Hannah (White) Blodget of Haverhill.

Thomas Stickney commenced business with ample means, in his native place, as a merchant. Soon after the birth of his first child, in 1775, he removed, for better security of his family in war time, a few miles up the river to Haverhill, where his father-in-law, Judge Samuel Blodget, was residing. Here he, with Nathaniel Saltonstall, Esq., and other equally influential men of that place, formed a Fire Club, which continued in existence until the establishment by the town of its present Fire Department.

Not long after the birth of his son Joseph Blodget, in 1780, he removed to Boston, where, I find by "The Continental Journal and Weekly Advertiser" of Oct. 30, 1783, he acquaints his friends and customers that he has removed from Cornhill, to a house formally occupied by "Dr. Tailor," where he has for sale a variety of English and other European goods. After the births of his three next children he removed to Leicester, and there purchased the Mount Pleasant Place, where he carried on his mercantile business, and where his two youngest children were born.

The place was then esteemed so beautiful that an engraving of it was obtained by the publishers of the Mass. Magazine, for the April number of 1794, p. 201. A copy of this engraving has since been executed for Ex.-Gov. Washburne's History of Leicester, which contains valuable notices of THOMAS STICKNEY and his brothers. The following notice accompanied the original plate. "This elegant seat is 55 miles from Boston, on the post road to New York; it commands an extensive prospect of the neighboring country, and for salubrity of air is perhaps unequalled. A situation equally favorable for philosophical retirement and manly improvement. The gentleman of agricultural taste, on this farm of 220 acres, may amuse himself with various experiments in the most useful science of husbandry; and the sportsman, from its forests and streams, may find salutary exercise and varied pleasure."

THOMAS STICKNEY died at Mt. Pleasant, Leicester, July 28, 1791. [Gravestone.]

Mr. Stickney was the son-in-law of Judge Blodget, a man of great enterprise, and the founder of the manufacturing city of Manchester, N. H. He was also the esteemed friend and relative of Col. Timothy Pickering, Secretary of State under Washington, their mothers being sisters, and daughters of Col. Joshua Wingate, of Hampton, N. H.

His widow, Mrs. Abigail Stickney, m. Sept., 1792, Capt. John Lyon, Jr. of Worcester, who, Sept., 1795, sold the homestead, then containing 200 acres, with the mansion house, barn, potash, farm-house and all other buildings thereon, to Jas. Swan, then of Boston, for $5,267.

Capt. John Lyon died Sept., 1796, and his widow, June 5, 1808, aged 57, at the house of her son Henry Stickney, in Baltimore, Md.

Nine children:—

—272.—

JOSEPH STICKNEY, b. in Newbury, May 3, bapt. May 6, 1749–50, by Rev. Dr. Tucker. His niece writes, "A gentle and music-loving boy; would have found his way to the classics but for the death of an energetic Mother in 1755."

On the alarm at Lexington, he marched April 19, 1775, in the same company (Capt. Moses Nowell's of Newburyport), with his brothers, and was out four days.

June 17, 1775. He was a private in Capt. Benjamin Perkins Co., Little's Reg., and accompanied him to Bunker Hill.

He inherited a good estate from his father, and like his brother John, lived a bachelor; they were probably concerned in trade and removed together to Leicester, where he died Oct. 29, 1803. [Gravestone].

—301.—

WILLIAM STICKNEY was bapt. in Byfield, March 6, 1757, pub. in Rowley, April 10, 1778, and m. in Salem (date not known) to Judith, dau. of Col. Peter and Love (Pickman) Frye.

When quite a young man he left Rowley to seek his fortune; was the first of the name who made a permanent settlement in Salem, where his manly bearing and pleasing address won the affections of Judith, the daughter of Col. Peter Frye, whom he married. He early engaged in maritime pursuits, became a shipmaster. Was master of the ship "Good Fortune," which cleared from Salem, Dec. 16, 1786, for North Carolina, and died on board his ship at Martha's Vineyard, June, 1788.

April 16, 1792. Judith Stickney of Salem, his widow, recovered judgment against the estate of Colonel Peter Frye (her father, then a refugee in London, England), for a certain sum of money which appears due to her. The estate was appraised April 14, 1792, by Miles Ward, Jr., Otis Mansfield, and Isaac Needham, as the northern end of a dwelling-house, with land under and adjoining, in Salem, near the Creek. [Essex Deeds, 154; 171.]

March 21, 1795. She buys of Edward Smith, of York, mariner, one-half part of a dwelling-house, and piece of land in Salem, which, May 24, 1791, he extended on his execution against Peter Frye, late of Ipswich, Esquire. [Ibid, 158: 279.]

August 17, 1805. Widow Judith Stickney of Salem, sells for $1000, to William Fabens of Salem, mariner, dwelling house in Gedney Court. [Ibid. 193: 158.] March 20, 1812, she of Charlestown, sells to Benjamin Pickman, Esq., of Salem. [Ibid, 196: 211.]

The above property was a part of the confiscated estate of her father, Col. Frye, but through the influence of powerful friends, by some quirk of the law, she obtained a title, for a small sum. It was situated on the corner of two lanes, known as Gedney Court, which leads from High to Summer Street. The house was built as early as 1645, by Richard Claydon, a native of England, and was known as the "French House," so called from having been a place of shelter for a number of unfortunate French emigrants. It was used as a Custom House thirty-four years, and then sold to William B. Brown of Beverly, who sold it to Major Peter Frye of Salem. Dr. Wm. Bentley ascertained the date of its erection, by the mantle-tree, which was marked 1645, in large and handsome characters.

Her father, Col. Frye, died at Camberwell, Surrey, near London, Feb. 1, 1820 (his birth-day), aged 97 years. His daughter, Love Pickman Frye, sister of widow Judith Stickney, then the wife of Dr. Peter Oliver, left Salem with him. After the decease of Oliver, she married 2d, Sir John Knight, and his daughter, Susannah, by a previous marriage, became, June 4, 1815, the wife of Judith's son, Samuel Stickney [778].

JEREMIAH STICKNEY, b. in Tewksbury, April 21, 1783; m. in Pelham, N. H., Feb. 9, 1807, Susannah, dau. of Joshua, Jr. and Comfort (Wallace) Atwood, and grand-daughter of Joshua Atwood. She was born in Orford, N. H., Oct. 23, 1784, and d. in Antrim, N. H., in 1854.

From this gentleman, when at the advanced age of 80 years, I received valuable information respecting himself and father's family, in a letter of twenty pages, written by him with a pencil, he having received, about ten years before, a shock of palsy, which deprived him of the use of his limbs to a great degree.

He states that he early felt an inclination to obtain an education, and with the consent of his parents left Tewksbury, when about sixteen years of age, to live with Dr. Zephaniah Kittredge (who had married his sister Elizabeth), at Mount Vernon, to work a part of the time, to provide the means, and to attend school the remainder, until he had acquired a suitable education for the study of Physic. He attended school there eight weeks, then went to school at Hancock, and boarded with Dr. Stephen Kittredge, brother of Zephaniah. When the term ended he returned to Mt. Vernon, and went from thence to his home in Tewksbury. During his absence his father had sold his farm and most of his outlands, and with his son James, had bought a farm about a mile and a half distant, near the centre of three districts, viz.: the Centre, East and South. The school district had built a good school-house, and here he attended school more than five months, and continued to work on the farm in the best of the season. He studied Latin three months, with Rev. Dr. Church of Pelham. Here he became acquainted with his future wife.

"In the fall of 1803 I attended Westford Academy, and at the close of the term received a certificate certifying to my moral character and qualifications for school-teaching. Having a pretty good smattering of Latin, and a very little of Greek, I commenced the study of Physic, and bought Cheseldon's Anatomy and Quincy's Medical Lexicon, and began my reading near the first of November, 1803. After keeping school for eight weeks, commenced to study with Dr. Aaron P. Grosvenor, of Pelham and left the first of June. Was m. Feb. 9, 1807, to Susannah Atwood. Kept school about thirteen weeks, then bought a good horse, bridle, saddle, saddle bags and valise, and thus equipt went to Mount Vernon, and agreed with my brother-in-law, Dr. Zephaniah Kittredge, to ride with him, and for him, until I should find a suitable place to practice for myself.

On the 16th of April following (1807) intelligence came that Dr. Cleaves, of Antrim, was dead, and the 21st of April I went with my nephew Zephaniah Kittredge, to Antrim, and engaged board with Mrs. Cleaves, the widow of my predecessor; went immediately into practice, and had as much as I could perform. The middle of June hired a tenement in the North Branch situated on a small river called North Branch, Contoocook. This little place contained a Saw and Grist-Mill, a Carding-Machine, and Cabinet-maker, and seven dwelling-houses, and bid fair to become a place of business. I brought my wife here about the 10th of July, 1807, and commenced keeping house; we lived together more than forty-seven years, enjoying as much connubial happiness as falls to the common lot of mankind."

Dr. Jeremiah Stickney, died in Antrim, N. H., Aug. 24, 1865, at his daughter's, Mrs. Mary McIlvin, with whom he lived the latter part of his life.

Y." The Editor of the "Lockport Daily Journal," in his paper of Feb. 5, 1867, thus announces his death:

An Aged and Venerable Citizen Gone.—Death of MARCUS STICKNEY. We are called to make the sad announcement that MARCUS STICKNEY, one of our oldest and most respected citizens, died at his residence on Lock street, on Sunday last (February 3d), at the good old age of eighty-four years.

MARCUS STICKNEY was born in Orange Co., came to Lockport some forty years ago and engaged in the mercantile business, and witnessed the growth of our place from a small village to a flourishing city.

He was Postmaster at Ithaca under the administration of Thomas Jefferson; was at all times an unflinching advocate for freedom and public morals.

In the early days of the anti-slavery struggle, he earnestly and unflinchingly espoused and defended the cause of the oppressed, and was among the first that carried their cause to the ballot-box. He was identified with the Liberty party, and aided in the organization of the first political party in Niagara county, for the overthrow of slavery. As a man of business he was regarded as honorable and just, and by the strictest regard to the laws of health lived to a ripe old age, and died in the full hope of a consistent Christian life.

Mr. STICKNEY was, in an eminent degree, and the strictest sense, 'an honest man, the noblest work of God.' No person who knew MARCUS STICKNEY doubted that every act of his life, whether of a public or private character, was prompted by the dictates of conscience—by his convictions of what is right.

His was a mind which was elevated above selfish considerations, above prejudice, above local influences, and above the peculiar sentiments of the age in which he lived. Principles which are eternal and unchangable were the only rule of his life. Funeral services tomorrow (Wednesday) at three o'clock P. M., from the late residence of the deceased, No. 32 Lock street."

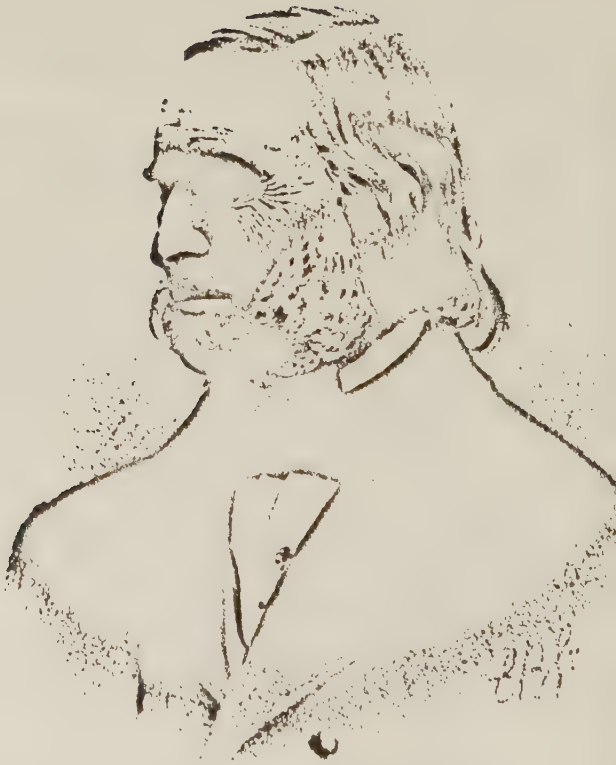
—448.—

JOSIAH STICKNEY, was b. Jan. 6, 1789, in Grafton, Vt., then a new settlement, his father, Deacon William Stickney,



Jacob Stickney

Buffum & Lee, 49 North St. Salem

having removed there a few years previous. He was m. in Boston, Jan. 30, 1814, by Rev. Horace Holley to Susan, dau. of Cyrel and Louisa (Smith) Lee. She was b. in Pomfret, Conn., May 10, 1791, and d. in Boston, Aug. 23, 1828. He was m. 2d in Temple, N. H., Oct. 9, 1824, by Rev. Noah Miles, to Elizabeth, the widow of George Whiting, of Boston; she was b. in Temple, N. H., Aug. 13, 1794, and was the dau. of Deacon Daniel and Hannah (Blood) Searle. His school education was limited; the instruction, advice and example, which he received from his worthy and estimable parents laid the foundation of his future prosperity, and proved his best inheritance.

At the age of nineteen, desirous to seek his fortune, he started on foot during the latter part of December, 1807, for Boston, where his brother, Isaac Stickney, had preceded him, and was engaged in business. On his arrival he soon found employment. On the death of his brother in November, 1809, he was offered the situation, thus made vacant, by Windsor Fay, which he accepted and filled for several years. In the spring of 1815, he with John, the brother of Windsor Fay, succeeded him under the firm of Fay and Stickney, at the same place, where they continued for some time. April 1, 1819, he commenced, on his own account, the West India Produce business, at No. 9 Market Square, where he remained ten years. He then removed to 16 India Street, where he remained another ten years; from thence to Granite Wharf, Commercial Wharf, and lastly to 134 State Street.

In 1831 a company, of which Mr. STICKNEY was the largest individual stockholder (composed of the firms of Preston and Thayer, Lombard and Whitmore, and JOSIAH STICKNEY), purchased some land at Commercial Point, Dorchester, repaired and enlarged the wharves, commenced the whaling and fishing business, and fitted out four ships on whaling voyages. The enterprise did not prove profitable, and was abandoned in 1837 without loss, and the ships sold. A foundry has since been established at that place. In 1846 he performed, by contract, the duties of purchasing and selling agent of the Boston Sugar Refinery, Isaac Schofield taking the in-door business; this continued for more than six years.

Mr. STICKNEY is a worthy representative of a long line of virtuous and intelligent ancestry. As a merchant and a man of business he is highly esteemed by all his associates, and has been frequently called upon to fill many positions of responsibility and trust; and the varied duties have always been performed with great capability and faithfulness, and to the entire satisfaction of all interested. In this connection a few may be specified:—He was an original Director of the Trader's Bank, Boston, chosen for one year, March 30, 1831; Director of the Market Bank, Boston, from its organization in 1831, to the present time (1869), and its President from Oct. 19, 1839 to Oct. 1, 1860, when he resigned; Director of the United States Insurance Company, from 1842 to 1851; Director of the Western Railroad from Feb. 14, 1844, to the union with the Worcester, and since then of the Boston and Albany Railroad; Director of the Concord Railroad, from the organization (chartered in 1835, and built in 1841), until 1866, when he resigned; Vice-President for more than fifteen years, and a Director (since its organization) of the Connecticut and Passumpsic Rivers Railroad.

Mr. STICKNEY has been one of the leading and prominent horticulturists in the vicinity of Boston, and for several years was much interested in the culture of the Dahlia, when that flower began to attract attention, and for so many years was a conspicuous object in our horticultural exhibitions and our gardens during the latter half of the season. In 1835 he became a life member of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, and since that time until the present, has been an officer and a very active member—the President in 1858—and always much interested in its success. He and Hon. Marshall P. Wilder were of the committee, and purchased, on private account, the old Latin School House, on School Street, and offered it to the Society for the site of the Horticultural Hall, which was accepted. Sept. 14, 1841, the corner stone was laid and a fine granite structure was soon erected. After a few years this hall proved insufficient and it was sold. On the 3d of Sept., 1864, the corner stone was laid for the present beautiful structure on Tremont Street, which is very conveniently arranged for the accommodation of the Society.

In testimony of his interest in the operations of this Society he placed in its hands the sum of twelve thousand dollars ($12,000), the income to be annually appropriated agreeably to the terms of an instrument of trust, an abstract bearing date Feb. 5, 1869, herewith annexed.

This sum "is to remain in the possession of the Society for thirty years, the income to the amount of $700, annually to be appropriated to the purchase of books on botany, horticulture, landscape gardening and architecture, as applied to the purposes of the Society, said books to be styled the 'Stickney Library.' When the mortgage of the Society's hall is cleared the fund is to be invested in reliable stocks and styled the 'Stickney Library Fund,' the interest of which is to be used for the increase of the library, in the manner above set forth, until the expiration of thirty years, when it is to be paid over to the President and Fellows of Harvard College in aid of the Lawrence Scientific School, or for the partial support of a Professor of Botany, or for the maintenance of the Botanical Garden, or to increase the botanical and horticultural department of the College Library, as they may see fit."

He has frequently been elected delegate to the conventions of the American Pomological Society, and other similar associations; also an honorary and corresponding member of several of the Horticultural Societies of this country.

Mr. STICKNEY, by personal care and attention to his business and untiring perseverance in every undertaking, succeeded in accumulating a handsome property. In April, of the year 1845, he purchased the beautiful estate, formerly Benjamin Faneuil Hunt's, situated in Watertown, on a bluff, extending out to the Charles River, in the form of a crescent, highly elevated, and commanding an extensive view. To this place he then removed and displayed his taste and love of nature by the culture of flowers and the planting of three of the finest orchards of Pear trees in the state, now numbering some thirteen hundred of the choicest varieties, for which the soil has proved remarkably favorable.

Mr. STICKNEY is a generous and firm friend to all praiseworthy objects, and during the compilation of this memoir has evinced the greatest interest in its success. He has a deep respect for the memory of his ancestors, and has recently contributed liberally in aid of the erection of a fine granite obelisk to the memory of the emigrant ancestor, William Stickney, on the spot where the early forefathers of the ancient town of Rowley sleep.

He has attained the age of fourscore years, with unimpaired faculties of body and mind, and filled with a kind and generous nature. May he live many years to enjoy the fruits of a well spent life, surrounded by his family and friends.

—460.—

ENOCH STICKNEY, b. in Newbury; was bapt. Aug. 5, 1753, at the First Presbyterian Church in Newburyport. He early engaged in navigation; was a master mariner, and I find from a journal, kept by Nicholas Pike, that he sailed Dec. 24, 1783, from Newburyport, and by the "Essex Journal," that he arrived Sept. 3, 1784, in ship Washington, at Alexandria, Va., with 160 indented servants and twenty-six passengers from Cork. Oct. 14, 1791, he arrived at Portland, in the Minerva, forty-five days from Liverpool.

He married in London, England, where he died "in the Parish of St. Mary Magdalen, Bermondsey, County of Surrey," previous to Aug. 19, 1803. As a notice was then given to his heirs, and published in the "Boston Palladium," of his decease, which states that he was "late commander of the ship Hope, in the Granada trade, that he was formerly of Newburyport in the State of Mass., North America." He it seems left a Will in which he gave all his property, both here and in London (of which there was a large amount), to his only child Betsey Sarah; if she deceased it was to descend to his mother, Mrs. Sarah Colman, and his brothers and sisters. His child, Betsey Sarah, died a minor under the age of two years, and a suit in chancery arose, respecting the settlement of the estate. Frequent attempts were made by the heirs here to obtain this property, but without success.

One child:—

1252. Betsey Sarah, b. in London, Eng.; died in infancy.

—463.—

WILLIAM STICKNEY was bapt. at the First Presbyterian Church, Newburyport, Oct. 4, 1747; m. in Haverhill, Feb. 10, 1774 (when he is styled 4th) Elizabeth Pecker, of that place. She d. at Newburyport, Oct. 2, 1827, aged 72. He enlisted July 11, 1775, as a private, in Capt. Moses Nowell's Co., stationed at Newburyport, from Nov. 1, 1775 to Jan. 1, 1776. [Mass. Archives.] Date of his death not known.

Two children:—

1253. Enoch, bapt. Mch. 5, 1775; m. Hannah Collins.

1254. Elizabeth, bapt. May 11, 1777; m. Dudley Hardy, Oct. 28, 1797.

—522.—

JOHN STICKNEY was bapt. in First Presbyterian Church, Newburyport, Dec. 28, 1760; m. Elizabeth, the dau. of Moses Moody.

He enlisted as a private in Capt. Moses Nowell's Co., July 11, 1775, and was stationed at Newburyport, from Nov. 1, 1775, to Jan. 1, 1776. [Mass. Archives.] He sailed from Newburyport, Nov. 15, 1776, in "The Dalton," Capt. Eleazer Johnston. On the 24th of Dec., 1776, she was taken by the British Man of War "Reasonable," and the crew tried for treason. They were committed to Mill Prison, Plymouth, England, June, 1777; finally released and exchanged. JOHN STICKNEY went to France and shipped with John Paul Jones in the "Alliance;" continued in his service till August, 1780, when he returned to Newburyport after four years absence and two or three years imprisonment.

From a deposition made June, 1848; recorded Essex Prob. 114: 412, by Moses Moody of Newburyport, aged 68 years, who lived in the same house with him, and was a connection of his family, it appears that he died at Newburyport, a mariner, about the year 1788. He also states that he had no doubt of the fact that he was a seaman in the Frigate Alliance, John Paul Jones' Squadron, in the Revolutionary War, and that Nicholas Stickney of Portland, Me., was his son, to whom letters of Adm. on his father, JOHN STICKNEY'S estate, were granted June 13, 1848. [Ibid, 154: 19.]

DAVID STICKNEY was bapt., First Presbyterian Church, Newburyport. Sept. 14, 1766, never married. July 1, 1791, he, of Newbury, trader, buys land in Newbury of Ralph Cross, Jr. of Newburyport. [Essex Deeds, 160: 49.]

July 12, 1810. He buys of John Boardman of Newburyport, land and dwelling-house in Newbury, adjoining his other land. [Ibid, 193: 55.] June 14, 1814, he sells Ebenezer Savery of Newbury, 11 rods of land with buildings thereon in Newbury, on Poor's Lane. [Ibid, 204: 186.]

He died in Newbury, July 4, 1842.

—526.—

STEPHEN STICKNEY, b. in Newbury, Aug. 26, bapt. in First Church, Newburyport, Sept. 2, 1759; m. April 20, 1780, Hannah, dau. of Andrew Sargent of Gloucester.

He enlisted in Capt. Moses Nowell's Co., stationed at Plumb Island, from July 9, to Nov. 19, 1776. He enlisted for three years, 1777, '78, '79, from Newburyport, in 11th Reg. in Capt. Greenleaf's Co., and served his time, during which, Aug. 30, 1778, he was called out at the desire of Gen. Stark, under command of Major Bridges, in Capt. Joseph Bellows Co., at the alarm of Bennington, and received wages for services done there. [Mass. Archives.]

It appears from a Power of Attorney (in the author's hands) granted to Capt. Jona. Gardner, Jr., and Capt. William Ross of Salem, July 25, 1781, and signed by the officers and crew of the private Ship of War Disdain, sixteen guns, William Patterson, Commander, that STEPHEN STICKNEY was one of the number who were bound in her on a cruise against the enemies of the U. S. A., and authorized them to dispose of his share of such prizes as they might take.

—388.—

MOSES STICKNEY, b. in Boxford, Mass., Nov. 21, 1751. From his Family Bible I take the following:—

"Princeton, Mass., Sept. 9, 1777. I then entered into Marriage Covenant with Mary Hastings (the daughter of Jonas Hastings and Mary Benjamin, his wife,) of Waltham, Mass., then a resident of Princeton, Mass., and I a native of Boxford, Mass., then a resident of Princeton. We were married by Dr. Wilson of Princeton, Mass. We arrived at our Farm in Jaffrey, N. H., Sept, 10, 1777. We had eight children born to us. We lived together 70 years lacking 4 days; then Mary, my wife, died September 5, 1846, aged 89 years, 4 m. 14 d."

He was a soldier during the Revolution. His daughters, Lois and Charlotte Stickney (at the request of their parents, still live on the farm), composed and read on the day their father was one-hundred years old, the following verses:

"Behold the man with whitened locks,
With firm but wrinkled brow,
Who was a helpless infant born,
One hundred years ago.

Think on that little band of nine,
Who to these wild woods came,
To find a shelter and a home,
And cultivate the land.

Amidst the howling wilderness,
They reared the cottage up,
The savage foe was all around,
The wild bear roamed their lots.

But firm they stood with glowing hearts,
And felled the lofty trees,
Until the savage foe they viewed,
Which caused them to leave.

Their wives and children to them clung,
While tears did fill their eyes,
Their friends with anxious care did plead
For them to leave and fly.

But now no savage foe we view,
No wild bear roams these lots,
But youthful hearts with ardor filled,
Now range these ancient lots.

May the same God those fathers served,
Our firm protection be,
And may we meet when time is past,
In blest eternity."

A gentleman of Jaffrey, N. H., visited Mr. Moses Stickney, Dec, 13, 1851, and writes:—"He lives at the foot of the grand Monadnock, was one hundred years old on the 21st day of Nov. last. The old gentleman enjoys better health than most people younger than himself. His appetite is good, and he can relish and digest as hearty a meal as any one. He has always been an early riser, and tells me that he is now the first one up in the house. He attended the annual meeting and cast his vote, the present year. He walks sometimes as many as four or five miles a day, and takes most of the care of his cattle, yokes his own oxen, and goes into the wood-lot with his team. During the past season he has taken the charge of his own planting and harvesting; he has mowed half a dozen acres or so, and some of it the second time. Mr. STICKNEY's sight is growing dim, but he says that he can see to pick up potatoes, if the sun shines upon them, and he sees the white ones much better than those of any other color. His hearing is so good that it is not at all difficult to converse with him. His memory seems quite tenacious, and he entertains his visitors with almost any amount of stories of the Revolution and 'long ago.' He takes quite an interest of late, in having his apple trees grafted, supposing the grafted fruit will be a source of profit to him in the course of a few years. May he live to see the fruit of his labors."

ELIPHALET STICKNEY, b. in Holden, Mass, Jan. 23, 1773; m. Feb. 5, 1812, Edith Baker of Grafton, Vt. She d. June 9, 1841.

The following obituary notice of this gentleman is copied from the "Plattsburgh, N. Y. Republican," of Oct. 1, 1859:

"At Jay, Essex Co., N. Y., on the 15th of Sept., 1859, Dr. ELIPHALET STICKNEY, aged 86 years.

Dr. STICKNEY was born in the town of Temple, N. H., January 23d, 1773. He was the youngest of six brothers, the five older were actively engaged in the Revolution, one on board a privateer; one being too young to enlist as a soldier, served as a page to an American officer; two were wounded in action.

He had no brother or sister who died under the age of sixty-three; his brother Moses died in Jaffrey, N. H., at the great age of one hundred years and three months.

He is last, save one, of eleven children, and the average years of their lives has been 81 1-2 years. All outliving their husbands and wives. Being early an orphan and penniless boy, by his own inherent energy he attained with labor and school-teaching, a Medical Diploma; was a student in the office of Dr. Goodhue, of Charlestown, N. H.

He came into the township of Jay, Essex County, in the year 1802, and commenced the practice of medicine.

Keeseville and the Ausable River Valley at that time was a primitive forest. And he often told us, that he was compelled during the first years of his practice, to come by bridle path through the Union, via Peru Landing to Plattsburgh, and buy his medicines of F. L. C. Sailly's father, as there was no point nearer, where they could be obtained.

He was for many years a member of the family of the late J. W. Southmayd. He was the pioneer in the purchase of the Arnold Ore

Bed, and obtained the account of its existence from the old Indian Sabeal, partially by medical relief rendered in sickness. A co-partnership was then entered into by Arnold, Southmayd and STICKNEY, all men of wealth, which existed harmoniously, until dissolved by the death of parties. As a man of wealth and a citizen, we think his qualities were rare, and his virtues many; he never changed nor drifted with the popular currents of the day, never swerved from the temperate, frugal, economical New England education of the 18th century. He lived in the days of Ben. Franklin, and early learned his 'Poor Richard's' sayings. 'Laying by a penny every day, and owing no man.' To such fare as supplied his table, the stranger was ever welcome, the needy poor were not turned unrelieved from his door; in his medical practice he had the traits which mark the good physician,—as ready to obey the calls of the poor as the rich. He was a lover of the "filthy lucre," and amassed great wealth, yet we never learned that he took a mean advantage of a poor man's misfortunes."

Eight children:—

JONATHAN STICKNEY, b. in Newbury, Sept. 17, bapt. Oct. 5, 1760; m. in Newburyport, Oct. 1, 1783, Elizabeth Chipman, who was b. Dec. 9, 1759, and d. July 4, 1796. He m. 2d, in Boston, March 5, 1797, Hannah, dau. of Moses Peck.

He was a goldsmith in Newburyport, a skilful manufacturer of gold and silver hollow-ware. He planned and carried into action, Dec. 20, 1786, "The Adelphi Society, for acquiring and promoting knowledge in matters of Religion at Newburyport." Among its first members were Rev. Daniel Dana, Richard Pike, and James Kimball. In 1817 there were twelve members, among them David W. Jones, who deceased March 18, 1848. The Society died out during his life.

He advertises in the "Morning Star" of April 27, 1794:— "Any gentleman in Newbury or Newburyport wishing to join the Artillery Company, may now have an opportunity, by applying to Lieut. J. STICKNEY." He was afterwards elected Captain of this Company.

He fitted himself for the ministry, and Oct. 22, 1800, was ordained over the Congregational Church and Society in Raymond, N. H. He was dismissed, preaching his farewell sermon, Oct. 25, 1807, being nearly worn out with consumption, of which he died in Newburyport, March 11, 1808, 20 minutes past 5, P. M. A stone stands to his memory in the old Cemetery at Newburyport.

His ministry, though brief, was exceedingly successful; and, when on account of failing health, he was obliged to leave Raymond, his people felt that they were losing their best earthly friend. To this day he is most affectionately remembered and spoken of by those who were of his flock, and by their children.

He left a Will, dated Oct. 20, 1806; proved June 9, 1808; recorded Essex Prob., 76: 214; in which he gives legacies to his sons William and Moses, and daughters Mary, Elizabeth, Rebecca, Judith and Hannah; remainder of his real and personal estate to his wife Hannah. She to be sole Executrix.

THOMAS STICKNEY, was b. in Rowley, First Parish, April 16, and bapt. in Byfield, May 31, 1772. He resided with his father, during his life-time, assisting in carrying on an extensive farm, and conducting the business of a grist-mill and a saw-mill, of which, by the Will of his father, in 1815, he became a principal owner. For many years he was a large purchaser of standing timber in Rowley and vicinity, for which, after being sawed in his mill, he found a market at Essex, for ship-building.

He was a very laborious man, and by industry and frugality acquired a handsome property. He was a man of good judgment, a great lover of history and geography, in which he became well versed; his good memory rendered his society useful and agreeable to his acquaintances. He was well acquainted with the past history of his native town, and of his ancestors, and to him, and to his elder sister Mary, the writer is indebted for a great amount of valuable information contained in this Memoir.

He was a conscientious observer of the Sabbath, and one of the original members of the Moral Society of Rowley and Byfield, established as early as 1814; also a member of the Mass. Missionary Society, and the Merrimack Bible Society. In politics he was a Federalist of the old school and always cast his vote for that party. He was a subscriber to the "Newburyport Herald" from its commencement in 1797. He continued, till near his decease, a journal commenced by his nephew, Dudley Stickney, in 1816, which is now in the possession of the writer: it contains the state of the weather, notices of deaths and daily occurrences.

The property which came to him by inheritance, and which he increased by his industry, was by a series of unavoidable misfortunes nearly swept away before his death. He was a tall, well-proportioned man, with dark brown hair, light blue eyes. He never married, and died in Rowley, Dec. 11, 1846, and was buried in Byfield Cemetery.

DUDLEY STICKNEY, b. in Rowley, First Parish, May 11, bapt. in Byfield, Aug. 14, 1774; m. in Topsfield, March 2, 1797, by Rev. Asahel Huntington, to Elizabeth, dau. of Charles and Elizabeth (Fowler) Davis. She was b. May 20, 1774, and d. Oct. 25, 1808, of consumption, in Belfast, Me., where she was buried. He m. 2d, in Belfast, Me., June, 1811, Anna, the widow of John Taggart, and dau. of William and Mary (Mitchell) Patterson of Belfast. She was b. Oct. 23, 1786, and m. after his death, in Paris, Me., Nov., 1861, Henry Davis. He died and she is living (1869) with her dau., Mrs. Sarah M. Larrabee, at Livermore, Me.

Dudley Stickney was born in the house erected by his grandfather in 1735. He worked with his father on the farm, keeping a journal of daily occurrences. On his becoming of age he received his portion of his father's estate, and purchased in Topsfield a farm, and built upon it a house, in which his eldest son, Dudley, was born, and where he resided until about May 20, 1800, when he, of Rowley, buys of Samuel Johnson of Rowley, and Susannah, his wife, for $1,281.20, a farm of 55 acres (the ancient homestead of that family), in the second parish of Rowley. [Essex Deeds, 175: 37.] Here he erected a new house.

His wife's connections having removed to what is now Montville, Me., he also decided to settle at Belfast, near by, and accordingly sold Aug. 24, 1804, to Moses Dole, Jr. of Rowley, for $2,100, four tracts of land in Rowley, with buildings thereon. First tract contains 90 rods, with a dwelling-house thereon, on the road leading from Byfield to West Parish in Rowley; second piece of five acres; third piece of 6¾ acres, bounded on his father, Jedediah Stickney's land; fourth piece, 2 acres in South Grove, in Rowley. [Ibid, 175: 40.]

June 12, 1805. He buys of James Badger of Belfast, Hancock Co., Mass., and Anna, his wife, for $100, "land near Sandy Beach in said Belfast, being part of lot No. 35, of the first division of lots, and is bounded on W. end of Samuel Parkman's house, thence W., parallel with the sides of said house, 60 feet to a stake and stones, and holding the full width of said house, which is 36 feet, containing 8 square rods." [Hancock Deeds, 16: 400.]

June 14, 1805. He buys of William Furber of Belfast,

Mass., for $500, a certain tract of land in the plantation of Green, Hancock Co., Mass., bounded, "beginning at a Maple Stump, spotted on four sides, on the S. side of the Maine road leading to Davistown, at the N. W. corner of Joseph Morrisson's land, thence W. as said road runs, and adjoining the same, 100 rods, at right angles to a stake and stones, as the land now in possession of Zebulon March, N. corner of this lot, thence S. one-half mile, adjoining said March's land, to a stake and stones, thence E. 100 rods, to a stake and stones on said Morrisson's line, thence N. adjoining said Morrisson's land, to the bounds first mentioned, containing 100 acres." To have and to hold . . . . with the exception of the right and title of Benjamin Joy of Boston, Suffolk Co.

Nov. 18, 1805. He buys of Henry Knox, Esquire (Major General in the Revolution, and Washington's first Secretary of War), of Thomastown, Lincoln Co., and Lucy, his wife, for $459, "a lot of land in the settlement of Duannbaycook (?), so called, in the Co. of Hancock, District of Maine, containing 100 acres, it being the N. lot, which Benj. Batchelor agreed with said Knox for, in the year 1801, and lies on the S. side of the road leading from Belfast to Davistown, to be surveyed and a plan of made out by Robert Houston, Esq., which plan and survey should be the permanent bond of said lot." Wit. Caroline F. Knox. [Ibid 19: 301.]

Whilst he was in Belfast, preparing a home for his family, they resided at his parents, in Rowley, where the writer was born. In June of 1806, he removed his family to Belfast, and June 28, 1808, he buys, for $800, of David Gilman and Zebulon March, 200 acres of land adjoining the purchase he made June 14, 1805; also Nov. 29, 1811, he buys a lot on "N. side of Pleasant Street, near Sandy Beach," adjoining the purchase he made June 12, 1805. [Hancock Deeds, 31: 226.]

Oct. 3, 1813. He, of the Plantation of Green, so called, in the District of Maine, Co. of Hancock, yeoman, for $700, buys of Benjamin Joy of Boston, Mass., merchant, and Hannah, his wife, "100 acres of land in said plantation of Green, and adjoining a lot of land which he sold to said STICKNEY." [Ibid, 37: 295.]

He was a merchant in Belfast, engaged in the lumber business, shipping to Salem and Newburyport. In consequence of the obstructions to trade caused by the War of 1812, he removed to his farm at Green's Plantation (of which he was a large proprietor), and with others procured its incorporation in 1814, by the name of Belmont, and was that year commissioned by Gov. Caleb Strong, its first Justice of the Peace, and was an acting magistrate for fourteen years.

He "of Belmont, Co. of Hancock, Mass., Esquire, leases the lots or farm on which he, said DUDLEY, now lives, unto Simon Ward, of Montville, Co. of Lincoln, gentleman, for the term of three years, from the last day of Nov. next." Signed July 5, 1814.

He was the owner, Dec. 3, 1821, of 110 acres of land in Hartford, Co. of Oxford, Maine, where he removed in the year 1826, and resided until his decease, May 20, 1834. "He was a man of strict integrity and lived an active and enterprising life. He was tall, well proportioned, of a light complexion, auburn hair and blue eyes."

The writer received the following from his aged aunt Mary Stickney [697], in a letter dated June 6, 1840. "As you were so young when your mother died, and could know but little of her, I will give you a short sketch of her character. She was a person of good judgment, a wise calculator, and I never saw the person that would dispatch so much business in so short a time; good and honest in her dealings, a person of strict integrity, kind and affectionate to her friends. She was a most excellent wife and mother, and was beloved by our family as an own daughter and sister. Added to all her other virtues I believe she was a sincere christian; she made public profession of religion, and joined Rev. Isaac Braman's church, July 6, 1800. She gave particular directions respecting her funeral, and died in peace in the thirty-fifth year of her age. She was not above the middle stature, very slender, her complexion very fair and delicate, her features rather large, her hair light brown, large bright blue eyes, her countenance open, artless, and when lighted up with a smile perfectly pleasing and engaging, her voice clear and pleasant, her speech good, her actions rapid but easy."

Six children:—

1636. Dudley, b. Nov. 4, 1798; d. unm. Oct. 30, 1829.

1638. Thomas, b. April 18, 1812; m. Louisa Larrabee, March 30, 1844.
1639. Guilford, b. May 5, 1821; m. Hannah H. Pettengill, Oct. 20, 1846.
1640. Sarah Maria, b. July 8, 1823; m. Davis Larrabee, May 24, 1846.
1641. Eliza Anna, b. April 28, 1829; m. Israel Larrabee, April 3, 1854.

—700.—

SOLOMON STICKNEY was b. in Rowley, First Parish, June 29, 1778, on the homestead, and in the house erected by his grandfather, Samuel Stickney, and was bapt. in Byfield, Nov. 8, 1778; never married.

About the year 1800 extensive repairs were made upon the house, which he superintended, and about the same time erected a large two story building near the house, standing on the brow of the hill which formed the valley in which they lived. In the southerly lower part he kept a grocery store, transacting probably as much business as any other person in the town. He also did considerable at manufacturing shoes (before its commencement at Haverhill), for which he found a market at Newburyport, exchanging them with Merritt & Co., and Gen. John Peabody, for West India Goods, with which he supplied the store and paid his workmen.

He also consigned many to his brother, Dudley Stickney, at Belfast, District of Maine, and received in return cargoes of lumber, which he had freighted to Salem and Newburyport. His business continued prosperous until the commencement of the difficulties between England and this country in 1812, which resulted in war and caused a stagnation of business, and the failure of those who owed him largely. On the morning of the 25th of Feb., 1812, his store with all its contents, was consumed by fire. At that time it was not customary to insure property and his friends generously made up a part of his loss, by contributions amounting to a thousand dollars. He soon after rebuilt the store on the same site, and continued the manufactory of shoes, and was in active business for many years, but was continually meeting with losses from different individuals, which amounted to over twenty thousand dollars.

He introduced the seeds of new kinds of corn, potatoes, turnips, etc., attempted the cultivation of hops, planted several acres of land, with the seeds of forest trees and also a nursery of Apple and Pear trees. He connected himself with the church in Byfield, May 18, 1800, of which he was an active member. As a delegate to an ordination in New York, he accompanied Rev. Elijah Parish, on horseback, visiting Saratoga and Ballston Springs, of which he wrote home a full description, July 4, 1808. On his return from this journey he brought with him a four wheel light wagon, the first seen in Rowley. April 28, 1819, the church at Byfield voted "that the Pastor, Joseph Emerson, Doctor Cleaveland, Putnam Perley, and SOLOMON STICKNEY, be allowed to open a Sabbath School and appoint instructors;" it commenced May 23. He was an original member of the Merrimack Humane Society, and a constant subscriber to the "Boston Recorder."

He was a man of fine proportions, the usual stature, black hair and eyes, and was a person of great benevolence. He died of consumption, May 17, 1836, and was buried in Byfield.

—717.—

JOHN STICKNEY, b. in Newburyport, Feb. 29, 1783, and bapt. March 7, 1784; never married.

Early in life he was a prominent scholar at Dummer Academy, where he was fitted for college, and entered Harvard, at which he took high rank, graduating A. M. in 1804, and at that period he delivered an oration entitled "Christianity true, because it has the evidence of Prophecy," which is reviewed in the "Emerald," 1807, Vol. 2, p. 414. After leaving college he studied Law with Hon. Samuel Dexter, and was admitted to the Suffolk Bar, 1808, and practiced until about 1820, when he was appointed Teacher of the Boylston School on Fort Hill, which post he held several years. Subsequently he received the appointment of Clerk of the Courts in Boston, in company with Charles Parker, Esq., son of the late Chief Justice Parker, which position he retained until an impaired mind necessitated a resignation, and he spent the evening of his days with his sister, in Newbury, dying Dec. 14, 1833. He was one of the original members of the Anthology Club, and consequently a founder of the Boston Athenæum, of which that was the nucleus, and of which he was a Life Member. He was in person a splendid specimen of fully developed manhood, with finely cut, intellectual features, and though a brilliant scholar he shunned notoriety as a writer. As a reader he was conversant with the best writers of his period, and in conversation both elegant and refined.

THOMAS STICKNEY, b. in Haverhill, Aug. 1, 1777, and bapt. at St. Paul's Church, Newburyport, April 28, 1778; m. at Brookfield, Nov. 7, 1798, Mary, dau. of Rev. Ephraim and Mary (Colman) Ward, who was b. at Brookfield, Nov. 10, 1780. Mary Colman (her mother) was the dau. of Benjamin Colman, Esq., of Boston, and m. Oct. 13, 1777, Rev. Ephraim Ward, who died Feb. 9, 1818, aged 77. She d. Oct. 27, 1809.

Thomas Stickney was a student at Leicester Academy, and in common with his brothers, his father proposed to give him a collegiate education, but he preferred the pursuits of active business. After his marriage he was engaged in business in Boston, but on the death of his grandfather, the Hon. Samuel Blodget, at Manchester, N. H., in 1807, he went to Manchester (then Derryfield), and became either the owner of, or largely interested in the Blodget Estate and Canals at that place. He originated the first manufacturing enterprise other than Blodget's Saw Mills, on the Manchester side of the river, and at a town meeting, held in 1810, was appointed chairman of a committee to procure a change of name for the town. [See Potter's History of Manchester.] He was accustomed to remark that Amoskeag would be the future "Manchester of America," and his sanguine anticipations in regard to the growth of the manufacturing interests there led to the adoption of "Manchester" as the name of the town. He was a man of cheerful disposition and courteous manner, of sanguine temperament and great energy of character. Had his life been spared he might have realized for himself and family the advantages that had been anticipated from his grandfather Blodget's important interests at Amoskeag Falls, but his health was declining during the last year of his life, and he died at Boston, July, 13, 1814, and was buried there in the Granary Burial Ground. His widow died at Baltimore, Md., at her son's, Joseph Henry Stickney, Aug. 28, 1859, and was buried in Green Mount Cemetery, Baltimore.

Six children:—

1684. Harriet, b. Jan. 14, 1801; m. John W. Hubbard, Nov. 5, 1820.

JOSEPH BLODGET STICKNEY, b. in Haverhill, Dec. 18, 1780, and bapt. at St. Paul's Church, Newburyport, Aug. 13, 1781; m. Feb. 3, 1814, Harriet, dau. of Gen. Frederick Grist, of Washington, N. C.

"He was in the Navy early in life, removed to Washington, N. C., in the year 1810, where he remained until 1818, engaged in merchandising. In the spring of that year, he made a horseback tour to the then territory of Alabama, travelling the wilds of the northern and southern portions (by the aid of pocket compass and Indian paths), selecting the latter as his future home. In the autumn of the same year he chartered a vessel, and with his effects and family (wife and one son) sailed for Mobile. There he met with the expatriated French General, Charles Lefebvre, and came up the country as far as Green County, with him, by land; on a tract of land in said County, owned (through Act of Congress) by that accomplished gentleman, he purchased and settled his family, in the spring of 1819. Here he commenced clearing off the timber for planting, with his own servants, and continued the business of cotton planting on the same place, enlarged from time to time, until his death, June 21, 1846, where his remains rest in the hope of a blessed Resurrection."

His widow still lives on the old home place, at Greensboro, Ala., with her son Charles Lefebvre Stickney, who was named for General Lefebvre, who was himself a planter, and the friend and frequent inmate of his father's family, often spending days with them socially, and narrating with much feeling the scenes he had so recently passed through in the campaigns of Napoleon.

HENRY STICKNEY; his memoir as given me by his eldest son, is as follows:—

"Died at Mobile, Ala., on the 1st of May, 1862, much respected and lamented, HENRY STICKNEY, Esq., one of the earliest settlers of Mobile.

He was born at Boston on the 21st of July, 1782, and consequently nearly completed the fourscore years allotted to earthly pilgrimage.

He was the youngest son of the late Thomas Stickney, Esq., first proprietor of the estate known as Mt. Pleasant, in Leicester, Mass., and was left early to contend with the vicissitudes of life. His father, however, on his death bed prophesied a successful future for him, which was comparatively realized. His advantages of education were limited, and often has the writer heard him recount the trials of his youthful years. But indomitable energy, strengthened by correct moral principles, soon enabled him to free himself from the restraints of employment, and not only to become master of his own business but to be the comfort and support of his aged mother, now widowed for the second time.

Removing to Baltimore about the year 1800, where his brother John had already settled, he commenced business on Bowley's Wharf, and in 1817 occupied the store of Charles and Peter Wirgamon, on Spear's Wharf. The lease of this store is still preserved by the writer as a memento.

His mother and sisters Mary and Eliza, resided with him in Baltimore until their respective deaths, and their remains still lie undisturbed in the beautiful old Cemetery of St. Peter's church, of which they were members. The monument erected by the dutiful son and affectionate brother still marks the spot.

During his residence in Baltimore he won the esteem of many friends. He was married on the 6th of Sept., 1810, to Lydia Wells, daughter of Capt. Jesse Fearson of Baltimore. During the War of 1812 and '14, when the attack was made on his adopted city, with enthusiastic patriotism he volunteered to serve in the Artillery Corps called the State Fencibles, commanded by Capt. Jas. Nicholson, and was stationed in Fort McHenry during the bombardment. He was sitting upon a cannon by the side of the lamented Lieut. Clemm, when a shot from the enemy struck the latter and literally severed his body in twain. At the close of the Jackson War, with the Indians at the South, his brother Joseph having visited that section concluded to make a settlement in the new territory of Alabama. His report of the prospects of the new country were so flattering that the enterprise and ambition of Mr. STICKNEY prompted him to relinquish a profitable business in Baltimore, and in the year 1818, in his own vessel, he embarked with his fortune and family, consisting of a wife and three children, for the 'Fairy land' of the times. Mobile was at that period a place of such small importance that he cleared his vessel for 'St. Stephens,' then the only 'port of entry' in Alabama, situated about 100 miles in the interior. Upon arriving at Mobile, however, he concluded to settle there. The appearance of his new home was anything but encouraging, and almost caused his heart to ache with sad thoughts of the comforts, friends and prospects he had left behind, but with pride and energy he pursued his plans, and from that day became identified with the growth and prosperity of Mobile.

The want of society was a great privation to his family, for although enterprising men flocked to the 'New Eldorado,' they generally came without families, and there were not so many as half a dozen white ladies in the town. So barren were the resources of the country, and so unsettled its condition, that he carried in his vessel, together with an ample stock of salable wares, the framework of a store and dwelling, both of which he soon erected and occupied.

In 1819 or '20, he was afflicted with the yellow fever, then periodically prevalent, and with his family, removed temporarily to the town of Winchester, Miss.; whilst there his store and entire contents were destroyed by fire and he never afterwards resumed the mercantile pursuit.

He was the first to erect a brick building which still stands a monument of his enterprise in the city; and always the friend of internal improvement he took a lively interest in the first Railroad enterprise ever started in Mobile.

He held for a number of years the office of City Treasurer, and was frequently County Treasurer, also, both of which offices he always discharged with great fidelity and honor to himself.

Although during his long pilgrimage he did not amass immense wealth, as he might have done had he been more prudent, he left behind him evidences of a frugal industry and a property of considerable value, with a name untarnished with dishonor. He also had the satisfaction of seeing his many children grown up, and all occupying respectable positions in the community in which they live.

His remains lie in the old graveyard, whither he had followed so many of his early associates, most of whom had fallen speedy victims to their pioneer enterprise. Few are living of his age who knew Mobile so long. The esteem which he enjoyed whilst living, and the regret at his death, were fully attested by the large concourse which attended his funeral. Special services were performed on the occasion, in Christ Church (Episcopal). There on the spot where the first Protestant place of worship was erected, and of which he was one of the first and most zealous projectors and trustees, within a few rods of the place where he erected the house he brought from Baltimore, and in full sight of other monuments of his early enterprise, sorrowing hearts poured out their lamentations over 'a good man fallen in Israel.' Two anthems were sung and the full services chanted by a mournful choir, the deep toned organ breathing forth its solemn tones in his name, to

'Welcome the Tomb,
For since Jesus has lain there, I dread not its gloom,
Then sweet be my rest until He bid me arise
To hail Him triumphant—descending the skies.'

For many years he had been a communicant of that church, and his last words were 'I am going home.' Who has not faults? If he had his share, it is the happiness of one who knew him intimately for years to aver that they were fewer than generally fall to the lot of weak mortality, and were far over-balanced by his many virtues, and as the veil of charity falls gracefully over the remembrance of the least of them, outshines the brilliant epitaph, 'Here lies an honest man,' and a christian..

How beautiful the conception, that on that bright May morning while the gay and thoughtless were, for earthly amusement, searching for the early blossoms of spring, a full blown flower was gathered by angels in Paradise."

His widow is living in Mobile, Alabama.

DAVID BELKNAP STICKNEY, b. Jan. 26, 1809; m. March 15, 1839, Julia Ann, dau. of Elijah Purdy. She was b. June 6, 1821. He writes that:—

"When about seventeen years of age, I was sent to the Academy at Montgomery, and subsequently studied the medical profession, attended lectures at Fairfield, Herkimer Co., N. Y.; graduated in 1831. I first went to a place called Tafton, in Pike Co., Pa., where I practiced some six years; emigrated to Ohio in 1838; stayed some two years in Holmes County, where I married. I then went to Morrow Co., located at Chesterville. In the meantime my father having sold his property in Orange Co., N. Y., emigrated to Ohio, bought a farm near Chesterville. He being aged and infirm, and my youngest brother John being too young to manage the farm, and I having become somewhat tired of the profession, I moved on and took charge of the farm, and after my father's death I became the owner.

This farm I sold in 1859, moved into Allen Co. Ohio, located at a place called Acadia, where I kept the Post-office and did a little at my medical profession. I could probably have spent my remaining days in comparative ease and comfort, but believing it is the duty of parents to look to the future welfare of their children, and ought to make all due sacrifice to do so, I left Ohio, in 1864, staid one year in Kansas, when the war being over I removed to South-west Missouri, and purchased such an estate as will make three good farms for my three sons, and reasonable portions for my daughters.

I am located (1866) at Marion, Jasper Co., Missouri, in a pleasant country, a delightful climate, and land of great fertility; all kinds of fruit grow to perfection, grapes of a great variety grow natural, and I do not doubt a great deal of wine will be made in this vicinity in a few years. Water of an excellent quality is abundant, timber is plenty, and it is as healthy as any country I ever lived in. The country is fast being settled by northern men. I live on the Buck branch of Spring River, about two miles from the main river."

To Dr. STICKNEY I am indebted for not only the record, but memoirs of nearly all the descendants of his grandfather, James Stickney [122], who in early life left New England and became one of the original proprietors of Newburgh, N. Y., in 1766.

It was thought that he should study the legal profession; he was, therefore, early put to a school, and Sept. 9, 1836, entered Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., and graduated in 1839. His address being "Equitable Union," which was printed in pamphlet form, and a copy of which is in the New York State Library. He spent about a year in the office of Judge Suffran, Rockland Co., New York. His health failing, he then went to Vicksburg, Miss., and taught school some two years; he then went to Shreveport, La., where he remained several years. He next returned to Chicago, Ill., and with his brother, Chauncey, purchased a lumber establishment in Michigan, and also established a lumber yard in Chicago; but the business not meeting their expectations they sold out. Robert went South again; before the rebellion broke out, bought salt-works in Arkansas, DAVID DORRANCE STICKNEY, b. at Borreyville, on the Delaware River, in the town of Highland, Sullivan Co., N. Y., Nov. 19, 1811; m. June 6, 1839, Margaret, dau. of Morire and Mary Starne, who was b. at Phila., Pa., Jan. 15, 1816.

He is a carpenter, having worked at his trade in Borreyville, Wurtsboro, Burlingham, Bloomingburg, and Middletown, until he married and settled in Phila., Pa., where he still resides; none of his children have married. This gentleman, to whom I am greatly indebted for records and other information connected with the families, also writes me that "The Stickney Family, my grandfather's descendants, or those of them that I have seen, are about middle height, and rather slim; generally married those of corresponding height, with gray and blue eyes; men and women of good judgment and faithful to promises, but none of the highest order of talents; it is true there are lawyers, preachers, doctors and magistrates, but I see no account of their filling any high place in the nation. Now my grandfather puts me in mind of Abraham that we read of in the Bible, his descendants are very numerous."

Four Children:—

He was engaged for nearly twenty-five years, in Boston, as an extensive produce and wool commission merchant, at Nos. 8 and 9 Chatham Row, and 12 Chatham Street, and was more recently at 65 Chatham Street. He sold out his business there in 1865, to Messrs. W. Hatch and Co., and went to New York, where he leased the store No. 14 Water Street, and continued his commission business till April, 1867, when he removed with his family to his farm in Henry County, Illinois.

He writes, "As to a business life I never have had any great attachment for or to it; my desire has been to be a farmer. I consider an agricultural life the highest calling there is for a man; all other professions, of whatever name or nature, do not compare with it;" and he is now cultivating his broad acres in the West. This gentleman, in the transaction of his extensive business, visited many parts of the United States. By consulting directories and making enquiries, he has furnished me with the Post Office addresses of a great portion of the Stickneys residing in the West. He was the first of his family to express to me by letter, in 1858, a desire to know more of his ancestors, and has ever since taken a deep interest in the work which he has forwarded to the best of his ability.

WILLIAM STICKNEY, b. in Hallowell, Me., April 17, 1799; m. Oct. 21, 1828, Caroline Judith, dau. of Nathan Moody of Byfield, Mass. She was b. April 22, 1809, and d. in Hallowell, Nov. 19, 1853. [Gravestone.] He with his wife, became, in 1840, life members of the Maine Missionary Society.

He was a merchant in Hallowell, Me., where he died March 1, 1868.

The following obituary was taken from the "Congregationalist and Boston Recorder," March 26, 1868:

"By the death of Mr. STICKNEY, the community in which he lived has been bereft of one of its most esteemed citizens, and the Congregational Church, a prominent and dearly beloved member. His character was one of singular purity. During a long and active business life, passed in his native place, he enjoyed universal confidence and love. Highly exemplary in the more private relations of life he adorned the doctrine of the Saviour in the world. So manifestly upright were all his dealings that no man, it is generally said, was ever heard to charge him with a wrong. Modest and humble he uniformly declined alike civil and ecclesiastical office, but his example showed how honorable the private station may be made by virtue. He became a member of the South Church in early manhood, and for nearly forty years stood a faithful witness, a liberal supporter and an active promoter of the cause of Christ.

The poor have lost in him a sympathizing friend and generous benefactor. He took a deep interest in all Christian enterprises, and freely contributed to their support. His place in the Sabbath School and in the social meeting was never vacant, except upon the rare occasions when some imperative hindrance had occurred. While loving all the friends of Christ he cherished for the Church, with which he was connected, a warm affection, that ended only with his life. The last words which he uttered on earth were expressive of this affectionate interest. His death was felt as a personal loss by those of every class. Seldom are evidences of so deep and universal sorrow manifested for a private citizen. Esteemed and beloved among men he gave ground for strong confidence that he has gone to receive the crown of righteousness laid up for the faithful servants of Christ.

C. G. M."

WILLIAM STICKNEY, b. in Newburyport, June 25, 1784; called himself Albert Alonzo, as there were so many Williams in Newburyport; m. there by Rev. Mr. Milton, Feb. 4, 1810, to Margaret Muzzey, dau. of Thomas and Prudence (Stickney) Evans [493], who was born Sept. 16, 1789, and d. in Newburyport, Jan. 15, 1830.

At an early age he was apprenticed to Mr. Daniel Haskell, to learn the saddle and harness maker's trade; after gaining a sufficient knowledge of those branches he went to Belville, two and a half miles distant, to learn chaise-trimming, which was the other branch, though distinct from it.

In Jan. of 1808, he was working at his trade in Amesbury, and in Sept. of the same year, went to Haverhill, continuing there until the spring of 1809, from thence he came again to Belville, and worked with the Messrs. Wigglesworth, until he was married. He continued at Belville through the summer, and in the autumn took a house there, and thought of moving, but a rumor of a War with England vetoed this movement. All business was paralyzed. His uncle, Capt. Jeremy Stickney [681], in part owner and commander of ship "Echo," wished him to go to sea with him one voyage; he went to Cadiz. The next voyage (in 1811) he made to Liverpool, but on his third voyage the vessel was wrecked; officers and crew saved. After his arrival home he volunteered to go out in the Sloop of War "Volant," built by Abner Wood and others for Christophe in the Revolution of St. Domingo; but he failing to send the money for her purchase the owners fitted her out with a letter of marque. She carried fourteen guns on a side, and a long gun at her stern; commanded by Capt. Bartlett, Mr. STICKNEY being Second Lieutenant. They sailed with every prospect of success, accomplished their voyage, but when they were within one day's sail of home, was captured by his British Majesty's ship "Plumper," and carried into Halifax; vessel and goods sold and officers and crew thrown into Mill Prison. In about a year they were exchanged as there was no work to be done. His uncle Stone, commander of ship "Wallace," offered him the office of first mate of the ship; he accepted it and sailed for Portugal. While there he acquired a knowledge of the Portuguese language. From thence he went to France; there he acquired the French language, in part, while waiting for freight. His uncle brought two French boys home to be educated; from them he acquired the full pronunciation, and could speak French like a native. Their names were Archie St. Clair, who did not live long, and Edwana Du Frande, who completed his education, took the name of Edward D. Thomas, and always remained in this country.

In 1820, he left the "Wallace," preferring to make shorter voyages; he went to Portsmouth, N. H., and sailed with Capt. Patten in the brig "Susan." He was with him some two or three years, when he took the command of a large brig, the "Eliza and Jane," owned by Capt. Varina and others, who had several vessels in their employ, and continued in her until his death, Sept. 17, 1828.

DUDLEY STICKNEY, b. in Topsfield, Nov. 4, 1798; bapt. in Rowley, by Rev. Isaac Braman, July 6, 1800; never married.

He removed with his father to Belfast, Me., and became a student at the Belfast Academy where he continued until Oct. 14, 1815. Soon after he visited Rowley and became a clerk and assistant in the store of his uncle, Solomon Stickney, where he remained until he removed, in 1823, to Danvers.

His childhood, youth and manhood, were graced with that fervor of devotion, that love for his Redeemer, which made him not only beloved by his associates, but which rendered his life one of exceeding usefulness. At the age of fourteen he commenced a journal which was continued until the close of life. In that journal, intended for his own perusal only, may be found the secret of his eminently holy life, the breathings of a soul after closer and sweeter communion with his God and Saviour.

He united with the Orthodox Congregational Church in Byfield, Sept. 17, 1820. During this year and the following he attended Dummer Academy, to prepare for College, intending to devote his life to the sacred ministry. While there he was instrumental in forming a Society, to be called "The Religious Society of Dummer Academy."

He was of a delicate physical constitution, predisposed to consumption, and his intense application to his studies caused a dangerous sickness, which obliged him to relinquish all thoughts of obtaining a collegiate education.

He, however, so far recovered his health as to be able to teach school in Essex and Bradford. On the 28th of July, 1823, he became an instructor in the first District School in Danvers, where he continued until May, 1828, when failing health compelled him to resign and remove to Portsmouth, N. H., where he opened a Religious Book Store.

At the urgent solicitation of his friends he relinquished his business in Portsmouth, and returned to Danvers in the fall of 1828, where he resumed the instruction of his former school. He was chosen President of the Danvers Lyceum at its organization, and delivered among others, the introductory address, Dec. 16, 1828.

He died of consumption, Oct. 30, 1829, at the residence of his uncle in Rowley, after a sickness of a few weeks. At his funeral, from Byfield Church, on the 3d of Nov., a discourse was delivered by the Rev. John P. Cleaveland, Pastor of the Tabernacle Church in Salem. A marble tablet marks his grave in Byfield Cemetery.

—1688.—

JOSEPH HENRY STICKNEY, b. at West Brookfield, Worcester Co., Mass., Aug. 6, 1811, served an apprenticeship at the importing hardware business in Boston. After passing about a year in New York, went to Baltimore, and in 1834 engaged in the commission business as an agent for the manufacturers of iron and hardware in the New England and other states, representing at one time a hundred and twenty different manufacturing establishments, and being the first to establish successfully the American Hardware as a distinct branch of business in that city. This was gradually changed to a foreign and domestic iron, and a coal shipping business, as having less detail, which in connection with manufacturing of pig iron in Baltimore, is at the date of this writing, still continued under the firm of Stickney & Co.

Mr. STICKNEY is descended on the female side, from a long line of worthy ancestors, among whom might be mentioned Col. Jonathan Wade of Ipswich; Col. Joshua Wingate of Hampton, N. H., his great-great-grandfather; Rev. Ephraim Ward of Brookfield; Judge Samuel Blodget of Manchester, N. H., his great-grandfather, to whose memory he has erected a granite monument in the Valley Cemetery of that city. He has in his possession a sketch of the Blodget House and Canal at Manchester, made by his father, Mr. Thomas Stickney, in 1810.

Mr. STICKNEY sailed for Europe in 1852, and during that and the following year, visited most of the countries of Europe. From Mrs. Sarah Ellis, residing near London, formerly Miss Sarah Stickney, an authoress of some repute in England and America (now the wife of Rev. William Ellis, of the London Missionary Society, author of the well known work on Madagascar), he obtained interesting information in regard to her ancestors, who had lived over two hundred years at their well known hospitable mansion near Hull.

Mr. STICKNEY's fine taste and liberality has been freely extended to the encouragement of works of art and historic research, and his great respect for the memory of his ancestors prompted him to contribute to the monument erected in Rowley in 1865, over the remains of William Stickney, the emigrant ancestor, and to the preparation and publication of this work.

GEORGE WALDO STICKNEY, b. in Mobile, Ala., March 31, 1829; m. in St. Luke's Church, New Orleans, La., April 29, 1858, by the Rt. Rev. Leonidas Polk, to Mary Lee, eldest dau. of Rev. Chaplin Southwood (of St. Luke's Church), and Mary Robertson (Lee) Hedges. She was b. in Jefferson Barracks, Mo., May 1, 1840, bapt. by Bishop Kemper, Nov., 1840, and d. in New Orleans, Jan. 6, 1868.

He was baptized by the Rev. Norman Pinney. At the age of fourteen years was confirmed by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Polk, and was admitted to the Holy Communion. His attention was now directed to the Holy Ministry, but circumstances beyond his control, preventing for a season, the consummation of his desire, he spent the four following years in business.

During the fourth year, and while thus employed, the wish to devote his life to the sacred office returning with increased force, he commenced the study of the Greek language. A relative observing this and the bent of his mind, offered to assist him in obtaining an education, and giving up his business engagements he entered the Diocesan School in Tuscaloosa, Ala., of which he subsequently became a tutor as well as pupil.

In the summer of 1851, he was accepted as a candidate for Holy Orders, in the Protestant Episcopal Church, in the Diocese of Alabama, and opened a private school in the town of Greensboro, where he remained until a change of residence to St. Timothy's Hall, Baltimore, was made, and a position was obtained and held for a year as tutor.

In 1852 he entered the General Theological Seminary in the City of New York, from which he graduated in 1855. He was ordained by the Bishop of Alabama to the Holy Order of Deacons, in St. Paul's Church, Greensboro, on the 13th day of May, 1855.

During his Diaconate, he served as assistant to the Rev. B. B. Leacock, at the same time having charge of the colored congregation of the Church of the Good Shepherd. On the 26th of Sept., 1856, he was ordained to the Holy Priesthood, in St. John's Church, Montgomery, Ala. After his marriage, he became Rector of St. Matthew's Church, Houma, La. At the present time he is Rector of St. John's Church, Wilmington, North Carolina.

JEREMIAH CHAPLIN STICKNEY, b. in Rowley, Jan.

6, 1805; was m. in Salem, by Rt. Rev. Alexander V. Griswold, Dec. 25, 1829, to Anna, dau. of John Frazier of Philadelphia, Pa. She was b. in Philadelphia, May 19, 1804.

After leaving Bradford Academy, in 1818, he entered the Latin School in Salem, then under the charge of Masters Day and Oliver (Gen. H. K. O.), and in 1820, the Freshman Class at Harvard University, at the same time with David Roberts, late Mayor of Salem, and Augustus Torrey, now a Physician of Beverly (these three being the first students prepared for College at the Latin School). They were graduated at Cambridge in 1824.

On leaving College he entered the Law Office of the late Judge Cummins, when he also commenced a course of ancient and modern history, which he pursued with diligence for a long time. He next turned his attention to political economy, which then occupied a large space in the public mind, both theoretically and practically. The subjects of Tariff and Free Trade soon became the absorbing themes of the public press, and of general discussion. Into these he entered with great zeal, and made them the subjects of discussion in the "Gazette" and "Register," and also in the Young Men's Debating Society, and at the meetings of the Literary Club (a society composed of professional gentlemen), both of which societies he was instrumental in founding.

From these various causes, on being admitted to the Bar in 1827, he found himself already well versed in public speaking; he removed to Lynn and commenced upon the duties of the profession, having remained there ever since, engaged in an extensive and laborious practice. He never found it for his interest or happiness to seek any change of place or business. In 1826, '7, before being admitted to the Bar, when the amalgamation of the old political parties was preparing the way for the election of John Q. Adams to the Presidency, he entered upon the arena of politics, and being born of a democratic family, and strongly imbued with its principles, he strenuously opposed the election of Mr. Adams, both by speaking and writing, and soon found himself in the political ranks of Gen. Jackson, and on his accession to the Presidency in 1829, received through him the appointment of Postmaster of Lynn, and subsequently was offered the U. S. District Attorneyship in Boston, but on consultation with an old and honored friend, Judge Cummins, and Mr. Saltonstall, he declined the latter and more honorable position, preferring to remain in Essex County and take his chance of professional success there, rather than be limited to the official practice in the U. S. Courts. He remained Postmaster till 1839–40, and then in obedience to the democratic doctrine of rotation in office, voluntarily surrendered it to another.

During all this time he was obliged from his position, as well as his inclination, to take an active and prominent part in the politics of the day, and from time to time to enjoy the doubtful honor of being the unsuccessful candidate of the minority party, for Congress, etc. His political association, however, often brought him into acquaintance with many of the leading men of the time; among others, with Presidents Jackson, Van Buren and Polk; Gen. Cass, Col. Benton, Mr. Richard Rush, Henry Clay, Gov. Morton, George Bancroft, and a host of others of more or less distinction and celebrity. He also had the honor conferred upon him by the citizens of Lynn, to receive and welcome to that place, Presidents Jackson and Polk, Mr. Clay and Col. Benton.

In 1839 and '40, he was elected to the Mass. House of Representatives and served there two years, having acquired some distinction as a legislator and public speaker. The leading measures of the Legislature for these two years, were, the changing the basis of representation in the State Senate, and the sustaining of the temperance law of 1838. In both these questions he was made to stand the brunt of the battle, and though opposed by most of the leading men of the majority party (the Democrats being a meagre minority in the Legislature), succeeded in carrying through both measures triumphantly.

From this period, down to 1847, he devoted himself exclusively to the Law. Finding his health giving way under the pressure of professional business, in 1847, he removed from his residence on Lynn Common, to Forest Place, and there divided his time between Law and Horticulture, pursuing the first for profit and the last for health and amusement, till, in 1853, he was called by President Pierce to take charge of the Lynn Post Office a second time, which he held till 1858, doing occasional service in the Democratic party till President Buchanan's pro-slavery requirements led him to oppose some of his measures, and thus to forfeit any claim to a renewal of his commission. Since that time he has taken no part in politics, further than to support by his vote President Lincoln and his administration, and to vote for Gen. Grant.

At Lynn he still continued writing for the public through the columns of the "Lynn Mirror," the first newspaper printed in Lynn, and upon the establishment of the "Essex Democrat," he furnished many communications, and for a time most of its editorial matter. He also got up a debating society, and did his share in sustaining it for a long term. When the system of lecturing and of lyceums superseded the debating clubs, he found himself obliged, occasionally, to do service in that line, both by delivering public lectures, and as presiding officer.

As a general thing he has devoted himself fully to the profession, making Law the rule, and Politics the exception. On taking the Post-office, in 1853, with its greatly increased business and duties, he found himself obliged to restrict his practice to Lynn and its immediate vicinity, and to forego the trials of cases in the County Courts, and since that time has acted accordingly.

It is with deep regret, I add to this gentleman's record, his decease after a week's illness, at his residence, Forest Place, Lynn, Aug. 3, 1869. He was one of the oldest living members of the Essex Bar, and his death is regretted by the whole community, whose respect he had gained.

JOSEPH HALE STICKNEY, b. in Lowell, Nov. 21, 1841; d. in Williamstown, Nov. 9, 1858, a member of the Freshman Class of Williams College. Two discourses were delivered at the funeral of this promising young man, which, with the following memoir of him by Mr. Charles C. Chase, were printed for private distribution:

"So deeply have the sympathies of the community been moved by the death of this beloved young man, and in so many minds has he left a precious memory, that, as his principal teacher for the last four years, I shall be pardoned for adding to what has already been said, another tribute of respect and love.

Upon entering the High School, young Stickney, though then but a small boy, was immediately recognized as one of the leading scholars in his class. Such was the clearness of his mind, the elegance of his manners, the amiableness of his temper, and the refinement of his moral sensibilities, that he very early elicited both our affection and our pride.

I do not recall a single departure, in his intercourse with me, from that kindness and courtesy, for which he was uniformly distinguished. I can, however, never forget one occasion, on which, when yet quite young, his own nice moral sense having detected in himself some act which he thought amiss, he remained after school, and with admirable frankness, unburdened to me his heart, dropping a tear as he confessed the wrong.

The high hopes which he thus early encouraged us to indulge he never disappointed. As the close of his preparatory course approached, he exhibited a symmetry and manliness both of physical and mental development which seemed to his friends a pledge of a bright and successful future.

Upon entering college and being called upon to appear upon a new stage, and among new associates, his correct scholarship and elegant diction, soon made their mark in the recitation room, and I am assured that he was already recognized, prospectively, as 'the first scholar in his class.'

From these high hopes how sadly and suddenly has he been called away. The many and earnest prayers of the young classmates who had just begun to know and love him, and of the friends who had long been bound to him by the tenderest ties — all that professional skill and parental love could do, did not avail to change the wise, but inscrutable purpose of God.

But his death-bed was hallowed with pleasant memories. The same smile which, from early boyhood, had ever added a charm to his winning manners, played still serenely about his lips. Though burdened with a sense of sin, he felt the sustaining power of the gracious presence and the forgiving love of God. As his father, one morning, approached his bedside, he said, 'Father, I think I have found the Saviour precious to my soul, and I should like to live to do something for Him, but I know I shall not.' In the watches of the night he had communed with that blessed Redeemer, and, as the morning came, the rays of heavenly love had dawned upon his soul. Thus resigned and sustained, his spirit passed away."

Resolutions were passed by the Freshman Class of Williams College, Nov. 9th, 1858, testifying to his worth and the affection they bore to him, a copy of which was forwarded to his family.

697. Mary[6], bapt. April 9, 1769, in Rowley, and died unm., April 26, 1859, aged over 90 years. She was gifted with a remarkable memory, a characteristic of her family, and from her youth was a great reader, and could repeat from memory, most of the Bible, the works of Milton, Young, and others. She was of a peaceable and retiring disposition, and lived a christian life, beloved by young and old. She was of the medium height and had brown hair and blue eyes. In 1840, at the request of the writer, she furnished an outline of a genealogy of her ancestors (from Amos, who died in 1678, son of the first settler in N. E.). with the personal appearance and character of many of the family. She writes: — "My brother Thomas [698] informed me that you desired some account of our ancestors, and the several branches of the families descending from them. I found it to be an arduous task to call to memory so many generations, with all their descendants, almost to the present time. I believe you may depend on the correctness of what I have written (forty-five pages). Many of these persons I was intimately acquainted with, the rest I had from persons of undoubted integrity. You need not be ashamed of your ancestors; they were as respectable as the generality of people. All the help I have had is from my brother; he has assisted in finding a few dates and names; the rest I have called to memory in waking hours of the night. Thus I have waded through many generations, and branches of families; the greater part of them are dead, dropt off, like the leaves of autumn; thus one and another generation passeth away. 'Our Fathers, where are they! and the Prophets do not live forever.'"
